House Eyes AFDC

The Congressional Ways and Means Committee has approved the following major changes in AFDC. These new revisions, which are part of the omnibus Social Security Bill, must now be voted on by Congress. If passed, they would take effect October 1, 1967, but would not be mandatory on the states until mid-1969. The changes are:

Every state would have to establish community work and training programs in all areas where there are significant numbers of AFDC cases. Each adult or child over 16 deemed able to work would have to participate in these programs or have their assistance cut off.

Families working could earn $30 a week without having their checks reduced, and the same exemption would apply to one third of their earnings above $30.

Daniel Finn To Head "Model City Program"

Mayor John F. Collins on September 5 announced appointment of Daniel J. Finn to the position of administrator of the "Model City" program for the City of Boston.

In addition to his new post Mr. Finn also is Commissioner of the Housing Inspection Department.

Mayor Collins in announcing Mr. Finn's appointment said:

"I anticipate that a final decision will be forthcoming from Washington concerning the 'Model City' program within the next several weeks. Although no final selection has been made as to which cities will receive the awards, I am confident that Boston will be one of those chosen.

"I believe it is necessary to name the administrator now so that Mr. Finn can begin to work closely with the members of the recently elected community planning council."

The "Model Cities" plan provides for a new program designed to demonstrate how the living environment and the general welfare of people living in blighted areas can be substantially improved. It calls for a comprehensive attack on social, economic, and physical problems in selected blighted areas.

The statute creating the "Model Cities" plan provides financial and technical assistance to enable cities to plan, develop, and carry out comprehensive local programs containing new and imaginative proposals to develop "model" neighborhoods.

Mayor Collins said Mr. Finn "is uniquely qualified to assume this challenging position."

The Mayor said:

"For the past two years Mr. Finn has been the Commissioner of the Housing Inspection Department and has obtained an intimate knowledge of the conditions and problems which exist in the area to be planned for.

"As the Director of the Community Conservation Committee Program, he headed a seven interdepartmental team which planned for a four and one-half million dollar program for community improvement in Jamaica Plain and Dorchester and we expect a federal grant to be forthcoming shortly.

"As the Manpower Administrator for the city, he has been developing a comprehensive program of job development and a great deal of this effort has been directed to the area encompassed by the 'Model City' program.

"Mr. Finn's long experience as an administrator in several state and city departments will be of great value in the development of the comprehensive 'Model City' plan."

States would have to establish programs designed to reduce the incidence of illegitimate births and set up systems for determining paternity of children and to use all laws applicable to obtain child-support.

The states would have to establish day-care services for the children of those mothers who are determined to be able to work or take training.

The number of children on AFDC because of the absence of the father would be frozen at the level of January, 1967, as a proportion of all children in each state. The federal government would then make no payments for any higher proportion. However, the states could if they wished, continue assistance to the larger number of children if they paid the entire cost themselves.

In instances where the father is unemployed and in the home, he would be cut off aid if he refused to accept training or turned down a job.

According to the committee, these changes, if made, would curtail the growth of the AFDC caseload and at the same time make possible a more dignified life for those on the rolls, primarily by getting them into employment.

Building Department, Commissioner's Bulletin No. 5-67

August 21, 1967.

Subject: Rules and Regulations Governing the Taking Down of Buildings or Other Structures.

Consistent with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116 (j) thereof, the following rules and regulations governing the taking down of buildings or other structures are hereby established to become effective this date.

1. INSURANCE. In all contracts negotiated by and involving City of Boston departments the following requirements shall be inserted in said contracts:

"Before commencing performance of this contract, the contractor shall provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under chapter 152 of the General Laws (the Workmen's Compensation Law so called) to all persons to be employed under this contract and shall continue such insurance in full force and effect during the term of this contract. Failure to provide and continue in force such insurance as aforesaid shall be deemed a material breach of this contract and shall operate as an immediate termination hereof. The contractor shall, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, conform to the provisions of section 34A of chapter 149 of the General Laws, which section is incorporated herein by reference and made a part hereof."

Also it is understood that the contractor shall provide for public liability insurance, and sufficient proof of compliance with furnishing of stipulated insurances shall be furnished to every City of Boston department in the form of certificates, all as required.

2. PERMITS AND LICENSES. All work of razing or taking down buildings or other structures shall be performed after receipt of Building Department permit and in accordance with requirements of Building Law and regulations established under the acts mentioned above, in co-operation with Building Department inspectors.

Necessary permits shall be those issued by the Building Department, Public Works Department (sidewalk, hydrant and street permits), and Health Department, all as applicable.

It shall be understood that the application for permit to raze, submitted to the Building Department, shall bear the signature of a licensed wrecker, and that permit card will not be issued until such signature is acquired, and it shall also be understood that for every structure razed the licensed wrecker whose signature appears on the application shall, throughout the length of the operation, supervise the work of razing or wrecking in accordance with these requirements. If the owner or contractor wishes to dispense with the services of the licensed wrecker whose name appears on the application, he may do so by recording in the Building Department prior to the change, on forms provided for this purpose, the name of the licensed wrecker who will continue the supervision of the operation, all in accordance with the requirements of chapter 479, Acts of 1938, as amended, section 120 (d).

3. PROTECTION OF PUBLIC. (a) When directed by Building Department supervisors of construction, through the agency of building inspectors or otherwise, each licensed wrecker who is responsible for the work operation shall erect a properly constructed bridge and a brow and apron in location as directed by authorities mentioned above for the protection of pedestrians and vehicular traffic.

(b) These brows and aprons shall be of sufficient strength to withstand the weight of such building materials as may reasonably be expected to fall upon them during the building demolition.

(c) The bridge shall likewise be constructed of sufficiently heavy materials to support the weight of building materials and debris which may fall upon it during the building demolition.

Each span of the bridge shall be covered with a minimum of 2 inches of planking. (This planking may be part of the building salvage.) The planking shall be overlaid with plywood to make a relatively dust-free and integral structure.

(d) All floor openings not used as material drops shall be covered over, with material substantial enough to support the weight of any workers who may step upon them; such material to be properly secured to prevent its accidental movement. This rule applies when work is being performed manually, unless the floor is sealed off.

(e) Except for the cutting of holes in floors for shutes, holes through which to drop materials, preparation of storage space, and similar necessary preparatory work, the demolition of exterior walls and floor construction shall begin at the top of the structure and proceed downward, and each story of exterior wall and floor construction shall be removed and dropped into the storage space before commencing the removal of exterior floors and walls in the story below. It is essential that suspended ceilings or floors shall be removed from the supporting slabs first.

(f) If so ordered by the commissioner, the wrecker shall be obliged to furnish the services of a uniformed Boston police officer or a special officer on each work operation.

(g) As required by Building and Health Departments of the City of Boston and as directed by proper authorities employed in said departments, practical methods to eliminate the hazard and nuisance of dust must be effected.

That the hazard and nuisance of fire and dust may be coped with, it shall be understood that the licensed wrecker, if so ordered by the Building Commissioner, shall have available sufficient length of fire hose to extend from fire hydrant located in sidewalk and serviced from City of Boston mains to the most remote section of the premises on which structure is being razed, by dimension between fire hydrant and such remote section. For the purpose of this requirement the licensed wrecker shall obtain a permit from the Public Works Department, City of Boston, for the use of hydrant and water from same.

(h) The so-called "wrecking ball" or its equivalent may not be used without the express permission of the Building Commissioner or his duly authorized representative. This permission will be granted only when it can clearly be shown that the use of the "ball" will not cause a large portion of the building to fall as a result of a series of blows and that its shock will not be transmitted to neighboring structures.

(i) Upon completion of razing operations the licensed wrecker shall be obliged to construct a substantial fence at least three rails high with suitable anchorage and posts enclosing that portion of lot or basement and cellar areas not protected by adjacent buildings or other structures.

4. TERMINATION OF SERVICES. The licensed wrecker in charge of work operations shall be held accountable for the permanent termination of services, such as gas, electric, telephone, water, and sewer services, and must make all arrangements whereby same may be accomplished.

5. PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES. Each licensed wrecker shall be held responsible for the safety of all persons employed on his project and shall cause to be erected by a licensed builder or shorer proper shoring of any weakened portion of the structure or building, such as floors, walls, chimneys, trusses, etc., and he shall be obliged to have installed necessary shoring to protect walls of adjoining buildings which are dependent upon the structure being razed for their stability, and to this extent will be required to leave in place shorings and bracings required by the Building Department. Also, if conditions warrant, the licensed wrecker shall not proceed with the work until sufficient ties, either temporary or permanent, are installed to protect adjoining structures, all as directed by the Building Department. Also it shall be understood that in no instance will the licensed wrecker permit the loading of floors beyond their designed capacity.

The licensed wrecker shall furnish proof satisfactory to the Building Commissioner that adjoining walls shall be protected in accordance with the terms of any party wall agreements. In cases in which it is not clear that there is a party wall agreement, the wrecker shall proceed as if there is such agreement until acceptable proof otherwise is given.

When existing chimneys service both the building or buildings to be razed and buildings adjoining, they shall not be disturbed, or when a chimney is so constructed as to afford stability to a wall of an adjoining building whether it services same or not, it shall not be disturbed unless so ordered by the Building Commissioner.

6. EXTENT OF WORK. (a) When a building or structure is to be so razed that no portion of same shall be left standing above the level of the surrounding grades or ground level it shall be understood to include the taking down of all materials including interior masonry walls, masonry piers, masonry and frame partitions, to the cellar or basement grade excepting the exterior foundation walls below the surrounding grade or ground level. Such exterior walls shall remain.

(b) When buildings or other structures are only partially razed the licensed wrecker shall be responsible for the removal of all materials of any description, excepting undisturbed materials, and he shall also be responsible for the installation of proper ties, anchorage, etc., to cause the undisturbed portion of the structure to be left in stable condition satisfactory to Building Department authorities.

(c) Whenever a building or structure is to be removed in whole or in part the licensed wrecker will, before disturbing any supporting or structural member, remove all interior finish, lath, plaster and wall surfaces, and structural member coverings, to make accessible to view for authorized members of the Building Department all parts of the structure. Materials referred to shall be removed from the building before actual razing of the structure or portions of building is started.

7. FILLING EXCAVATIONS. (a) It is a requirement of section 3, chapter 143, General Laws, as amended, that the site of a building or structure which has been demolished or removed shall be filled to a uniform grade with clean and sanitary fill; and that (for private demolitions or removals) a bond running to the City of Boston and conditioned upon such levelling within the required time, shall be filed, unless a permit for the re-use of the land shall have been granted. This requirement of law shall be observed strictly in demolitions or removals which are privately undertaken.

(b) To this end, all applications for demolition or removal of buildings by private parties shall be accompanied by a bond in the sum of not less than $1,000 for each building. A copy of the bond shall be attached to the office copy of the application and no permit (with the exceptions noted below) may be granted unless and until such copy shall have been so attached.

Exceptions:

1. Demolitions or removals by the Building Department or by any other board or officer of the City of Boston or by a contractor acting for them.

2. Demolitions or removals by the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

3. Demolitions or removals on land for which a re-use permit may have been issued. In such cases, the document and date of issue shall be endorsed on the take-down application.

4. Demolitions or removals undertaken by contractors maintaining "blanket bonds" (see below).

(c) In specific cases approved by the commissioner or his authorized representative, responsible wrecking contractors may present "blanket bonds" which will be kept on file. The wrecker in such cases may have only such number of permits outstanding at one time as there are multiples of $1,000 in his blanket bond.

(d) In granting any permit for demolition or removals, it shall be the duty of the person giving final approval (the Deputy Commissioner, the Head of Construction and Safety Division, etc.) to make certain that the bond is attached before the permit is issued.

Building Commissioner.

Sticker Time Again

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin has called attention to the beginning of the fall inspection period for all Massachusetts registered motor vehicles. Inspections will continue until October 15. The inspection sticker is printed in blue on a green background.

More than 3,000 official stations will serve the motoring public and all approved adjusters have been advised of the strict requirements governing inspection of vehicles during this mandatory period. Motorists are urged not to delay in having their vehicles checked for safe driving.

Registrar McLaughlin also directed attention to the seriousness of being involved in the illegal use or procurement of official inspection stickers.

To emphasize his remarks, the Registrar cited a recent case in which the defendant was charged with receiving stolen property—a quantity of stickers which had been stolen in a local community.

"The defendant was successfully prosecuted by Municipal Police and Registry Investigators and the court imposed a fine of $500 as a penalty," said the Registrar.

"The heavy fine is a strong indication of the attitude of our courts and judges in dealing with crimes involving the misuse of official stickers," stated Registrar McLaughlin.

"As in the case referred to, all violations of fraudulent use or possession or illegal affixing to motor vehicles or any other improper act concerning inspection stickers, coming to the attention of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, will result in equally vigorous prosecution and immediate action by the Registrar's office."

Defects Symposium

For the next in a continuing program of professionally oriented presentations dealing with birth defects, the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes will present A Symposium for Physicians at the New England Medical Center Hospital entitled "Chromosomes and Chromosomal Abnormalities."

The conference, to take place on Wednesday, September 13, under the direction of Dr. Murray Feingold, Director of the Boston March of Dimes Evaluation Center, will review recent thinking and advances in chromosomal research. Speaking with Dr. Feingold will be Dr. Leonard Atkins, Chief of the Cytogenetic Laboratory, Massachusetts General Hospital, on the Terminology and Basic Concepts of the Chromosome; Dr. Boris Senior, Chief of Pediatric Endocrinology Service, New England Medical Center Hospitals, speaking on Turner's Syndrome; Dr. Sydney S. Gellis, Pediatrician-in-Chief, New England Medical Center Hospitals, presenting a Clinical Review of Chromosomal Abnormalities; and

Dr. Peter Neurath (Ph.D.), Chief Biophysicist, New England Medical Center Hospitals, on the Computer and its use and Potentiality in Chromosomal Research.

For additional information concerning this and other March of Dimes services, contact the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes at 2 Park square, Boston 02116.

"New Mod Out"

An Associated Press dispatch from Charlotte, North Carolina, reported the local welfare department's provocative directive banning the "new mod" look from the office. The article stated:

Women employees of the Mecklenburg County Welfare Department have been told to take the sexy look out of social work.

The department director said short skirts, long hair, and tight clothes are out. His directive said the well-dressed caseworker will wear "clothes that are neither too tight nor transparent as to expose the figure, blouses or dresses with collars so as not to expose or emphasize bosoms, skirts long enough at least to mid kneecap, to permit proper sitting and to avoid the little girl look."

Also the hairdo must be above the shoulders and preferably about the earlobes.

Any questions?

"Negative No"

A recent Harris survey published indicated that the general public is opposed to the concept of a negative income tax system under which the government would pay each family earning less than $3,000 enough to bring its income up to that figure.

Opposition to the idea centered on the view that government welfare costs already are too high and that subsidy payments to the poor would encourage "free-loading". Proponents of the idea adopted the view that all people should live decently and that many simply cannot make ends meet under present conditions.

New Closing Hours

The Boston Liquor Licensing Board has voted to permit extended closing hours on Sundays for establishments holding a liquor license. Under the new law Saturday night closing hours are extended until 1 A.M. Sunday.

The new hours became effective Sunday, August 27, following a minor controversy regarding the effective date of the new law.

The bill permitting this was signed into law by Governor John Volpe at the end of May. Under Massachusetts law the bill becomes law 90 days after the signing; this made August 27 the target date.

Under provisions of the bill each local licensing authority may determine whether to permit the longer hours in its jurisdiction or not. The difficulty that arose stemmed from differences of opinion regarding interpretation of the 90-day provision.

The question was whether the law may be put into effect on the 90th day after the signing or whether the 90th day had to pass before the measure could be enacted.

If September 3 rather than August 27 had become the first Sunday on which bars could operate for a longer period, then cocktail lounge operators stood to lose a substantial amount of potential revenue from the American Legion convention then meeting in Boston.

In other action, the Licensing Board made an exception to one of its rulings for the second consecutive year and will allow liquor to be served during normal operating hours on Primary Day, September 26.

The vote of the Board was unanimous.

Chardon St. Building

A multimillion dollar five-story office building will be built in the Government Center in Boston on Chardon street. The building which will be leased to the U. S. Post Office Department and the Royal Globe Insurance Company will contain more than 100,000 square feet and is expected to be ready for occupancy in mid-1968.

Dial-A-Dietitian

Dial-A-Dietitian, a public service offered by the Massachusetts Dietetic Association, has a new telephone number 262-6085 and the calling hours have been extended to 10 A.M. to 5 P.M., Monday through Friday.

The service provides sound information on normal nutrition. All callers receive answers to their questions, by telephone, by trained dietitians who have volunteered their services. The aim of the program is to answer questions on normal nutrition and to become a reliable source in guiding the public to information agencies and to the allied professional services needed.

Candy Stripers Honored

Last week 23 "Candy Stripers" were presented their American Hospital Association volunteer award pins at Boston City Hospital by Dr. James V. Sacchetti, Deputy Commissioner of the Department of Health and Hospitals.

"Candy Stripers" are girls between the ages of 14 and 16 who participate in the volunteer program at the hospital by assisting in various departments and areas of patient care where they can be helpful. Their uniform is a distinctive pink and white striped dress.

Each of the girls who participated in the summer volunteer program at Boston City Hospital served more than 100 hours. Receiving a special pin was 14-year-old Wanda Woodford, 16 Fermoy Heights avenue, Dorchester, who served 200 hours. She attends the Solomon Lewenberg Junior High School.

Presiding at the ceremonies was Mrs. Alice M. Lyons, Assistant Deputy Commissioner in charge of the hospital's volunteer program. Mrs. Lyons said that "besides filling a community need, the 'Candy Stripers' program gave the girls new insights and experience. In addition the girls made new friends, and in helping others always had a feeling of self-fulfillment. I am sure these young ladies are proud to say that they spent their vacation doing a valuable service for their community."

Addressing the "Candy Stripers," Dr. Sacchetti said, "It is wholesome and a credit to you young ladies to have given up the pleasures of vacation to contribute towards the functioning of the hospital in its obligation to care for patients. The exposure you have had here we hope will inspire you to the value, need, and satisfaction of doing hospital work."

Popular Trail

Boston's historic Freedom Trail has grown steadily over the past ten years in popularity. In 1957 the sites had a total of about 20,000 visitors annually, in 1967 the total is expected to reach close to 125,000. Visitors from all corners of the United States and the world have passed through such historic shrines as the Old North Church, Paul Revere House, and the U.S.S. "Constitution."

Expo '67 in Montreal has had a great effect on Boston this year. Visitors have included Boston and Expo and in many instances this is their first visit to the city and it was prompted by Expo.

The Freedom Trail Foundation and the Public Works Department of the City of Boston have succeeded in marking the Trail most successfully this year. A continuous red line has been painted the entire length of the Trail. This has enabled many more visitors to find their way very easily over Boston's confusing streets.

The Boston Visitor Information Center on the Common has helped over 150,000 visitors to enjoy their visit to Boston with information on the Freedom Trail, sight-seeing, hotels, and restaurants.

ODD-FIXING?

When columnist Charles McHarry mentioned that men and women use different techniques for striking matches, Ernest A. Safford wrote: "Actually, a man strikes a match toward himself and a woman strikes it away from herself. Don't just take my word for this. Watch a thousand people light a match and you'll see. And may I suggest you watch in the proportion of nine women to one man. Your research will be more enjoyable this way."

New Health Program

The Tufts-New England Medical Center will undertake an experimental health program for children in kindergartens through grade three in two neighborhood schools, the Quincy and Abraham Lincoln, under a grant of $110,000 from the U. S. Office of Education.

Knowledge gained from this project will be incorporated into the Center's planning of total health care for pupils in the new Quincy School scheduled to be built in the South Cove area, between Washington street and Shawmut avenue.

The project is being conducted in close cooperation with the Boston School Department. Monthly meetings take place in the Center's planning office, where the interests of all parties involved—South Cove Community, Boston Redevelopment Authority, School Department and Medical Center—are coordinated.

Not only is this a first step toward a broader involvement of the Center in community medical and dental education but it also will strengthen the role of the Floating Hospital in training physicians to meet school health problems.

Codirectors of the effort are Hermann H. Field, A.I.A., Director of the Tufts-New England Medical Center Planning Office, and Dr. Sydney S. Gellis, Pediatrician-in-Chief of the Floating Hospital.

School Repairs and Alterations Planned for 197 Boston Schools, Says Chief Structural Engineer

Chief Structural Engineer of the Department of Planning and Engineering, Anthony L. Galeota, is a firm advocate of planned programming in the alteration and repair of Boston's 197 school buildings.

Mr. Galeota stated recently that for the first time in history Boston schools can be rebuilt from within. We are using this opportunity to permit direct participation of all parties concerned: administrators, head masters and principals, school custodians, and all who oversee the health and welfare of pupils and teachers. From this point, alterations and repairs to school property will be based on two considerations:

1. Immediate needs as the occasion arises.
2. A view toward preventive maintenance based on the old adage—"A stitch in time saves nine."

The Chief Engineer explained, "On October 3, 1966, chapter 642 of the Acts of 1966 became law. Under this statute, the functions of the former Department of School Buildings were distributed. The construction of new school buildings became the duty of the City of Boston Department of Public Facilities; and the alterations and repairs, both minor and major, became the responsibility of the School Department.

"The School Committee took the necessary action and established the Department of Planning and Engineering under the Chief Structural Engineer. This gave the School Committee, through its Chief Structural Engineer, the ability to make the final decision as to the manner of expenditure of funds for the alterations and repair of the school plant.

"In the summer of 1967, the School Committee requested and received favorable action from the Mayor and the City Council on a $1,000,000 bond appropriation for extraordinary repairs to its schools, in addition to its annual appropriation."

The accomplishments of the Department of Planning and Engineering in the school year 1966-1967 were extensive. Primarily, the office assisted the new Department of Public Facilities in its responsibility of completing new schools commenced by the former Department of School Buildings. Such facilities as the new John W. McCormack School and the James A. Garfield Addition, six demountable classroom units for the Norcross District and six demountable classroom units at the Bigelow School site were constructed through the mutual cooperation of the two departments.

The Chief Structural Engineer has announced that contracts currently in force or in the preparation during the summer and fall of 1967 include:

Oceanology Seminar

A unique seminar, to appraise the business potential of oceanology, will be held in Boston at Harbridge House, Inc., 11 Arlington street, September 18-19.

The same seminar will be presented in three other key cities across the country: Washington, D.C., September 21-22; Los Angeles, September 25-26; and Miami, September 28-29.

The program is designed for top management and marketing personnel and will highlight the unique business problems associated with entry into the field.

The seminar "Oceanology: A Business Appraisal" is being presented by the National Defense Education Institute (NDEI), which is a joint undertaking of the National Security Industrial Association (NSIA) and Harbridge House, Inc., international management consulting firm.

The seminar will outline the historic and current role of the federal government in the field and will review the budgeting patterns and marketing strategies as they relate to technical requirements, problem areas, policies and practices of the pertinent government agencies.

Major segments of the two-day program include current technical requirements; funding, organizational framework and current federal programs; the business potential of oceanology; and marketing in the federal oceanology programs.

In addition, the department's attempt to cut down on glass breakage by use of new glass substitutes that permit equal lighting but are not subject to the usual methods of vandalism have been attempted in many schools, and is about ready to be marked successful.

In closing Mr. Galeota said, "Boston has at last overcome the major obstacle of divided authority in keeping schools in modern condition and the future appears much brighter."

Course Director Warren Haussler of Harbridge House notes that "infant oceanology, although a 'glamour' industry, must be carefully scrutinized by any company looking to enter the field. Many pitfalls await the pioneer, but if the corporate background justifies entrance into the field, the rewards in time can be substantial."

Cost of the course is $125 per participant for member companies of the NSIA, U. S. Government military and civilian personnel; $150 for nonmember companies.

Adult Center

The Boston Center for Adult Education announces the opening of registration for a 10-week term to begin September 28 at 5 Commonwealth avenue.

Many new courses have been added to the fall program including Oriental Brush Painting, Career Counselling, Chair Caning, Computers and Data Processing for the Layman, Decorative Painting and Stenciling.

The Center also offers classes in foreign languages, painting and drawing, speech and drama, literature and writing, dance and music, fashion and charm, and crafts.

For further information and a free descriptive booklet listing more than 100 daytime and evening courses, call the Center at 267-4430.

Food Stamp Delay

As of this writing Congress has not appropriated any funds for fiscal 1968, nor has the Department of Agriculture officially approved the State Plan of Operation as submitted by the State Department of Public Welfare Food Stamp Office.

We are advised that the outlook is favorable in both of the above matters for action in the near future.

However, it should be understood, that the local communities cannot proceed with their plans until the national and state levels complete their roles.

In the meantime here in Boston we will continue the Surplus Food Program. The popular food item, American Cheese, has been restored to the available food list.

CYO Festival

The Senior Division of the CYO Music Festival, scheduled for September 10, at Boston College's Alumni Stadium, was postponed because of rain.

The music competition has been rescheduled for Sunday, September 24, beginning at 10.30 A.M., at Alumni Stadium.

John Hancock Co., Studies High Rise Development

The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company has completed negotiations on an option to purchase air rights over the Massachusetts Turnpike in the Back Bay for what a spokesman described as "study and investment purposes."

The spokesman said the company purchased the 120-day option for $5,000 from the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority "to tie in with a study of our immediate and long-term office parking needs."

"We don't have enough space now in three parking areas — only about 700 spots — and we will have even less in the future," he explained.

The spokesman also said "it is no secret that we have been studying our space needs, both parking and other needs, and that one possible solution would be the construction of a new high-rise office building in the Back Bay."

However, he stressed that to his knowledge the option had nothing to do with a site for a 60-story tower reportedly being considered by John Hancock. The proposed building would become Boston's tallest, topping by eight stories the Prudential Tower. It would dwarf John Hancock's present 26-story headquarters.

The air rights option agreement was finalized when the Authority received a $5,000 check from the insurance company, thus ending months of negotiation.

Involved in the option are:

An area between Dartmouth street and Columbus avenue. Actual area of air rights to be leased is to be determined by the Authority and the company.

Air rights over the ramp area at Dartmouth and Stuart streets.

The spokesman said if John Hancock decides to exercise its option at the end of the 120-day period, a minimum 40-year lease will be negotiated with renewed option.

Model Cities Advance

The U. S. Senate Appropriation's Committee has voted $537 million for the "model cities" program, $300 million more than the House of Representatives had approved. The Senate panel also approved the Administration's $40 million request for its rent-subsidy program.

The "model cities" program is a major initiative toward rebuilding slums. It is designed to provide bonus money to selected cities to help them in a comprehensive effort to improve slum areas, basically by utilizing many existing federally aided programs.

The "rent subsidies" program permits the government to pay part of the rents of low-income families living in apartments which will be built under the construction aspect of the program.

The measures must be approved by both the Senate and the House before becoming law.

AFDC Proposal Hit

The Boston Board of Overseers at its last meeting voted to request the Massachusetts Senators and the Boston Congressional delegation to oppose the phases of the 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act which would restrict the AFDC program. The principal objection centers around the action of the House Ways and Means Committee which would (1) make training and employment of AFDC parents mandatory when day-care plans could be arranged; (2) freeze the portion of children eligible for AFDC in the state's population due to the absence of the father from the home at the present level.

Title V Meeting

A triregional Training Seminar for Title V personnel of Boston Welfare Department will be held at Atlantic City at the end of September. Mrs. Winifred Hannegan and four other members of the Title V staff have been invited to participate in this training seminar, the expenses of which will be underwritten from federal Title V funds.

Gov't Center Opening

Mayflower Food Services, Inc., has opened the first of two operations in the Hub's new Government Center, The Mayflower Coffee Shop. A second operation, a sandwich shop at Two Center Plaza, is in the planning stages.

The Mayflower is the first full-fledged public table-service dining area in the government complex.

Diners at the Mayflower Coffee Shop and Plaza Pub will be treated to a panorama of the new City Hall and the surrounding Government Center.

N. J. Governor Urges Hub Insurance Plan

At a recent White House briefing, Governor Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey said the special panel appointed by President Johnson had decided to ask all states to develop "urban area plans" to make fire and extended coverage insurance available to all "insurable" city property.

The New Jersey Democrat is chairman of the President's advisory panel on insurance in riot-affected areas. He suggested that a model for states to follow might be a plan that originated in Boston in 1960, and has been adopted in several other cities.

Under these plans, which at present are limited to residential properties, insurance companies "make insurance available to all persons whose properties meet reasonable standards of insurability," Governor Hughes explained. "Insurance will not be refused simply because property is located in a ghetto area."

The Boston plan permits companies to refuse insurance on a property only if an inspection shows that the property is suffering from obvious hazards such as "faulty wiring, bad housekeeping, or other violations of building or housing codes."

Mayor Opposes AFDC Cutback in Funds

Representation has been made to the Boston Congressional delegation in Washington by Mayor Collins and the Public Welfare Board of Overseers protesting those provisions of the 1967 Amendments to the Social Security Act reported out by the House Ways and Means Committee, which tend to restrict or cut back on the program of Aid to Families with Dependent Children. Following is an excerpt from Mayor Collins' letter in this regard:

"We are particularly concerned about (1) a mandatory requirement that mothers of Aid to Dependent Children families be required to accept training and employment; (2) the discontinuance of Aid to Families with Dependent Children for unemployed fathers who are receiving Unemployment Compensation benefits; and (3) the limitations of the number of children eligible under the AFDC program due to the absence of a parent.

"As you know, Boston, as one of the principal cities, tends to have a considerable number of persons who migrate from other parts of the country, particularly Puerto Rico and the South. Consequently, a freeze on the proportion of the child population that can be eligible for federal participation due to the absence of the father will work a tremendous hardship in Boston and in the State of Massachusetts. I trust that before final enactment, steps will be taken to reduce the negative aspects of the proposed amendments as they relate to Aid to Families with Dependent Children. I would prefer that Congress, instead of contemplating cutbacks, increase its contribution on AFDC which is unconscionably low and amounts to $22 per month per child. In Boston, this federal participation represents just about one third of our monthly grant per person under the AFDC program."

New Social Workers

Twenty-two new Public Welfare Department Social Workers commenced orientation on September 13, following which they will be assigned to field offices to implement the federal-state requirement relating to caseloads. They are the first contingent of three similar groups expected within the next few weeks as the result of an intensive recruitment drive by the department.

Saks Coming Here

President Adam L. Gimbel of Saks Fifth Avenue announces that the 30th store in the nationwide network of Saks Fifth Avenue stores is being planned for Boston, Mass. The store will be located in the new Prudential Center.

The new store will be designed in the latest conception of contemporary planning, harmonious with and complementary to the surroundings of the Prudential Center. It is contemplated that the total building will be approximately 100,000 square feet, occupying two stories. Elevators will take customers directly to the Saks Fifth Avenue from a special parking garage on the lower level beneath the landscaped plaza.

Mr. Gimbel said that it will be operated in accordance with the Saks Fifth Avenue tradition and reputation.

Lots of Visitors Due

Expectations are running high that autumn business for Boston hotels and motels will surpass last year's take, according to a survey by the authoritative Lodging and Food-Service News.

The News reports that a representative selection of Hub units came up with two salient observations: advance bookings are higher for convention operations and repeat business should remain the same for all facilities.

Several managers said that the busiest month would be October because of convention bookings.

Mostly all of the managers praised the summer business, and said that July was the best month.

Harvard-M.I.T. Join in Major Health Program

Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology have joined forces to explore the effective use of their complementary resources in the life and health sciences toward the objective of a continuing improvement in our national health. The two institutions will seek opportunities for collaboration in basic and applied research, education, and in medical care.

Planning has been invested in a Joint Liaison Committee of Engineering and Living Systems established under the aegis of President Nathan M. Pusey of Harvard University and President Howard W. Johnson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Members of the Joint Liaison Committee are:

From the Massachusetts Institute of Technology—Provost Jerome B. Wiesner, Gordon S. Brown (Dean of Engineering), Irwin Sizer (Dean of the Graduate School), Walter A. Rosenblith (Professor of Communication Biophysics), Dr. Albert O. Seeler (Medical Director and Head of the Medical Department), and Murray Eden (Professor of Electrical Engineering).

From Harvard University—Dr. Robert H. Ebert (Dean of the Faculty of Medicine), Dr. Alexander Leaf (Jackson Professor of Clinical Medicine), Elkan R. Blout (Edward S. Harkness Professor of Biological Chemistry), Harvey Brooks (Dean, Engineering and Applied Physics, Faculty of Arts and Sciences), and Dr. David D. Rutstein (Ridley Watts Professor of Preventive Medicine). Philip A. Drinker, who holds appointments at both institutions, serves as secretary.

Subcommittees have been organized with membership from the faculties of both institutions to explore each of the three focal areas in the fields of medicine and health—research, education, and medical care. Dr. Rutstein of Harvard University and Professor Eden of M.I.T., by virtue of their responsibility for over-all coordination within the Joint Liaison Committee, serve as members of all three subcommittees.

In the memorandum of agreement it was noted, "Over the past three or four decades there have been numerous trends linking the physical and the engineering sciences and mathematics and technology to medicine and biology. Engineers and mathematicians, as an example, in order to study complex systems, have derived a variety of mathematical methods which lend themselves to the investigation of medical problems for which there are no other solutions. At the same time, modern technology has made possible the development of instrumentation which has opened up new fields of measurement easily adaptable to studies of biological and medical systems."

No-Fix Citations Rise

Motor Vehicles Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin has released the analysis of the "No-Fix" traffic citation experience for the first half of 1967 together with a comparison of the citation statistics for the first half of 1966.

The statewide results showed an increase of approximately 11,000 citations issued during the first half of 1967 as compared with the same period in the preceding year or, percentage-wise, an increase of 7.3 percent.

Registrar McLaughlin pointed out that this increase was approximately double the percentage increase in registered motor vehicles and licensed operators from 1966 to 1967 and, in his judgment, reflected very creditably upon the law enforcement agencies of the Commonwealth.

The Registrar said the Massachusetts State Police increased citation issuance by better than 24 percent, the MDC Police by better than 38 percent and the Registry of Motor Vehicles by 41 percent. If it were not for these outstanding highway law enforcement efforts, however, the over-all enforcement standards of the Commonwealth would have been drastically reduced since local cities and towns, in many cases, showed an extraordinary and inexplicable decline in citations issued, the Registrar said.

Out-Door Show for Negro Artists' Work

The Boston Negro Artists Association will hold its second annual exhibition of the work of Negro artists on Sunday, September 24 (October 1 in case of rain), from 11 A.M. to 7 P.M., in Horatio Harris park, Munroe street, Roxbury.

Many individuals, businesses, and organizations are supporting the show with donations toward the rental of display panels and prizes to be awarded to contributing artists. The First Prize, $100, is from the Hertz Truck Rental Division. Second Prize of $50 is from Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morse of Roxbury, and the $25 Third Prize is from Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., which donated $400 toward the success of the show.

Prize winners will be decided by ballots of visitors to the exhibition.

During the show, Harold street will be blocked to traffic. Refreshments will be sold.

A special feature of this year's exhibition will be the BNAA Fine Art Engagement Calendar which will be on sale for $1.50. The Calendar, which contains significant dates in Negro history, features the work of twelve members of the BNAA.

The goal of the BNAA since its inception in January, 1963, has been to stimulate art activity by discovering and encouraging painters, sculptors, photographers, and others concerned with art within the community; and to promote an understanding and pride in Black Culture in all of the people of the community.

BNAA long-range plans call for an expansion of their workshop facilities, the establishment of research facilities, including an art library with audio-visual materials, and the opening of a public gallery for display of the works of local and national artists.

Some of the art in this year's show could be called controversial, and BNAA officials expect that visitors will find much to talk about as they tour the exhibits. Last year, over 4,000 attended.

Russian Baby Gains

Infant Slava Perminov, born three months prematurely aboard a Russian fishing vessel off Cape Cod two months ago, began taking his food from a bottle last week.

The baby had been fed intravenously, a Boston City Hospital spokesman said.

Baby Slava, while still in an incubator now weighs four pounds, seven and a half ounces. The infant weighed only two pounds, two ounces, at birth and was airlifted by the U.S. Coast Guard from the Russian vessel, "Trubovaja Slava" (Hail to Toil) to Boston on July 16.

The mother, Mrs. Alexander Perminov, 24, a ship waitress, named the infant for the ship.

Square Dancers at Pru

A five-hour outdoor exhibition of modern American square dancing is scheduled for Boston's Prudential Center on September 23, as several thousand square dance enthusiasts from the entire New England region will converge on Boston to open their fall season.

The 23-club North Shore Square and Round Dance Association of Massachusetts, are sponsors of the twilight exhibition at the Prudential, not only as an exhibition, but also to attract new dancers for the coming beginners classes. Experts predict enrollment among the several hundred square dance clubs throughout New England will top 250,000 this year.

The colorfully costumed twirlers are aiming to repeat last year's successful Square Dance Jubilee held at the huge Back Bay Center, which brought 2,000 participants from all over New England.

Ralph and Nancy Osgood of Peabody, cochairmen of the North Shore Association, have named the September affair, "The 1967 Harvest Moon Ball," in salute to the former traditional square dance setting of country barns and village commons. The rural trend has been reversed as more and more clubs are organizing in suburban areas.

The rapidly growing interest in modern square dancing has also spread to the teen-agers, who have organized many clubs throughout New England. One of the most active is Tex's Twirlers from Boston's Hyde Park section.

Four callers will pace the "calico and gingham set" through their intricate figures, which nowadays go far beyond the old "Allamande Left" and "Do Si Do." Although these basic steps are still an integral part of square dancing, couples now swing to multiple combinations of the old basic figures "Spin Chain Through," "Dixie Twirl," and "Teacup Chain."

The four callers, all nationally prominent veterans of the square dance circuit, are Joe Dombrowski of Lynnfield, Mass.; Jay King of Lexington; Paul Pratt of Chelmsford, Mass.; and Johnnie Roth of Westfield.

Tremont-on-the-Common Restaurant Planned

A decision is expected within the next 90 days as to who will develop and operate the restaurant on top of the new Tremont-on-the-Common high-rise apartment building in downtown Boston.

The First Realty Company, which manages the luxury-apartment building, is currently considering a number of interested parties that have applied for a lease.

"But it's still up in the air," says public relations representative Manuel Gilbert. "Twenty-seven stories up, to be exact."

The penthouse, where the new restaurant will be located, is finished and ready for a tenant to decorate, furnish, and equip it as a restaurant.

First Realty management envisions a 500-seat operation with a bar, lounges, and a terrace area overlooking the Boston Common and downtown Hub.

"It's absolutely the finest view in the city," Mr. Gilbert says. "But because of the character of the building — and it's a high rent luxury building — it will have to be a first-class restaurant. We want it to be the finest restaurant in town."

It was not disclosed who the principal applicants being considered for the job of running the restaurant are, but Mr. Gilbert indicated that it is this need for a "first class" operation that's causing a delay in the decision.

Neponset Bridge Work

The first phase of the Neponset River Bridge project, involving construction of Boston and Quincy approach roadways, was approved for bid advertising by the Metropolitan District Commission.

MDC Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr., said the initial work will include:

1. Widening and converting Morrissey Boulevard into a divided highway between Atlantic Bridge and a point beyond East Squantum street in Quincy.

2. A 5-foot widening of Gallivan Boulevard inbound from Hallet street to Neponset Circle, Boston.

3. A "jug-handle" turn and traffic signals at Gallivan Boulevard and Hallet street, permitting closing of an opening in the median strip opposite Clover street and the shopping center entrance at this location. The design is aimed at materially reducing traffic accident incidence here.

The Morrissey Boulevard design calls for a continuous median strip except for one opening opposite Bay State road. This opening will be signalized and serviced by a "jug-handle" turnabout on the southerly side of the boulevard to reduce accident hazards.

Estimated cost of the project is $530,000.

Plans are nearing completion for the over-all program designed to alleviate a major bottleneck to the South Shore.

Canal St. Loop Closed

Effective until further notice, the MBTA announced on September 14 that the Canal Street loop, located at Causeway and Canal streets, will be closed because of construction of the Haymarket North rapid transit extension.

Access to street cars, to and from Park street, and Lechmere, and rapid transit trains, from Everett to Forest Hills, will be via the two entrances from the Boston Garden to the Authority's North Station viaduct platform.

During this period, streetcars from Boston College will terminate at the Government Center.

Lucy Stone Stamp

U. S. House Speaker John W. McCormack announces he has been informed by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien that the department will issue a postage stamp honoring Lucy Stone, equal rights leader of the last century, in a ceremony in Dorchester on August 13, 1968.

The 50-cent Lucy stamp will be part of the "Prominent American" series of new regular stamps.

Mrs. Stone was born on a farm in West Brookfield in 1818 and died in Dorchester in 1893.

She participated in the first woman's rights convention in 1850.

Mrs. Stone, who married H. B. Blackwell, but retained her maiden name, was a lecturer and editor opposing slavery and advocating equal rights for women.

Plans and specifications and other contract documents may be obtained at the office of the Public Facilities Department, 25 Faneuil Hall square, Boston, Mass., at and after, but not before twelve o'clock noon (Eastern Daylight Saving Time), Friday, September 29, 1967, upon deposit of a certified check, payable to the City of Boston, in the amount of $25 per set of plans and specifications. The eighteen members of the Model City Neighborhood Board were sworn into office by the Clerk of the City of Boston in Mayor Collins' office. The Mayor was unable to be present at the ceremony because of illness.

In a special election on August 1, the six subareas of the Model City Area each elected three residents to serve on the Board. The Jamaica Plain subarea is composed of Ward 11, precincts 4, 5, 6, and 7, Rev. Donald Campbell, Mr. Matthew Hanley, and Mr. John Drury are the three Jamaica Plain representatives.

Immediately following the swearing-in ceremony, the Model Neighborhood Board had its first meeting with the recently appointed Model City Administrator, Daniel Finn. In addition to his Model City job, Mr. Finn is Commissioner of Housing Inspection for Boston, Administrator of the city's Manpower Program, and Director of the federally aided Code Enforcement program scheduled to come to Boston sometime this fall.

The six neighborhoods comprising the Model City Area are situated in a ring around the Washington Park urban renewal project, and

The purpose of the Public Information Committee is to keep contact with residents of each of the six subareas. It has begun a close study of the organizational structure of each subarea and is also approaching several universities in the Boston area for expert advice on grass-roots public communication methods. The chairman of the committee, Rev. Donald Campbell of Jamaica Plain, said of its work, "If we are to be successful, as many people as possible should know both the limitations and possibilities of the Model City program."

The Program Committee has begun a close study of Boston's Model City application and has already had several consultations with top city planners in the metropolitan Boston area. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Pearl Wise, it has also begun contacting all possible institutions and agencies in the area to catalogue ideas which might be helpful during the Model City planning period.

The Federation of Organizations Committee has begun seeking ways in which all existing organizations and agencies in the Model City area can be coordinated so that their resources may be made available to the program. "We have already contacted well over one hundred organizations such as neighborhood associations, churches, and social agencies," said Joseph Gup-ton, chairman of the committee.

The Model Neighborhood Board's job is to work with professional planners and city officials to create relevant and effective programs to combat social, economic, and physical problems in the area.

Mr. Finn said that he is very anxious to work with the Board and sees no reason why the city and the Board cannot function together as an effective unit. He indicated a desire for frequent and in-depth consultations with the Board. "I am convinced," said Mr. Finn, "that city government can be closely responsive to the wishes of local residents and can work with them."

Boston Gets Plug

A house by the side of the road, in Charlton, Mass., hopefully, will keep tourists from bypassing Boston.

In an ambitious experimental bid to get a larger share of the tourist dollar, the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority has built and the state is staffing a tourist information center on the turnpike here.

John T. Driscoll, the Turnpike Authority chairman, says the new information center is a two-story replica of the historic John Ward house of Salem circa 1684.

The Ward house reproduction costing some $70,000, is on the eastbound lanes three miles east of the Sturbridge interchange where Routes 15 and 20 feed the turnpike from Connecticut, New York City and points south.

Standing like a beacon high on a rise in the rolling hills of central Massachusetts, the handsome Colonial replica is expected to attract thousands of tourists and bid them tarry in the historic land of the Pilgrims.

Commonwealth and turnpike officials are aware that the turnpike and its connecting superhighways are draining off the so-called gypsy tourists—those travelers on a sightseeing vacation with more-or-less indefinite objectives.

A colonial-costumed staff dispensing information necessary to tempt the tourist to linger longer in the historic areas of downtown Boston, Lexington and Concord, as well as along the shore and on Cape Cod.

Adult Education Course

A new program for retired professionals will be inaugurated this fall at the Boston Center for Adult Education, 5 Commonwealth avenue.

Modeled after the New School for Social Research in New York City, the Retired Professionals Association will be an independent and self-contained part of the Center with its governing body. Plans for the Association include several different types of activities. Members will have an opportunity to attend classes from the Boston Center's daytime and evening curriculum. There will also be discussion groups and seminars for retired professionals led by fellow Association members as well as a number of trips to interesting sites and a chance to join volunteer community projects.

For further information and a free brochure describing the Retired Professionals Association at the Center, call 267-4430.

Locks Repair

The 60-year-old locks at the Charles River Dam will be closed for approximately seven weeks beginning October 1 while a $117,000 repair project is carried out, the MDC announced.

Between 30,000 and 35,000 boat passages are made each year through the locks. Most of the trips, however, are made during the summer season.

The project, which will be handled by Builder's Iron Works of Somerville, will include repair of hydraulic systems, work on the gates, and cleaning and painting.

PRETTY BUT COSTLY

If you're looking for a girl to marry, steer clear of Dolcedo on the Italian Riviera. Should you take one of the village girls away, you'll have to pay the local marriage tax—from two to 20 dollars depending upon your auto or other signs of wealth. As Mayor Angelo Benza says: "It's a good old custom. After all, our girls are beautiful and make good wives. Strangers are lucky to get them."

—Noel Anthony, NANA

Fountain Wins Praise

Public reaction to the recently reactivated 100-year-old Brewer Fountain on Boston Common has been highly favorable, according to Commissioner John J. Tierney, Jr., of Boston's Parks and Recreation Commission.

"The fountain had not been functioning in recent years because of the difficulty involved in obtaining vital replacement parts. But repairs have finally been made and we are happy to be able to comply with the many public requests to reactivate this famed and beautiful fountain," Commissioner Tierney said.

Commissioner Tierney also revealed that the fountain will be the central attraction in a new mall of green grass and red brick borders, extending from the front of the State House to La Fayette Mall. Architectural plans now being developed will insure a more prominent view of the fountain.

Valuable Patrols

The American Automobile Association believes School Safety Patrols have been responsible for reducing over half the traffic fatalities of school children.

According to Richard W. Hoover, Director of Safety for AAA's Massachusetts Division: "These patrols, started over 40 years ago, give children extra protection from traffic hazards while going to and from school, and help teach safe pedestrian conduct."

AAA works with schools and local police departments to organize, train, and equip safety patrol units. Boys and girls are selected for patrol duty and instructed on safety. They must be on duty before school opens in the morning and remain at the end of the day, until pupils have passed their posts.

"Since they were first organized back in the 1920's, School Safety Patrols have been effective in cutting the traffic death rate for school-age youngsters in half, while the death rate for all other age groups has nearly doubled," the AAA safety official said.

Safety Patrol posters are now being distributed by Triple-A to Elementary and Junior High Schools throughout the Commonwealth.

Handicapped Week

Boston's Morgan Memorial, in which the Goodwill Industries program of self-help for the handicapped began nearly 70 years ago, will celebrate the observance of National Employ the Handicapped Week from October 1 to 7, with Open House festivities and a series of events.

Joseph W. Burg of Newton, Executive of the Newton Center Market, will be General Chairman of the Committee in charge.

Other members will include Alfred E. Lonnberg, Boston, President of Morgan Memorial; John M. Gepson, Wellesley; Robert W. MacWilliams, Winchester; Vincent P. Clarke, Winchester; Russell S. Broad, Newton Highlands; Daniel Lunt, Ipswich; Henry Meyer, Jr.,

South Hamilton; Henry W. Webster, Needham; Joseph E. Fernandes, Norton; Hyman Surgarman, Medford; George D. Hall, Cambridge; and Robert C. Hagogian, Watertown.

National limelight will be focused on Boston during the week-long celebration as the birthplace of Goodwill Industries.

There are now 135 autonomous Goodwill Industries in as many U.S. cities and 21 additional ones in foreign lands. Each year they serve more than 70,000 handicapped people with evaluation, training, employment, rehabilitation and placement services.

Morgan Memorial Goodwill Industries is now the largest voluntary nonprofit, nonsectarian agency in New England serving the handicapped and needy.

Copy Deadline

The editor of the City Record directs attention once again to the necessity of meeting the Wednesday noon deadline for all copy intended for use in the Record on Saturday. Both advertising and editorial copy must be received at the City Record Office, Room 35, City Hall, on or before this deadline to insure publication the same week. When a holiday occurs during the week all copy should be delivered at noon on the Tuesday before intended publication. Your cooperation is strongly urged.

LSD and Birth Defects

LSD users may be risking birth defects in their children and their children's children, Dr. Virginia Apgar, Director of Basic Research for The National Foundation—March of Dimes, warned recently. They may also be exposing themselves to an increased risk of cancer and early aging. She issued this warning to America's youth after nine top medical scientists met in New York with March of Dimes doctors to discuss how LSD might threaten human heredity.

The conferees reported that LSD definitely damages human chromosomes, the hereditary material found in all the cells of the body. They also said that chromosome damage is often associated with birth defects and cancer, and may play a role in aging. However, they felt that while the possible hazards were strong enough to issue a public warning, more research is needed before we can be sure that chromosome damage from LSD actually causes these conditions.

In addition to attacking chromosomes, LSD has directly damaged baby mice and rats when given to their pregnant mothers at a crucial time in pregnancy, Dr. Apgar said. The experts reported that human babies whose mothers took LSD during pregnancy are being studied to see if they were hurt by the drug. So far, no human birth defect has been shown to have been caused by LSD, although some of these babies do have excessive numbers of broken chromosomes in their blood. This raises the possibility, the experts felt, that the children of these babies might be born defective.

Many other things can break chromosomes, Dr. Apgar pointed out, including radiation and some viruses. Preliminary evidence was presented at this meeting indicating that three well-known tranquilizers may have to be added to the list. These are thorazine, librium, and valium.

The panelists agreed that with our relative ignorance of how drugs and other chemicals affect the human body, no one should take any medication not "absolutely necessary to preserve health or control disease." They especially emphasized that men and women in their reproductive years should avoid LSD and other substances proven to damage chromosomes.

London Tube

A $3\frac{1}{2}$ -mile extension, costing an estimated total of \$45 million, will be added to the southern end of London's newest subway, the Victoria line, the magazine Engineering News-Record reports. The extension, scheduled to open in 1969, will lead under the Thames to the suburb of Brixton.

BRA OK's Plan

A proposal to construct a 15-story, 60-unit luxury apartment house and rehabilitate an old warehouse into a 49-unit apartment house near the Hoosac Pier area of Charlestown was advanced at a board meeting of the Boston Redevelopment Authority on September 21.

The proposal was disclosed in a series of zoning referrals the BRA was asked to act upon before final action is taken by the Boston Zoning Commission.

Among them was one disclosing that Suffolk University on Beacon Hill is planning to construct a 7-story school and office building on Cambridge street.

The Charlestown developer will be Constitution Tower Associates.

The 15-story structure would comprise five floors of parking with 10 floors of apartments.

Edward Haddad, a member of the William C. Codman firm of brokers, said the group would first rehabilitate the warehouse. He noted that the development would be done with private money.

The BRA approved the petition.

(Following is the comment of Mayor John F. Collins regarding State Labor Relations Board and the Boston Police Department):

"I am pleased that the State Labor Relations Board has permitted members of the Boston Police Department to select their collective bargaining representative.

"I have instructed Attorney Allan Drachman to be ready to meet with the Patrolmen's Association promptly at their request to negotiate a collective bargaining agreement with all deliberate speed."

Boston Named One of Five Cities for Slum Employment Aid Program

Boston has been selected as one of five pilot cities for a new attack of unemployment in the slums.

Under the plan, industries would locate plants in slum areas with the government helping to insure them against risks and making surplus federal property and equipment available.

Secretary of Commerce Alexander B. Trowbridge in a press conference last week said exploratory talks had been held with a number of business firms and would continue. No commitments have yet been made.

Mr. Trowbridge listed Avco Corporation and New England Electric System in the Boston area among the firms with which discussions have been held.

In addition to Boston, the administration would set up pilot projects in Los Angeles, Chicago, San Antonio, Washington, D.C., and the rural Mississippi Delta.

Mr. Trowbridge mentioned Borg Warner and Sears Roebuck & Co. in Chicago and Lockheed Aircraft, McDonnell-Douglas and Litton Industries in Los Angeles along with the two Boston area firms.

Famed Tea Kettle Back

One of Boston's most familiar landmarks, absent since April, returned to a place of prominence on the edge of the new Government Center.

The golden, steaming tea kettle came down last April after almost a century of beckoning to tea sippers from its Court Street address. The entrance to it then was known as Scollay square.

The ancient kettle was moved by its owners — the Oriental Tea Company — to make way for a new bank rising on its old site at 57 Court street.

The kettle will now signal the entrance to a new Oriental Tea Shop at 65 Court street only a few doors away from where it stood since 1875.

The kettle probably is the oldest animated trade sign in the United States. It was cast in the summer of 1873. Its steam is produced by an engine boiler on the premises.

Nathan Sharaf, president and treasurer of the Oriental Tea Company, which was founded in 1868, notes the kettle could contain 227 gallons, 2 quarts, 1 pint, and 3 gills.

The kettle will stand as a signal to the new home of the Oriental Tea which will contain a coffee bar, second floor sit-down counter, and offices of the company which fills orders for choice teas and coffees from many parts of the world.

Appraisals of the kettle place its value at $10,000. However, that's strictly in monetary value. In the hearts of old Bostonians the kettle, with its never-ending flowing of steam, is priceless.

Mayor Hails Champion Red Sox

When the Red Sox finally clinched the pennant on the last day of the American League season, Mayor John F. Collins issued the following declaration:

Whereas, The members of the 1967 Boston Red Sox baseball team have captured the hearts of the people of Boston and baseball fans across the nation by their electrifying, courageous, and successful drive to the 1967 American League Championship; and

Whereas, Manager Dick Williams, his coaches and players have demonstrated to the world that a combination of skill, character, determination, and confidence are still the ingredients that make champions; and

Whereas, The Boston Red Sox have brought a most fitting reward to the quiet patience of owner Tom Yawkey, greatest of our contemporary sportsmen; and

Whereas, The people of Boston desire to pay tribute to this Cinderella Team which has provided them with some of the most glorious moments in Boston's long and honored sports history; now therefore

I, John F. Collins, Mayor of the City of Boston, do hereby declare Tuesday, October 3, 1967, as BOSTON RED SOX DAY in the City of Boston and urge all of our citizens to take notice of this special observance.

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Slum Aid . . .

About $40 million in federal funds would be used to help train slum dwellers for jobs under the administration plan. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, who shared the news conference with Mr. Trowbridge, said the $40 million would be available from manpower training, economic development, anti-poverty and other federal programs.

Mr. Wirtz said current programs will be continued but the new approach would stretch federal money further. "Jobs are the live ammunition in the war on poverty," he said. "The center of gravity has shifted overnight to the private sector."

The secretary said there was "no connection" between the administration proposal and the fact that the Senate is considering a two-year, $2.8 billion program proposed by Senator Joseph S. Clark (D.-Pa.) to provide public service jobs for the unemployed in urban ghettos.

William E. Zisch, vice-chairman of Aerojet-General Corporation of Los Angeles, will be Mr. Trowbridge's special representative for the program and will offer one-stop service to industries seeking federal aid, the secretary said.

Mr. Zisch said an Aerojet subsidiary set up in the Watts area in Los Angeles has not yet shown a profit after one year's operation but is expected to reach the breakeven point in another year.

Office Space Survey

The Building Owners and Managers Association's semi-annual survey to determine the rental situation of Boston's office space got under way recently with the mailing of 175 questionnaires to owners and managers of buildings in the downtown and Back Bay areas.

Robert Leventhal of the Beacon Construction Company, president of BOMA, a division of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, said the survey is expected to reflect the changing tenant situation resulting from the construction of several new office structures in Boston.

Mr. Leventhal said the survey is significant because it classifies the building data into separate rent categories, a concrete fact upon which to follow the rental activity of tenants who are shifting locations as new structures are completed.

In a letter to executives of the office and building industry, Mr. Leventhal pointed out that now that the urban renewal plans for the Central Business District have been announced, it is important to carefully follow the office space market in Boston.

"In addition, several new private office buildings, which are either under construction or are on the drawing boards, will have an impact on existing space," he said.

Included in the new buildings already under construction are the New England Merchants Bank building (600,000 square feet), Two Center Plaza (173,945 square feet), the Charles River Park Plaza (130,000 square feet), and the City Bank and Trust building (39,000 square feet).

Plans for the construction of several other buildings, including the Keystone Custodian Funds building, the First National Bank, the Prudential Office building, and the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank already have been publicly announced.

In addition to rent, other categories in the BOMA survey are (1) rentable office areas; (2) air-conditioned space; (3) amount of space leased for federal, state, and city government use, and (4) store occupancy within the buildings.

Because of the importance of vacancy figures to the industry's attempt to keep an accurate check, Mr. Leventhal has extended an invitation to members outside the Association to take part.

"We welcome all the information we can get," he said. "The more they receive, the more complete will be our report. The requested data from individuals is kept confidential and only the total results are made public."

"If a building owner or manager in the downtown or Back Bay areas would like to include his property, we urge him to contact the Association's Managing Director, Anthony J. DiMatteo, at the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, for the necessary forms."

In the latest survey, completed last April, 151 buildings reported some 13,347,628 square feet of office space. In the past four years, this has skyrocketed from less than three million square feet as reported by 42 buildings.

Mr. Leventhal also announced that the Association's Executive Committee members have approved a program of building management technical workshop sessions for the coming season. Each month, veteran building owners and managers in Boston will hold round-table discussions of current management interest.

Hemophilia Advance Reported From B.C.H.

The control or cure of hemophilia (uncontrolled bleeding)—a hereditary disease that afflicts more than 10,000 American males—by transplantation of normal spleens, was proposed recently at the annual meeting of the American College of Surgeons in Chicago.

Dr. John C. Norman, of the Harvard Medical School and the Harvard Surgical Unit at the Boston City Hospital, made the proposal following a report on research which points to the spleen as the production site of the antihemophilic factor (Factor VIII) in the body.

Factor VIII, said Dr. Norman, either is released from the normal spleen through a process involving synthesis or from a splenic storage area stimulated by a substance circulating in the plasma of hemophiliacs.

Dr. Norman's research, conducted in Harvard's Sears Surgical Laboratory at the Boston City Hospital, was undertaken following observation of an increase in Factor VIII activity during clinical trials of heterologous liver perfusions in liver failure. Among Dr. Norman's collaborators was Dr. Herbert E. Sise of the Tufts University Department of Medicine at the Hospital.

Prior findings also had indicated that humans or animals, following surgery to remove their spleens, did not develop hemophilia.

Research by others, notably E. P. Libre and his associates, J. G. Pool, and W. P. Webster and his colleagues, also had pointed to the spleen as the most potent source of Factor VIII. Webster, who perfused normal dog spleens with blood from a hemophilic dog, observed increasing levels of Factor VIII in the perfusate. Perfusions of hemophilic dog spleens, however, did not produce more Factor VIII.

The investigations undertaken by Dr. Norman and his colleagues involved a series of isolated organ perfusions using fresh pig spleens from which all blood had been removed. The spleens were perfused in a sterile system with both pig and human blood, including blood deficient in Factor VIII donated by hemophilic patients.

Perfusates from normal blood, Dr. Norman noted, were deficient in Factor VIII activity, but progressive increases in the levels of Factor VIII were recorded in the perfusates of spleens perfused with blood deficient in the antihemophilic factor.

Turning to the potentials of splenic homotransplantation, Dr. Norman pointed out that five human grafts have been previously undertaken by T. L. Marchioro and his colleagues in Denver.

"Following an operation in one, a child with hypogammaglobulinemia," said Dr. Norman, "evidence of a transplanted splenic function was present as indicated by a post-operative rise in serum gammaglobulin levels."

Associated with Dr. Norman in the research were Dr. Jean-Pierre Lambilliotte and Dr. Yasushi Kojima, Research Fellows in Surgery at Harvard, and Dr. Sise, Director of the Tufts Hematology Unit at Boston City Hospital.

Dr. Norman's research is sponsored by a grant from the Markle Foundation and the United States Public Health Service.

Adult Work Crew

The Manpower Division of ABCD has initiated a new program called the Adult Work Crew to provide work experience for chronically unemployed, unmotivated, and unskilled men over 21 years of age. The men must come under the poverty criterion and live in Boston. They work a maximum of 35 hours per week and earn $1.50 an hour. The program provides the participants with transportation to and from the job, socio-legal supportive services, and daily visits from an ABCD job counsellor.

The Adult Work Crew could be a good job placement opportunity for unattached men who are currently receiving General Relief and other males who are not eligible for the department's Work Training Program.

For further information please contact Edward Aronson, Adult Work Crew Director, ABCD, 120 Tremont street, Boston. Telephone 742-5600, Extension 551.

Sears Lab Student Offers New Finding

Benjamin E. Cohen, a third-year student at the Harvard Medical School, recently disclosed the development of a simple, direct method to determine the viability of isolated organs being used in research involving perfusion.

Mr. Cohen, whose research was conducted in collaboration with Dr. Judah Folkman in Harvard's Sears Surgical Laboratory at the Boston City Hospital, reported his findings at the annual meeting of the American College of Surgeons in Chicago.

Scientists adapting Mr. Cohen's technique will be able to determine with extreme accuracy the physical state (whether it is healthy or dying) of the isolated organ by referring to an instrument that records the oxygen tension and oxygen consumption in the perfusate which nourishes the organ. The measurement is attained without breaking the sterility of the system; without taking direct samples of the perfusate; without taking biopsy (tiny slices of the organ) tissue; and without removing the organ from the environment in which it is being maintained.

The crux of Mr. Cohen's research is in the rate of diffusion of oxygen through a pencil-sized silicone rubber catheter.

Last Day Looms

Registrar McLaughlin warns that more than a million Bay State motorists have yet to have their cars inspected in the Fall Inspection Period which ends on October 15. "Don't get stuck without a sticker," the Registrar warned.

Registrar McLaughlin noted that October 15 falls on a Sunday and said, "The law specifies this date, regardless of what day of the week it may fall on. The Registry will, however, not conduct the usual enforcement drive on stickers until Tuesday, October 17, thereby allowing Monday, October 16, as a day of grace." The Registrar pointed out that this was a Registry policy and was not binding on local police departments or law enforcement agencies. "The intelligent thing," said the Registrar, "is to have your car inspected now. Don't wait until the last minute."

He advised motorists to allow more time than heretofore for the inspection because of tightened inspection requirements. "In some cases," he said, "a shortage in repair parts has caused considerable delay making it imperative that owners of vehicles needing attention lose no time in having them checked."

Vehicles passing inspection will have the official green fall sticker placed on the windshield in the lower right-hand corner. Vehicles not meeting inspection standards will have a circular red and white rejection sticker placed on the windshield. The rejection sticker may not be removed until repairs have been made and the green sticker issued. In any event, vehicles with a red rejection sticker may not be on the road at the end of the inspection period.

Hospitals Pay Raises

Mayor Collins asked the City Council to appropriate $183,000 for pay raises up to $1,500 for 319 interns and resident doctors at City Hospital, Long Island Hospital, and the Boston Sanatorium.

The money would come from reserve funds. The raises, retroactive to July 1, have already been approved by directors of the Health and Hospitals Department.

The proposed raises would boost 87 interns from $3,600 to $5,100, 61 junior assistant residents from $4,200 to $5,600, 66 senior assistant residents from $4,800 to $6,100, 60 residents from $5,600 to $6,600, and 40 chief residents and five teaching fellows from $6,400 to $7,000.

Approval of the raises has been under consideration by the Mayor since August.

The interns and residents were promised the raises after staging a four-day "heal-in" last May during which such intensive care was given patients at Boston City Hospital that the facility became crowded to capacity. At that time the employees were promised raises as of October 1.

If the Council approves the Mayor's request, the raises would be retroactive to July 1.

During the heal-in, a sort of slowdown in reverse, the residents were asking an increase in their top pay from $6,600 to $10,200, and the interns wanted an increase to $7,200.

Although the interns and residents called off the heal-in when the wage raises were promised, they stated that the settlement fell far short of what they considered a living wage.

Model Cities Head

Mayor John Collins has appointed Daniel Finn as the administrator of Boston's Model Cities program.

Mr. Finn is also the Commissioner of the Housing Inspection Department and administrator of the city's new Manpower Development program. He expects to keep all three positions, devoting most of his time to the Model Cities program.

GEORGE J. LYNCH, Commissioner.

C of C OK's Holiday Change

A bill in Congress which would switch five major holidays to Mondays, has received the support of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The Monday Holiday Bill, S. 1217, sponsored by Senator George Smathers (D.-Fla.), would make three-day weekends out of Memorial Day, Independence Day, Veterans Day, Thanksgiving, and Washington's Birthday, the latter to be renamed Presidents' Day. Memorial Day (May 30) would be celebrated on the last Monday in May; Independence Day on the first Monday in July; Veterans Day on the last Monday in October; Thanksgiving on the fourth Monday in November, and Presidents' Day on the third Monday in February. It would affect federal employees throughout the nation and all residents of the District of Columbia.

In a letter to the Senate and House Judiciary Committees, Anthony Faunce, Chairman of the Chamber's National Affairs Committee, said the Monday holiday would increase opportunity for employees and the general public for rest and recreation. The Smathers' bill is the broadest of many which have been submitted in the Congress.

"Monday holidays in addition carry potential economic benefits, improvement in production and work scheduling efficiency, as well as some increases in sales," the Chamber communication said.

It pointed out that traffic accidents statistics in Massachusetts would indicate that three-day weekends "have a lower danger index than one-day holidays."

"We do not believe that any important lessening of tradition or meaning associated with these holidays will be brought about by passage of this bill," it concluded.

The bill is expected to be amended to become effective January 1, 1970. This would give states wishing to comply time to pass the necessary legislation.

Legion Praises B.P.D.

The Boston Police Department was praised on September 24 for the manner in which it handled the crowds and traffic during the national convention of the American Legion from August 25-31.

The American Legion National Convention Corporation of Massachusetts also paid tribute to the Greater Boston American Red Cross for the aid it gave through its field stations manned by medical personnel.

Others lauded were the State police, MDC police, Registry of Motor Vehicles, and the FBI for their support during the convention.

The Legion rated the convention as "an outstanding success."

Vanity Plate Deadline

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin has reminded owners of motor vehicles having particular number plates (containing five numbers or a prefix or suffix with three or four numbers) that they must file their 1968 registration application together with the correct registration fee plus $2 on or before October 13 if they wish to reserve the same number for 1968.

The October 13 date also applies to holders of distinctive number plates (Vanity Plates and Ham Operators)—but the sum of $9 in addition to the correct registration fee should accompany these registration applications.

The above applications will be accepted at Registry office counters beginning on October 2. Prior to that date, they should be mailed to the Boston Registry office at 100 Nashua street.

Applications for numbers over 100,000 should not be mailed before October 2.

All registration applications must be filled out in full, signed, and endorsed by the insurance company and if payable, be accompanied by a form from the Department of Corporations and Taxation indicating that the sales tax has been paid or that the registrant is exempt.

A 3 x 3 Number Plate Validation Sticker printed in black on a white background will be issued with each 1968 registration certificate. The sticker (a decal of pressure-sensitized acetate) is to be placed at the top center of the windshield avoiding any tinted glass area behind the rear-view mirror in order to minimize obstruction to vision.

Violent Anti-Social Acts Brain Disorders Linked

An urgent need for thorough studies to determine the possible relationship between brain abnormalities or brain dysfunction in individuals and violent, anti-social behavior (including that manifested during riots), has been cited by Dr. Vernon Mark of the Harvard Medical School and the Boston City Hospital.

Dr. Mark's point is made in a report in the current (September 27) issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association. The report stems from a paper presented by Dr. Mark at the recent meeting of the American Psychological Association in Washington, D.C.

Many persons whose behavior at times involves violent acts of aggression against their fellow man and who have been found to suffer from what Dr. Mark terms "Dys-control Syndrome"—". . . may have no other symptoms of brain disorder than an abnormal electroencephalogram or pneumoencephalogram." The pneumoencephalogram is a special technique utilizing X-rays of the brain to make visual studies of the cerebral cortex and the ventricles; as opposed to the electroencephalogram which is a recording of the electrical currents developed in the brain. Tests involving the use of either the electroencephalograph or the pneumoencephalograph, Dr. Mark noted, would detect the presence of brain abnormality in many of these cases. He added, however, that neither method was completely reliable and that only a thorough clinical study would suffice to make an accurate diagnosis.

"Others," said Dr. Mark, "have symptoms of other types of brain 'dysfunction,' manifestations of which can readily be detected. The latter include speech and reading defects, memory impairment, seizures, hallucinations and mood disturbances."

Dr. Mark emphasized that the problem is complicated by the fact that these signs of brain dysfunction may occur in many people without any indication of violent behavior.

"The real question that confronts us," said Dr. Mark, "is whether there is a relationship between thoroughly studied patients with focal brain disease and violent behavior, and the huge group of unstudied law violators guilty of assault, murder, manslaughter, rape, and arson."

Though the relationship between focal neurological disease and law violators who commit assault, murder and rape is unknown, Dr. Mark concludes, ". . . enough information has been accumulated to indicate that an intensive research and clinical study of individuals committing violence is in order and that this is a matter of extreme urgency."

Dr. Mark is Assistant Clinical Professor of Surgery at Harvard and Director of the Neurological Services at the Boston City Hospital. He is one of the founders of the Neuro-Research Foundation of Boston, Inc.

President Johnson Appeals for Nationwide "Stay-in-School" Campaign

"We have entered an age in which education is not just a luxury permitting some men an advantage over others. It has become a necessity without which a person is defenseless in this complex, industrialized society. We have truly entered the century of the educated man."

The then vice-president, Lyndon Johnson, said those words in a commencement address in 1963. Their truth is becoming clearer every day.

Many young Americans are answering the challenge to become better educated. Last year, 18 percent of our young people between the ages of 16-24 were high school dropouts, as compared with 25 percent in 1960.

But this reduction is not enough. The frightening fact remains that too many teen-agers still consider education a luxury. At the current dropout rate, by 1975 there will be 32 million adults in the labor force without a high school education—32 million people who will be unqualified for most of tomorrow's jobs.

To stave off this tide of unskilled workers in a booming economy, President Johnson has directed the President's Council on Youth Opportunity to launch the 1967 "Stay-in-School Campaign." Every citizen, young and old, parent and teen-ager, is being asked to support this drive to assure that all who still have a chance for a decent education stay in school and get it.

A young person today, dissatisfied with school and anxious to get out and work for the money he wants, is heading down a dead-end street if he pursues his dreams without a high school diploma.

He finds out too late that the job he longed for will be at best a dull, dirty one with little opportunity for advancement. Or, the jobless rate of 13 percent for school dropouts suddenly becomes very real to him as he discovers that he doesn't have the ticket he needs to get through the employers' doors.

The money he needs to buy the car, the clothes, or the stereo he wanted so badly just isn't there. He will make less money than those who graduated when he does find a job and his future in any job is limited. In short, a dropout learns quickly and cruelly what Lyndon Johnson meant when he called education a necessity.

For many of these young people, there is still time. They can go back and finish high school. For others, it is too late.

Those who are still in school and considering dropping out face one of the most crucial decisions of their lives. It is up to all of us to follow the President in urging them to go back to school this fall and stay there until they have at least a high school diploma. The education they get now charts the course not only for their individual lives but for the welfare of our country in the coming decades.

Harvard-BCH Clinic

Harvard Medical School and the Boston Department of Health and Hospitals are planning to establish a community medical clinic, a five-minute walk from Boston City Hospital.

A long survey of the medical needs of Boston, conducted by Professor Charles Davidson of the Harvard Medical Service, determined that the most effective thing that could be done with a limited supply of physicians was to establish a clinic, six blocks from the 1,000-bed medical center.

Harvard and the Department of Health and Hospitals have long sought a way to move medical care into the community, in part to provide medical care for those unable to reach the base hospital and in part to circumvent undesirable conditions in the hospital clinics.

A severe continuing shortage of doctors and nurses has created a high priority for effective use of limited resources, according to both the dean of Harvard Medical School, Dr. Robert H. Ebert, and Health Commissioner Andrew P. Sackett.

BRA Lease

The Boston Redevelopment Authority has authorized the leasing of a BRA building at 891 Harrison avenue to Boston University Medical Center to establish the first mental health program in the nation for families being displaced by urban renewal.

Messina To BRA

The Boston Redevelopment Authority announced the appointment of Salvatore J. Messina, head of the city's Office of Neighborhood Improvement, to BRA staff position.

Mr. Messina, a resident of Hyde Park, will be coordinator of the citizens Advisory Committee, succeeding John Galvin, who resigned to take a job with Tufts University.

The CAC is made up of business, neighborhood, and civic leaders who have been working with the BRA on renewal, housing, and improvement programs.

As head of the ONI, Mr. Messina supervised code enforcements and pilot neighborhood fix-up projects, primarily in Dorchester. His work in cleanup campaigns earned him the nickname of "Sanitary Sam."

The BRA board also named Richard L. Hurt, a former Boston Globe reporter, to the $12,399-a-year position of senior development specialist.

Red Cross Seeking Bloodmobile Aides

An open invitation to women with free daytime hours to volunteer for work in bloodmobiles has been issued by Mrs. Frank Conway, chairman of blood program volunteers of the Greater Boston Red Cross.

"Women who feel they may have been 'out of things' because of family responsibilities are delighted at the activity and satisfaction they find in bloodmobile volunteering," Mrs. Conway said. "Our bloodmobiles cover banks and insurance companies, colleges, industries, military installations and newspapers, so there is constant variety and opportunity to talk to many people."

"Women who cannot give blood themselves because of health, age, or some other reason would find this an excellent way to contribute something positive to the health of our communities," Mrs. Conway suggested.

With the steady increase in bloodmobiles and in open heart operations, the Red Cross needs more volunteers to assist as typists, receptionists, canteen hostesses, and donor room aides. Mrs. Conway said volunteers can request a particular assignment, or they may try them all. Volunteers are not involved in the actual blood drawing itself. This is done by registered nurses.

Transportation to and from the bloodmobile sites in and around Boston is furnished from Red Cross headquarters at 17 Gloucester street, two blocks from the Prudential Tower. Bloodmobiles are usually held between 9 A.M. and 3 P.M. or 10 A.M. and 4 P.M., Monday through Friday.

Those interested in volunteering will be able to arrange a convenient schedule by calling 262-1234, Ext. 276.

In Greensboro, N.C., a judge found a clergyman guilty of going through a red light. But the judge said there would be no fine if the minister would preach one sermon a year on traffic safety. The minister agreed.

State Collections Up

State tax collections were up $7.5 million during September over the same month last year.

The increase was due largely to higher revenue from the sales tax and the levy on corporations and personal income. State taxes on liquor and cigarettes also rose slightly.

For the month, the state received $53.6 million, compared with $46.1 million for September, 1966.

During the first quarter of the current fiscal year which began July 1, the Commonwealth has collected $155 million. This compares to $135.8 million for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The sales, income and corporation taxes were the big gainers.

Job Plan Beaten

The U. S. Senate has stripped from the anti-poverty bill a proposed $2.8 billion emergency job provision by Senator Clark of Pennsylvania which was designed to provide 200,000 jobs this year and 300,000 next year for unemployed and low-income persons. Following this decision, the Senate went on to defeat a $925 million plan that had been offered as a compromise and substitute for the $2.8 billion proposal.

Elimination of the special job plans leave the total funds in the anti-poverty bill at nearly $2.3 billion for a one-year continuation of the regular activities of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Mentally Retarded Recreation Program

The Boston Parks and Recreation Department recreation program for mentally retarded children at Brighton Municipal Building, began its second season on Wednesday evening, October 11. The program will be open for boys and girls between the ages of 8 to 18.

Classes will be held on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 8.30 p.m. Recreation includes both arts and crafts and physical education. The first half of every class is devoted to physical education and the latter half to arts and crafts. Transportation must be provided by the child's parents or guardians. The parents may remain and watch the activities if they wish.

The program is being run in cooperation with students from the Boston College Special Education and Rehabilitation Department. The purpose of the program is to have the child learn while enjoying himself.

The physical education classes are designed in such a way that the child will realize the necessity of and benefit from proper physical conditioning. The arts and crafts classes are directed toward the child's enjoyment while constructing useful and meaningful articles.

Registration will take place on Wednesday evenings before classes. For additional information, call the Brighton Municipal Building: 254-9524.

Welfare Transition

Director Daniel I. Cronin of the Welfare Department wishes to reassure the department's staff that the proposed conversion to state administration represents not only no cause for apprehension, but it is anticipated that it will occur in an orderly and gradual fashion. From an employee's standpoint it should represent an increased opportunity to be part of a system rather than a reduction in employee benefits.

Welfare Loan Needed

Due principally to the expenditures for Medicaid, the Welfare Department's appropriations for 1967 are $5.5 million short of the anticipated expenditures. Within a few days a request will be filed asking Mayor Collins to petition the State Emergency Finance Board to allow the department to borrow $5.5 million under the legislation which allows for short-term borrowing for welfare purposes.

Jobs for Retardates

Faced with critical labor shortages and sky-high employee turnovers, a number of lodging and food-service chains are finding a new employment market to tap: the retarded worker.

There are both advantages and disadvantages to hiring the mentally retarded, but by and large hotel-motel and restaurant operators have found the experience rewarding.

Examples:

Howard Johnson's has signed a contract with the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation of the U. S. Department of Labor to hire some 200 mentally retarded in the company's Mid-Atlantic division. "We are delighted and very pleased with the people so far," says president, Howard B. Johnson.

Brigham's, Inc., a Boston-based chain of ice-cream and sandwich shops, has been nominated for the National Association of Retarded Children "National Employer of the Year" Award for its work in hiring retardates in the Boston area.

Hotel Corporation of America signed a contract with the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation this month. Pilot projects in HCA motels in Braintree and Waltham, Mass., utilizing retardates as chambermaids, have been "highly successful," in the words of Alan Marsh, HCA vice-president for human resources.

Across the nation, such chains as Youngblood's of Texas, Frisch's, W. T. Grant Stores, Marriott-Hot Shoppes, Service Systems Corporation, Sky Chefs and Holiday Inns have had various degrees of success.

The major advantages to hiring retardates, according to William Perry, executive director of the Greater Boston Association for Retarded Children, are a very low degree of turnover, a keen interest in work that a mentally "normal" person often finds boring, and unwavering loyalty to the company that employs the retardate.

Hotel Corporation of America has been using retardates in its properties in Waltham and Braintree, Mass., as chambermaids. "The turnover is nil," says Mr. Marsh, "and the quality of work is equally as high as that of so-called 'normal' persons."

Howard Johnson's also is happy with its retardates. "In two or three cases we found people capable of doing more complex jobs than what they had been hired for," one spokesman said.

VIII. HIGH COMMENDATIONS

At 10.06 P.M., August 2, 1967, the department responded to an alarm from Box 4187 for a fire in the dwelling house at 41 Crescent street, Charlestown. Upon arrival of Engine Company 32 at the scene, the members stretched a 1½-inch line up the front stairway to the third floor. Upon approaching the landing of this floor, they encountered a heavy concentration of smoke, and fire was visible around a bed in a room off the hallway.

Fire Lieutenant Joseph E. Conley entered the room and found a man lying on the floor. He removed the man to the outside hallway where he was carried to the street by members of Ladder Company 9.

Fire Fighter Frank A. Qualls then entered the room and located another unconscious person near the kitchen in the apartment. He dragged him across the floor to the front hallway and was assisted by members of Ladder Company 9 in removing the victim to the street.

Both the foregoing rescues were made without benefit of masks and before water was played on the fire.

Because of the fact that Fire Lieutenant Joseph E. Conley and Fire Fighter Frank A. Qualls of Engine Company 32 performed the rescue work under very difficult conditions, and without thought of their own safety, the Fire Commissioner is pleased to highly commend both members.

Brighton Library Bids

The City of Boston has announced that sealed bids are being accepted until noon on November 9 for the construction of the Brighton Branch Library on Academy Hill road.

Bids will be accepted at the office of the Awarding Authority, second floor, 25 Faneuil Hall square. On the ninth all bids received will be read aloud.

The Branch Library will continue operating with full services at its present address from now until early November, according to John Carroll of the Boston Public Library.

"Bidding clearly indicated that the Branch will remain at its present address until November 3," Mr. Carroll stated. "Rumors that the library has or will close down are untrue."

Clerical Classes

The Manpower Division of ABCD is now operating clerical training classes at the South Boston Skill Center, 424 Broadway, and the Dorchester Multi-Purpose Center, 450 Washington street. Classes are from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M., five days a week, and the training course is for fifteen weeks.

Enrollees receive instruction in typing, shorthand, and office practice coupled with a built-in orientation program which informs them about the job market, skills and demands, budgeting and banking, résumé preparation, good grooming, and the city subway system. The Division of Employment Security pays each trainee a weekly stipend and upon completion of the course, trainees will be placed in employment by ABCD.

In the near future, more Skill Centers are scheduled to open in Boston. Besides clerical training, they will offer courses in such things as drafting, machine shop, upholstery, automotive business machine repair, and floor and wall tile installation.

Day of Prayer

President Johnson proclaimed October 18, National Day of Prayer, asking Americans to "Pray that God will endow us with the constancy to prevail in defense of freedom, and with the courage and resolution to preserve and extend His blessings and liberties.

"Let us ask God to enlighten the minds of all our people so that we may work together to remove the inequalities that are among us. Let us pray that the Supreme Lawgiver will inspire all Americans to take the law into our hearts, not into our hands and teach us all a respect for the rights of our fellowmen.

"Let us all thank God for His bounty, praying as we do that He will make America worthy of its continuance."

Department of Health Announces Preschool Vision Screening Program

The Boston Department of Health and Hospitals is conducting a Preschool Vision Screening Program to find the children most likely to have visual problems and make sure follow-up care is secured.

Mayor Collins says the program is designed to serve the children between three and five years of age.

The objective of the program, is to screen children in nursery settings, health units, hospital clinics, housing projects, parochial schools, and Head Start programs so that the children found to indicate eye impairment may be referred for medical follow-up.

Mrs. Anne Jackson is the Project Coordinator for the program, and is assisted by volunteers. The volunteers receive training and give at least one morning or afternoon of service a week to the program.

"It is the hope of the United States Public Health Service and the Boston Department of Health and Hospitals," said Dr. Leon J. Taubenhause, of City Hospital, that the public may be made aware of early detection of eye difficulties in children as early as three years of age. Since a child is not able to judge his ability to see, we have a more serious responsibility to assess his vision.

Amblyopia ex anopsia or dimmed vision through disuse — "lazy eye blindness" — is when one eye begins to fall down on the job of seeing as well as it should. The healthy eye assumes the responsibility for the "lazy eye" which may become increasingly more lazy with time.

"As long as the good eye covers up for the weak eye," continued Dr. Taubenhause, "the vision will seem normal to the child. Crossed eyes (turned inward to the nose) or wall eyes (turned outward) that are not aligned with each other are more likely to be reason for concern. However, amblyopia ex anopsia is often found in eyes that are perfectly straight."

Dr. Taubenhause stressed, "Early detection is imperative." Fortunately, amblyopia ex anopsia or "lazy eye blindness" may be averted if detected and treated before six years.

New Career Jobs

The concept of new careers for the poor has taken on a new twist in Jersey City, N. J., where six community residents were selected to undergo intensive training for specific positions in "Henderson Street," a $2.3 million urban renewal project financed by HUD. This instruction consists of five nine-hour class meetings for three weeks followed by another three-week period of on-the-job training. Of the six local residents, three will be employed as relocation aides, two will work with local welfare agencies, while the sixth will function as a maintenance and staff aide to the city's redevelopment agency. The project will be financed by the New Jersey Community Action Training Institute.

Tutorial Program

The Boys' Clubs of Boston have expanded their Tutorial Program for the current school year. They intend to offer any club member requesting help in his studies his own private teacher. The program has been designed specifically to enrich a student in his regular school work. All the tutors are volunteers, mainly from colleges in the Greater Boston area. The tutoring sessions are conducted at the club's three units which are located in Charlestown, Roxbury, and the South End and they are held during the late afternoon and early evening.

New Welfare Posts

In accordance with the recommendation of the federal and state agencies and the Mayor's Fact-Finding Committee, the Boston Welfare Department has established two new positions of Welfare Training Specialist with a salary range of $7,700-$9,500 per annum, to expand the department's In-Service Training Program.

Approval of the new entrance salary for Clerk-Typist of $77.52 per week is virtually effective as of this point.

All Welfare staff members are invited to refer for possible employment persons with typing or unusual clerical ability. We have a number of vacancies and any persons interested should be referred to the Personnel Section at Central Office.

Deputy Blake Retires

Deputy Superintendent Edward F. Blake, head of the intelligence and community relations unit of the Boston Police Department, has retired.

He was appointed to the force in 1937 and was promoted to captain in 1960 as head of the vice and narcotics squad.

He is a graduate of the FBI National Academy and his commendations for police work are many. He was promoted to deputy superintendent in 1963.

He resides at 22 Schiller road, West Roxbury.

"Red Sox Appreciation Week"

Honoring the great American League Champions, Mayor Collins issued a declaration designating the week of October 15, "Red Sox Appreciation Week."

The official declaration read as follows:

Whereas, The members of the 1967 Boston Red Sox baseball team have captured the hearts of the people of Boston and baseball fans across the nation by their electrifying, courageous, and successful drive to the 1967 American League Championship; and

Whereas, These same American League Champions have shown a spirit, determination and ability during the seven games of the 1967 World Series that has left this city extremely proud; and

Whereas, Manager Dick Williams, his coaches and players have demonstrated to the world that a combination of skill, character determination, and confidence are still the ingredients that make champions; and

Whereas, The Boston Red Sox have brought a most fitting reward to the quiet patience of owner Tom Yawkey, greatest of our contemporary sportsmen; and

Whereas, The people of Boston desire to pay tribute to this Cinderella Team which has provided them with some of the most glorious moments in Boston's long and honored sports history; now therefore,

I, John F. Collins, Mayor of the City of Boston, do hereby declare the week of October 15, 1967, as "Red Sox Appreciation Week" in the City of Boston and urge all of our citizens to take notice of this special observance.

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Harvey Heads March

Registrar of Probate John V. Harvey of Middlesex County has been appointed Campaign Chairman for the 1968 March of Dimes drive in Greater Boston.

Registrar Harvey is a graduate of Arlington High School, Boston College, 1947, Boston University Law School, 1949, and Babson Institute, 1950. He is a member of the Cambridge Bar Association and President of the Massachusetts Register of Probate Association.

A veteran of World War Two, he served with the 26th Yankee Division in France and was awarded a Purple Heart after being wounded at the Battle of Metz.

A well-known amateur golfer, he is a former captain of the Boston College Golf Team and has been in many amateur competitions in the Commonwealth, having reached finals play in several championships.

In accepting the position, Mr. Harvey remarked, "The birthright of every American child is to enter this world in perfect health, but every year this right is violently denied to more than 250,000 of our children because they are born with a significant birth defect. Recently, in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts alone, of 102,780 infant births, a staggering total of 7,200 were born with one or more birth defects and 2,118 died.

"These figures must not be misconstrued as meaning that birth defects only 'happen' in other families for they 'happen' anywhere in any family. But, now, there begins to be a definite sign of hope, as the National Foundation-March of Dimes in their team approach against birth defects starts to turn the tide. The people of Greater Boston may both feel secure and be proud of the work carried on by the March of Dimes both at its Boston Floating and Boston City Hospital Centers where work continues day and night.

"But advances ultimately depend on you and I as much as these gifted research personnel for they can operate only as fast as the needed funds avail themselves. I ask one and all to join the thirtieth March of Dimes in order that these birth defect victims return to their homes all the more quickly as productive members of society."

Fin Com Takes Stand On Outdoor Advertising

The Boston Finance Commission has sent the following recommendation to members of the House Ways Committee concerning the pending outdoor advertising bill:

"The Finance Commission of the City of Boston wishes to be recorded in favor of Senate 1363, now before your Honorable Committee, which seeks to prohibit the Outdoor Advertising Board from issuing a permit for a billboard, sign or other advertising device whenever written objection thereto is received from a city or town after a public hearing thereon.

"The Finance Commission has had a deep interest in this subject for some time. It has issued two reports on the subject, the first on June 9, 1965, and the second on December 6, 1965. In both these reports the Commission described the problem of sign proliferation and the helplessness of the affected communities to control that which they have to live with. In each report the Commission urged that the final decision on the appropriateness of a billboard be shifted to the local community.

Male Jobless Down

U. S. Commissioner of Labor Statistics Arthur Ross has attributed job and anti-poverty programs as being at least partially responsible for the new low in Negro male unemployment recently. The over-all rate of unemployment increased from 3.8 to 4.1 percent during September due to the addition of some one million adult women to the labor force (most of whom were short-term unemployed).

In contrast the unemployment rate for nonwhite men moved down to 3.5 percent which is the lowest rate since U. S. Department of Labor began keeping this statistic in 1954 and below the rate for all workers for the first time. The total nonwhite employment rate, which had dropped to about 7 percent in July and August, rose to 7.9 percent in September due primarily to the substantial rate for nonwhite women.

"While the Finance Commission is opposed to indiscriminate signs it is not indiscriminately opposed to all signs. It realizes that they have a distinct place and fulfill a distinct need in a modern urban society. However, standards and limits must be set and adhered to: uncontrolled signs undermine the urban environment. And the community should have the right to set its own standards.

"This is no mere issue of aesthetics. We are talking about solid community values.

"The Finance Commission endorses Senate 1363 as a step in the direction of giving a municipality needed control over signs and billboards and respectfully urges its enactment into law."

Boys' Clubs Voter Drive

If Boston does not have a big turnout of voters for the Municipal Election on November 7, it cannot be blamed on the enthusiastic work of members of the Boys' Clubs of Boston, none of whom are old enough to cast a vote themselves.

Leaders of both parties have been pleased by the determination of members of Boys' Clubs in Charlestown, Roxbury, and South Boston to get every potential eligible voter to the polls. President Dennis O'Keefe, of the Charles Hayden United Keystone Club, a short time ago presented to Chairmen Josiah A. Spaulding of the Republican State Committee and Lester S. Hyman of the Democratic State Committee leaflets urging all voters to exercise their franchises on November 7. The boys distributed the leaflets in all sections of the city.

To aid nonregistered eligibles to register, the leaflets containing time and location of registration offices were distributed in the 22 wards.

William J. Lynch, Executive Director of the Boys' Clubs of Boston, helped the youngsters in the coordination of their leaflet distribution campaign.

Roxbury Riot Probe

A U. S. Senate subcommittee charged with investigating the causes of this summer's urban riots has done some preliminary probing of the June riot in Boston's Roxbury section.

Jerome S. Adlerman, general counsel to Senator John McClellan's permanent subcommittee on investigations, confirmed that he went to Boston "about two months ago" and talked with several people.

This means that the Roxbury riot, that took place June 2 to 4, will be the object of two investigations.

President Johnson's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders also is looking into the riot.

Social Security Hours

The Roxbury Social Security District Office, 90 Warren street, announces a change in the extra hours it will be open to the public.

The office will be open every Saturday from 9 A.M. until noon.

The previous extra hours, Wednesdays until 8 P.M., will no longer be in effect.

The regular office hours, 9 A.M. to 5 P.M., Monday through Friday, will continue.

Xmas Postal Help

Application forms for Christmas season employment in the Boston Postal District are available in Room 220, 50 State street, Postmaster Ephraim Martin announced.

First priority will be given to those with prior postal experience, in accordance with the Post Office Department's latest instructions, Mr. Martin said.

If insufficient applications are received from those with experience in the Boston Post Office, he said, additional recruitment will be made in the following order of priority: 1, Civil Service Clerk-Carrier register; 2, Civil Service Mail Handler register; 3, Civil Service Seasonal Assistant register.

Applications will not be accepted from those who have not had prior postal experience, Mr. Martin said.

The last filing date for applicants will be Monday, November 13.

To Head ODWIN

Mrs. Delores E. Goode, an alumnus of the Boston City Hospital School of Nursing, has been appointed as Special Assistant to Miss Catherine M. Sullivan, Assistant Deputy Commissioner-Nursing of the Department of Health and Hospitals.

The appointment was effective September 20.

Mrs. Goode, who was raised in Roxbury, attended the Boston public schools.

In addition to being a part-time staff nurse in Pediatrics at Boston City Hospital while completing the requirements for her B.S. degree, Mrs. Goode was also a visiting nurse with the Boston Visiting Nurses Association.

From 1960 to 1962 Mrs. Goode was Chairman of the Pediatric Nursing Department at Massachusetts General Hospital School of Nursing.

Miss Sullivan said that Mrs. Goode, who obtained both her B.S. and M.S. degrees from Boston University, "has been assigned to the ODWIN Program whose slogan is—open the doors wider in nursing."

"This is a program," Miss Sullivan continued, "of recruitment, academic preparation and financial assistance that places special emphasis on recruiting and assisting minority and low-income students into and through a nursing program."

Miss Jean Scheinfeldt is the Coordinator for the ODWIN program which functions with a working committee of volunteer nurses and other interested people from the community.

Mrs. Goode's husband, Matthew Goode, is the Director, Speech Hearing Therapy, Taunton public schools, Taunton.

Retirement Bd. Head

Michael A. DeSimone, City of Boston Purchasing Agent, has been elected as chairman of the Boston Retirement Board by the Board. He will succeed Thomas J. McGrimley.

Dimes Award To BCH

New England Regional Director James M. Connolly of the National Foundation-March of Dimes and a national trustee of the organization has announced the allocation of $422,055 in grants for this fiscal period to 14 New England institutions. The funds are for the purpose of advancing work carried on in the field of birth defects. The National Foundation's attack on birth defects, undertaken shortly after its defeat of polio, falls basically into three areas: research, professional education, and medical care.

Of the $422,055 now operating, grants for education total $44,204, research $241,080, and medical care $136,771. The most recent of these grants was awarded to the Children's Hospital Medical Center in the amount of $57,445 to aid research carried on in clinical genetics under the direction of Dr. Park Gerald, the hospital's chief of that division.

The Newborn Nurseries—Research and Training Center at Boston City Hospital, under Dr. David Ingall, received a grant of $31,752.

Georgia Law OK'd

A three-judge federal panel has ruled that Georgia welfare officials can require mothers receiving financial aid to accept suitable jobs open to them or be denied assistance under that state's Aid to Dependent Children law.

The Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit announced that it would issue a formal ruling declaring valid Georgia's ADC program.

PRETTY BUT COSTLY

If you're looking for a girl to marry, steer clear of Dolcedo on the Italian Riviera. Should you take one of the village girls away, you'll have to pay the local marriage tax—from two to 20 dollars depending upon your auto or other signs of wealth. As Mayor Angelo Benza says: "It's a good old custom. After all, our girls are beautiful and make good wives. Strangers are lucky to get them."

Proceeds of the tax are always given to the local bachelors—to pay for a consolation party.

STANDARD ID CARDS FOR ALL INSPECTIONAL AND INVESTIGATORY PERSONNEL

(From the Office of the Director of Administrative Services — Arthur G. Coffey.)

At the request of his Honor the Mayor, a survey was conducted recently by the Administrative Services Department to ascertain the present policy throughout city departments in the issuance, distribution, and control of identification cards carried by municipal personnel who call upon the public in the course of their regular duties either in an investigatory or inspectional capacity.

The results of this survey indicated that many types of ID cards are presently in use. Sizes and types vary from agency to agency. Several agencies utilize plain business cards which could be printed or reproduced by anyone desiring to do so and two divisions of one agency issue badges, which could also be duplicated. Pictures of individual holders' signatures and counter signatures of supervisory personnel are lacking in many cases.

In order to correct this unbusinesslike system and to protect the public, I have been directed by his Honor to make arrangements to call in all existing ID cards or badges and substitute therefor a modern, updated ID card for personnel in the investigatory and inspectional categories that would incorporate the following features:

- Uniform size (laminated)
- Picture of individual
- Numbered for control purposes
- Signature of individual
- Counter signature of department or division head

Equipment has been acquired to carry out the wishes of the Mayor and these cards will be carried in the near future by all inspectional and investigatory personnel excepting uniformed police officers. The public should demand that these cards be displayed by individuals connected with city government before they are allowed into homes or places of business.

The survey also included information concerning so-called "over-the-counter" employees who wait on the public in various capacities throughout city departments. Occasionally, complaints are received from individuals who have received discourteous treatment while conducting business within various departments and, for obvious reasons, are sometimes reluctant to ask the individual's name after receiving such treatment. The majority of employees, however, are faithful, dedicated servants and cannot do enough to satisfy the requirements of the public.

Being aware that a few employees may create a wrong impression at the expense of the majority, I have also been requested by his Honor the Mayor to instruct department heads to issue an ID card or badge to each and every employee who waits on the public when they visit any of our city offices, departments, or institutions.

The card would only incorporate the wearer's name and the name of the department or agency with which he or she is associated.

Most of our large business firms throughout the city and country have adopted this policy and, the City of Boston, being one of the larger corporations in the Commonwealth, should and must be in keeping with the times.

MBTA Contract

The Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Bay Transit Authority has approved another major construction contract for the South Shore Rapid Transit Extension.

The contract award for $945,208.50 will be made to M. DeMatteo Construction Company of North Quincy, lowest of seven bidders, for a bridge to take the New Haven Railroad freight tracks across the rapid transit line in the Savin Hill area and for moving an abutment of the Southeast Expressway's Savin Hill Avenue Bridge to provide proper clearances for the railroad's freight operations.

The authorized contract award will be submitted to the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) for approval, Major General Rush B. Lincoln, general manager, reported.

The general manager said federal approval is anticipated because the bid is less than the figure HUD has already approved as the cost estimate.

Neponset Bridge Bids

The Metropolitan District Commission announced last week it would open bids on October 31 for the initial phase of its six and a half million dollar Neponset River Bridge project to eliminate traffic bottlenecks at Neponset Circle and in North Quincy. Commissioner Howard Whitmore, Jr., said the work is estimated to cost $530,000.

Projects included in the first phase are:

1. Widening Gallivan Boulevard 5 feet inbound from Hallet street to Neponset Circle.

2. Building a "jug-handle" turn and installing traffic signals at Gallivan Boulevard and Hallet street to permit the closing of an opening in the existing median strip opposite Clover street and the shopping center entrance at this location.

3. Widening and converting Morrissey Boulevard in Quincy to a divided highway from the vicinity of Atlantic street to a point beyond East Squantum street.

The Morrissey Boulevard design calls for a continuous median strip except for one opening opposite Bay State road. This opening will have traffic signals and will be serviced by a "jug-handle" turnabout on the southerly side of the boulevard to reduce traffic hazards.

U. S. Census Query

Information to determine how many children and adults under 35 are enrolled either in school or college is being sought here this week, Director James W. Turbitt of the Census Bureau Regional Office in Boston announced.

Questions on this subject are asked each year at this time to update national figures on public, private, and special school enrollment, full and part-time college attendance, the number of high school graduates and dropouts, and the last year of regular schooling for non-high school graduates.

A similar survey taken a year ago showed that more than 55 million persons were enrolled in school or college, about 30 percent of the civilian population. The 1966 figures represented an increase of 19 percent over 1960 enrollment.

The survey will be taken simultaneously throughout the U.S. from a representative sample of the nation's households.

$19.2 Million for Hub

Boston will receive $19,215,446—or by far the largest share—of the $62 million the state will pay in its take-over of local welfare costs under the new welfare-reorganization law.

Boston's annual welfare bill, expected to touch $92 million this year, will thus be paid for entirely by the federal and state governments, out of income and business taxes, sparing Hub property owners roughly $12 on their tax rates.

Other cities' local welfare costs, now to be picked up by the state, include Cambridge, which will get $1.7 million of the $62 million; Brockton, $1 million; Chelsea, $634,000; Everett, $576,000; Fall River, $1.9 million.

Also, Haverhill, $839,000; Lawrence, $1.1 million; Lynn, $1.7 million; Lowell, $1.7 million; Malden, $627,000; New Bedford, $1.8 million; Quincy, $696,000, and Somerville, $1.5 million.

Canister Drive

The Muscular Dystrophy 1967 canister drive is under way. Deputy Fire Chief Frederick Clauss, aided by Fire Lieutenants George Graney and Sebastian Alongi are supervising the distribution and placement of over 1,500 Muscular Dystrophy canisters in the various business and commercial establishments in the Boston area.

Arthur Ceurvels, President of Boston Firefighters Local No. 718—I.A.F.F., and William H. McClenan, Vice-President, Third District of the International Association of Firefighters, head up the committee which will be picking up the canisters and tabulating the returns in November around Thanksgiving time.

Recreation Centers

Boston Parks and Recreation centers are open for the season.

The centers will be open Monday through Saturday with days set aside for boys and men and others for girls and women.

The centers will have programs for young and old every day of the week. Basketball games will be played on certain nights.

Also open are the five Golden Age groups in centers at Hyde Park, Roslindale, Tobin Building, Brighton, and at the Lee Street Playground, South Boston.

These centers are open Monday through Friday.

The contest was held in conjunction with a proclamation by Boston Mayor Collins for the observance of Police Week, May 14-20. The essays were entitled "What the Boston Police Department Means to Me and My Family."

Soft Sell Idea

Persuasion, rather than prosecution, is the emphasis of an experimental program that the City of New York started recently to convince landlords that they should obey the housing code.

The new program concentrates housing inspectors, rehabilitation specialists, city planners and community organizers in selected neighborhoods that are not yet slums but show signs of deterioration. These officials comb the neighborhood, uncovering violations and offering help in the way of low-cost federal and city loans and technical advice on rehabilitation to landlords who want to repair their property.

The program which is financed by a $4 million federal grant, represents an increasing awareness among housing officials that the threat of jail sentences and meager fines are not sufficient to produce better housing in deteriorating neighborhoods. The officials noted that many owners of slum properties simply write off small court fines as business expenses and never make the needed repairs while the small owners, usually can't afford repairs, and sometimes have to abandon their property if enforcement becomes too stiff.

New York City will supplement the $4 million from Washington with another $2 million to be spent largely for such improvements as new street lighting, park benches, and trees.

Yule Mail Truck Bids

Postmaster Ephraim Martin on Monday announced a need for one- and two-ton capacity vehicles and station wagons for collection and delivery of Christmas mail during the period December 11 to 26.

Postmaster Martin said the bids must be made on an hourly rate, without driver. He said the driver would be paid separately at the rate of $2.44 an hour.

Bids must be received no later than 12 noon, October 31, at the Christmas Contract Vehicle Unit, Vehicle Maintenance Facility, 135 A street, Boston.

REVISING FEES FOR ELEVATOR AND ESCALATOR INSTALLATION, ETC.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, July 7, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Transmitted herewith is communication (and accompanying ordinance) recently sent me by the Building Commissioner and recommending a revision in the fees for elevator and escalator inspections and permits.

I concur with the Building Commissioner that Boston should have a schedule of fees in this area more nearly commensurate with the expenses of the Building Department incident to this field of its operations. Accordingly, I recommend the early adoption of the Ordinance submitted herewith.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Building Department, June 30, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

One of my first acts as Building Commissioner was to examine the organization and operation of the Elevator Division. The results of my examination disclosed two needs.

The first, for more elevator inspectors, and the second, for a more realistic schedule of elevator inspection fees.

I have already increased the number of people in our Elevator Division from five to nine. This will go far toward helping us inspect the more than eleven thousand elevators in the city each year. I understand that this has not always been done in the past.

Fees for elevator inspection in the last ten or so years have not in any way kept pace with our costs nor do they reflect, even in a small way, the value of this service. Accordingly, I recommend that you submit to the City Council the accompanying ordinance (drafted in the Corporation Counsel's office), which would revise not only the fee for elevator and escalator installation, alteration and repair permits, but also the fees for elevator and escalator inspections. The proposed fees are in line with the cost to the City of Boston and are not out of line with those charged by other large metropolitan government agencies.

I do not expect any valid objection or serious opposition to be interposed to these increased fees. We have been giving excellent service and responsible property owners will recognize its value.

Sincerely yours,

R. R. THUMA, JR.,
Building Commissioner.

City of Boston
In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-Seven.

An Ordinance Revising the Fees for Elevator and Escalator Installation, Alteration and Repair Permits and for Elevator and Escalator Inspections.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1 of chapter 30 of the Revised Ordinances of 1961 is hereby amended by striking out clauses (96) and (97) and inserting in place thereof the following causes:

(96) Elevator or Escalator Installation, Alteration or Repair Permit. The fee of the building commissioner for receiving an application for a permit under paragraph (a) of section 111 of the Boston Building Code to install, alter or substantially repair one or more elevators shall be $18.00 for the first elevator and $15.00 for each additional elevator on the same premises or on adjacent premises in the same ownership or control; provided, that if such application relates exclusively to one or more builder's hoists, the fee shall be $18.00 for each car; and provided, further, that if such application relates exclusively to one or more dumbwaiters, the fee shall be $3.00 for each car. The word "elevator," as used in this clause, shall be construed to include escalator.

(97) Elevator and Escalator Inspection. The fee of the building commissioner for inspecting and testing under section 64 of chapter 143 of the General Laws an elevator as defined in section 62 of said chapter 143 shall be $12.00 for the first elevator and $10.00 for each additional elevator on the same premises or on adjacent premises in the same ownership or control; except that in cases where, at the request of the owner or person in control of the premises where an elevator is located, such inspection and testing is done at a time other than when the office of the building commissioner is open for the transaction of public business, such fee shall be $22.00 for the first elevator and $20.00 for each additional elevator on such premises or on adjacent premises in the same ownership or control.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

PROPOSAL TO CLASSIFY MEMBERS OF YOUTH ACTIVITIES COMMISSION AS SPECIAL MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES

The following was received.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, July 7, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication recently received by me from the Chairman of the Youth Activities Commission concerning the Commission's vote asking that the Commission members be designated as special municipal employees under the provisions of chapter 268A of the General Laws.

The powers and duties of the Commission are defined in St. 1965, c. 391, s. 2, as follows:

"The commission shall conduct research, and establish and carry on, and encourage others to establish and carry on, programs and activities designed to reduce or prevent delinquency and other problems among the youth of said city or to improve the health or welfare of juveniles in said city in need of guidance, recreation, counselling, assistance, referral, testing, care, education, training, placement, or cultural or social development. The commission shall cooperate with federal, state and municipal agencies concerned with any of the foregoing, and shall coordinate its functions with private agencies concerned therewith."

Section 1 of the same act specifies that the Commission members shall serve without compensation.

Since it thus appears that, by employing standards reasonably related to the stated purpose and terms and provisions of chapter 268A, a special municipal employee classification may be made in the case of all members of this Commission, I am submitting for your consideration the accompanying order classifying all members of the Youth Activities Commission as special municipal employees for the purposes of the so-called Conflict of Interest Law.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Youth Activities Commission,

June 13, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

In view of the fact that several of the members of the Youth Activities Commission whom you have appointed to sit voluntarily as Commission members wish a clarification of their status in respect to the so-called Conflict of Interest Statute, the Commission has voted to respectfully ask that you send an order to the City Council of Boston seeking to have the Commission members designated as special municipal employees under the provisions of chapter 268A of the Massachusetts General Laws.

Very truly yours,

DAVID S. NELSON.

Ordered, That until further order all present and subsequent incumbents of the offices of those enumerated below be, and the same hereby are, classified as Special Municipal Employees for the purposes of chapter 268A of the General Laws:

All members of the Youth Activities Commission established by chapter 391 of the Acts of 1965.

APPROPRIATION OF $79,344 TO COVER NEW LABOR AGREEMENTS

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, July 10, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I submit herewith an order for an appropriation of $79,334 together with a letter from the Supervisor of Budgets explaining the reasons therefor.

I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department,
July 10, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Recently collective bargaining contracts were approved by your Honor and also the Honorable City Council affecting employees in both city and county departments. Specifically the unions involved represent: Power Plant Engineers and Steam Firemen, Jail Officers and Matrons, Institution Nurses, Correction Officers, Social Workers at the House of Correction and District Court personnel.

City and county departments involved numbered eighteen (18) and represented a monetary benefit to the employees involved of $196,041.20 which could only be arrived at after a complex and detailed computation.

To determine the additional funds required to each department during the year the amounts previously appropriated to meet increments under the previous pay plan were deducted and a projection of each department's payroll was made. In many instances surplus funds were available where positions were vacant through retirements, deaths or possibly the inability to hire the technical employees needed for the position.

In departments where appropriations appeared adequate to meet the demands of the contract for the remainder of the year it was considered proper not to ask for additional funds at this time. In the final analysis seven (7) departments including three (3) district courts will require an additional appropriation totaling in the aggregate $79,334, submitted as an enclosure.

It is respectfully requested than an appropriation order for the additional funds be submitted to the City Council if this meets with your approval.

Respectfully,

HENRY T. BRENNAN,
Supervisor of Budgets.

COMMUNICATION RE APPOINTMENT OF LICENSING BOARD MEMBERS

The following was received:

League of Women Voters of Boston,
July 7, 1967.

Mr. J. M. Dunlea,
City Clerk.

Dear Mr. Dunlea:

Enclosed is a copy of a letter we have sent to the Boston City Council.

The League of Women Voters of Boston is most concerned about the present method of appointing the members of the Boston Licensing Board and feel that steps should be taken immediately in order that this question be on the ballot in November.

We would be most happy to have the opportunity to discuss this matter with you.

Sincerely,

MRS. KARLE F. SIEGFRIEDT, President.

League of Women Voters of Boston,
July 7, 1967.

City Hall, School Street,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Councillors:

The members of the Boston City Council have frequently responded with concern to the expressed needs of the residents of the City of Boston.

The League of Women Voters of Boston, therefore, turns to you with confidence in your willingness to act on a situation which violates the recently enacted Home Rule Amendment and strongly affects the welfare of the people of Boston.

This violation (of Home Rule) concerns the manner of appointing the Boston Licensing Board. As you well know, the Licensing Board is under the control and operation of three commissioners who are appointees of the Governor for a term of six years. The Licensing Board brings in revenue close to two million dollars to the City of Boston and about 90 percent of this comes from its 1,000 liquor licenses. The present method of appointing this board is practiced without the assumption of responsibility to the residents. The Licensing Board, which has broad powers, is neither accountable to the Mayor, nor, in practice, to the appointing authority.

The League of Women Voters of Boston feels that the Boston City Council should proceed immediately with the necessary steps outlined in the Home Rule Procedures Act, Article 89 of the Amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, approved by the people at the elections, November 3, 1964, and November 8, 1966. It is our opinion that this amendment grants directly to the people of this community a right to replace these gubernatorially named local officials upon the recommendation of the City Council, with concurrence of the Mayor, section 10, chapter 73A, Acts of Extra Session of the General Court in 1966. In order that this change be made and put on the ballot in November, it is necessary that you proceed immediately.

As a result of a study culminating in May, 1967, the League of Women Voters supports measures to incorporate into our city charter provisions for appointment of the Licensing Board members by the Mayor. This is in accordance with the Plan A Charter and in conformity with all other departments of the city. The Mayor is, in effect, responsible for the actions of the Licensing Board, and, therefore, should have the authority for appointing the members. We also support measures that there be a requirement of written policy as a guideline and that all opinions and decisions be written and available to the public.

We will be most happy to discuss with you any questions you may have regarding the foregoing request. Please feel free to call us anytime at the above number or 323-2051.

Sincerely,

MRS. KARLE F. SIEGFRIEDT, President.

Referred to the Committee on Legislative Matters.

CITIZENS COUNCIL FOR CHARLESTOWN

Coun. HYNES offered the following:

CITY ORDINANCE

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston as follows:

That an election of a nonpaid Board of Citizens be held at the next Municipal Primary Election in Ward 2 (Charlestown). This Board would be known as the Charlestown Citizens Council. This Board would consist of two elected members from each of the seven precincts of Ward 2 for a total of 14 members.

ELECTION.—The election would be held every two years during the Boston Municipal Primary in September, starting this September. Names of the candidates would follow the names of national, state, county, and city candidates on the ballot. The same election rules that govern city candidates would be followed with one exception: Citizens council candidates would not be allowed to spend any money on their election campaigns.

QUALIFICATIONS.—Candidates must be residents of their precincts at least one year, must be registered voters in their precincts, and must obtain 50 signatures of precinct voters to qualify. Otherwise they will follow the same election rules of regular city candidates.

CITIZENS COUNCIL DUTIES.—Council will hold bimonthly public meetings in available municipal buildings in the ward. The group will elect a nonvoting chairman at the first meeting. The chairman will have the title of "Ombudsman." The council will set up its own by-laws with help of the city's legal department. Majority vote of the Board will determine most eminent projects, city services, complaints or course of action to be taken to improve the ward.

OMBUDSMAN DUTIES.—He will preside at meetings. He will serve as liaison between citizens council and city departments and other elected officials. He will bring suggestions of citizens council directly to the attention of the department heads or those responsible.

COMPENSATION.—Citizens council members will receive no pay or expense allowances.

Coun. CRAVEN in the chair.

President HYNES in the chair.

Coun. HINES moved to amend the ordinance and likewise ask it be referred to the Committee on Ordinances, the amendment to read, "a similar ordinance be prepared for the Roslindale-West Roxbury area, the Brighton-Allston area, the South Boston area, the East Boston area, and for such other areas of the City of Boston as the committee in its wisdom deems necessary."

The motion was carried.

The ordinance as amended was referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

RECESS

On motion of Councillor Piemonte, the Council voted to take a recess at 3.45 P.M., subject to the call of the Chair. The members reassembled in the Council Chamber and were called to order by Senior Member Craven at 5.28 P.M.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE REPORTS

Coun. PIEMONTE, for the Executive Committee, submitted the following:

1. Report on communication (referred June 26) on loan of $4,000,000 re tax-producing status of proposed B. U. garage—makes the following report:

At the hearing held today it was disclosed that no conference had been held between the representatives of the City Hospital and the Boston University Medical Center, which were the two institutions involved in this loan order, or the land now being offered by the Department of Public Works. In view of the fact that the representatives of the Boston City Hospital have not had the opportunity to meet with the representatives of the Boston University Medical Center, it was the unanimous opinion of the committee that the order be rejected without prejudice.

The report was accepted.

2. Report on message of the Mayor and order (referred May 15) for loan of $4,000,000 for constructing and equipping facilities for the Public Works Department—recommending that the order be rejected without prejudice.

The report was accepted, and the order was rejected without prejudice.

3. Report on communication (referred June 26) on loan of $4,000,000 re tax-producing status of proposed garage—recommending that the communication be rejected without prejudice.

The report was accepted and the communication was rejected without prejudice.

MINORITY REPORT

Coun. FOLEY, member of the Executive Committee, submitted the following minority report:

1. It now appears that the proposal is that the City of Boston shall spend $4,000,000 to remove the Public Works Department yard to make space for this garage for the Boston University Medical Center.

2. That the City Hospital in its expansion plan shall spend $2,800,000 or more for a garage which it need not build were it permitted to develop all the 7½ abandoned acres as a flat parking lot.

3. It appears that after this insult has been added to that injury, Mr. Logue has rather clearly although in devious language for and in behalf of the City of Boston given away something in the order of $800,000 a year in taxes.

It is upon this sort of record that the gentleman now seeks election.

WILLIAM J. FOLEY, JR.,

Member of the Executive Committee.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PRESIDENT URGES OPEN STADIUM IN SOUTH STATION AREA

The three-year stalemate holding up a new Boston sports stadium can be broken with legislation providing for an open facility near South Station in Downtown Boston, the President of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce said on October 26.

Bernard J. O'Keefe urged the Governor and the Legislature to enact such legislation with the provision that a cover might be added to the structure in future years.

"Right now," Mr. O'Keefe said, "we have to act on the kind of facility that the people of Massachusetts and Greater Boston can afford. An open stadium, such as has been built in Atlanta, St. Louis, Anaheim, and Oakland, would be entirely adequate and more financially feasible as compared to a covered facility."

"A covered stadium has certain advantages such as guaranteed television dates and spectator comfort," the Chamber President said, "but the proposed legislation which authorizes construction of such a facility would mean an outlay of $100 million in state funds over a 40-year period with an estimated annual deficit of $2.5 million."

"An open stadium, on the other hand, can be built for between $30 and $35 million, depending upon design, and would mean an annual deficit of less than $1 million. We haven't any choice if we want the people of this area to be viewing spectator sports in a new facility in the foreseeable future," he continued.

"I don't think the people of St. Louis had anything to be ashamed of with their facility in the World Series, and I don't think Boston would be any less a city if it also did not have a domed stadium. The Red Sox tell us they would prefer an open stadium at this time," he pointed out.

"The real need here is not for a dome," he offered, "rather it is for a facility that will accommodate significantly more people—an additional 20,000—in better viewing positions. I think the World Series brought home to many people just how small Fenway Park really is. There were shockingly few tickets available for the general public in the four games played here."

"Beyond seating capacity, the other real needs are for supporting transportation and parking facilities," he said. "As the Chamber has pointed out so many times in the past the South Station area is the logical place because it is at the center of a network of major highways and two main MBTA rapid transit lines pass within walking distance."

"South Station has been further enhanced this week with passage of the legislation enabling the Massachusetts Port Authority to develop the 23-acre South Station terminal site. This would include a garage for 5,200 cars which could be utilized for night events at the stadium. This project also strengthens the proposed redevelopment of the Central Business District which stadium goers will also be visiting," he concluded.

Welfare Impact

Mitchell Ginsberg, New York City's Welfare Commissioner, recently gave a Congressional Committee a blunt summary of the statistics of the nation's welfare system. Here are some of the statements that he made:

The nation's welfare rolls have swelled from 5.3 million people in 1957 to 7.7 million today. Comparatively, Boston's caseload has grown from 26,464 in August, 1957, to 45,877 in August 1967.

In the past decade, federal-state costs of welfare have skyrocketed from $2 billion to $7 billion. And if you include private welfare agency spending, total U. S. spending for welfare is now at $15 billion a year.

The "welfare category" is growing by more than 200,000 people a year in a period of record employment, economic growth, and expanding anti-poverty efforts. "What is needed," Commissioner Ginsberg said, "are entirely new, imaginative approaches to the whole problem of welfare."

Dr. Demone Heads UCS

Dr. Harold W. Demone, Jr., is the new executive director of the United Community Services of Metropolitan Boston. Dr. Demone is a member of the faculty of the Harvard Medical School and the Boston University School of Medicine and was, prior to his appointment at UCS, the executive director of the Medical Foundation.

Relocation Assistance

More than 200 families relocated through urban renewal or in the process have received the expert assistance of the staff of The Furniture Store in getting good furniture at reasonable prices. The store is unique—there is no other like it in the city.

The store has moved to larger quarters at 116 West Brookline street (between Tremont street and Shawmut avenue). It continues to be run as a nonprofit public service by the Family Relocation Program of United South End Settlements.

The new quarters provide space to display many of the items on sale, and everyone is welcome to come by and see the armchairs, sofas, dinette sets, and other articles.

In addition to finished new furniture at drastically reduced prices, there is unfinished furniture at even greater savings. There are also good buys available from time to time in used furniture.

Among the many items on sale are living room furniture (including sofas, armchairs, occasional chairs, and end tables), bedroom furniture, and dinette sets. There are also table lamps, pole lamps, rugs, and pictures. Color and style selections may be made.

Medical Records Head

Appointment of Arnold W. Fieber as Assistant Deputy Commissioner, Medical Records, was announced by the Department of Health and Hospitals on October 30.

Mr. Fieber will be in charge of the management of all medical records for the department. These include out-patient records, hospital records for the Boston City Hospital, the two chronic disease facilities (Long Island and Mattapan), and the Health Department records.

He brings an outstanding record of work in the field of medical records management to his new position.

He will be responsible for developing programs and procedures using the most up-to-date methods to assure the effective and accurate recording, transcription, storage, and retrieval of medical information, contributing significantly to the department's continued efforts in achieving greater patient well-being.

Mr. Fieber has been Registrar at the Lahey Clinic for 14 years.

His past experience also includes serving as Administrative Officer (Medical) Registrar, Veterans Administration Hospital, Waukesha, Wisconsin.

New BFD Rule

Boston's 1,900 uniformed fire fighters now have the right to reside outside the city within a 10-mile range.

Fire Chief and Acting Fire Commissioner John E. Clougherty announced implementation of a new regulation recently approved by the City Council.

The rule permits fire fighters with five or more years' service to take a residence outside the city.

The rule is similar to one adopted for Boston's 2,600 policemen.

Police Dept. Raise

Boston Mayor John F. Collins on October 27 announced his approval of a collective bargaining agreement between the city and the Police Collective Bargaining Federation representing 350 police sergeants, lieutenants, and captains. The new contract equalizes their salaries with the current salaries of their counterparts in the service of the Metropolitan District Commission. The new pay scale is effective November 1, 1967, and will remain in effect for a period of one year subject to ratification of the new mayor. The contract further provides for a reduction in the number of years required to reach maximum salary from six years to four years. The contract will cost $50,000 for the balance of 1967 and $300,000 in 1968.

The agreement has no effect on salaries for 2,000 Boston patrolmen. Negotiations between the city and the Patrolmen's Association broke down when the Association's negotiators walked out from a bargaining session with the city on October 16.

Winter Parking Rules

Traffic and Parking Commissioner Thomas F. Carty announces the all-night parking rule in effect during the winter months.

During the period from November 1, 1967, through March 31, 1968, all-night parking is allowed only on the odd-numbered side of the street.

If there are signs reading "No Parking Any Time" on the odd-numbered side of the street only, then you may park all night on the even-numbered side of the street.

This rule is effective in every section of the City of Boston outside of the Central Business District.

The Commissioner explains that failure to comply with the above constitutes a traffic hazard, impairing transportation, the movement of food, fuel supplies, medical care, fire, health and police protection, and other vital services to the residents of Boston.

Park Department Reports Rampant Vandalism

Vandalism soared over a recent weekend, as $45,000 in damage was reported in Boston Parks and Recreation buildings in Roxbury, Dorchester, and the North End.

Park Commissioner John J. Tierney greatly perturbed said "The Vandals by their destructive acts, in addition to destroying municipal property and depriving children of recreational facilities are adding additional burden to the taxpayer, funds earmarked for improvements in the department budget will now have to be used to repair the expensive damages caused by these wanton acts."

At Walker Playground in Dorchester, fire resulted in approximately $30,000 damage to the field house. In Roxbury $10,000 damage was caused at the John Winthrop Play Area, due to fire. It is reported that at both sites houses were broken into on the playgrounds on an average of twice a week, with thefts and damages resulting.

Breaks were also reported at the Franklin Field Bowling Green Room where approximately $3,500 loss in damage and theft resulted. At the North End Park Pool over $1,500 damage was wreaked as the refreshment stand was practically destroyed.

Autumn Auto Hazards

Motor Vehicle Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin announces:

"We have had numerous reports of accidents and near accidents caused by motorists who are more concerned with viewing the colorful foliage than they are with highway safety.

"All drivers are urged to park their vehicles in a safe place off the highway, before pausing to enjoy or photograph the autumn foliage.

"The beautiful fall foliage has a very dangerous aftermath: the same colorful leaves are treacherous and dangerous on the pavement, especially when wet or matted.

"The end of Daylight Saving Time is the beginning of the most dangerous period of the year on our highways. Millions of motorists find that the peak commuting hours now occur at darkness. All drivers should operate at reduced speed as twilight falls to give themselves the chance to adjust their vision to darkness. Headlights should be turned on the moment the sun begins to set in order to avoid the dangers which lurk in the shadows."

UCS Christmas Cheer

Christmas is the season of cheer. For you, perhaps, but not everyone. For many the Yuletide season is a cruel one of disillusionment and despair—for those who cannot have that little extra joy for their families and themselves.

The Christmas Bureau of United Community Services gives thousands of Greater Boston organizations and individuals a clearing house through which to channel their Christmas giving to children, families, and the aged and lonely who would have no Christmas at all otherwise.

Last year about 9,000 people benefited from the parties, programs, and gifts of company groups and employee organizations

In the Bureau's 12th year, it will coordinate the registration of names of families needing Christmas help. Company clubs or employee groups wishing to share their joys of the season by helping a needy family, giving a party for children, or brightening the Christmas of a lonely senior citizen may contact the Bureau which in turn will arrange the proper method of assisting.

The Bureau, supported by the Massachusetts Bay United Fund, does not solicit or accept funds or gifts. It exists solely to eliminate duplication in giving and thereby spread Christmas cheer to as many needy persons as possible.

Among the many agencies co-operating in the Christmas Clearing Bureau are the Salvation Army, Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Boston Globe Santa Fund, and the Boston Public Welfare Department.

The Bureau also works with the "Toys for Tots" program of the local Marine Corps Reserve. Bureau workers will help the Marines find deserving youngsters for the thousands of toys they collect.

Employees or groups wishing to help someone less fortunate than themselves at Christmastime should call the Christmas Bureau of United Community Services at 742-2000. The Bureau will put them in touch with the proper agency through which they can work.

Student Driver Law

"Motor vehicles registered out of state and driven by nonresidents enrolled as students in Massachusetts must be identified by a decal displayed on the upper center of the windshield," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin announces. The new law governing nonresident student motorists becomes effective on November 27.

"This is another step forward in identifying and locating drivers and motor vehicles using Massachusetts highways and, in cases of accidents and violations, will greatly facilitate investigations by the Registry and Police Departments," he said.

The Registrar explained that nonresident students at our schools and colleges who drive out-of-state registered vehicles for more than 30 days in the aggregate in the Commonwealth between September 1 and August 31 of the following year must file a statement in triplicate under penalties of perjury with the Police Department where the school or college is located. The Police Department will send one copy to the Registrar of Motor Vehicles and one copy to the student's school or college which will then issue a numbered or lettered decal to the student and compile and maintain a register on such students. A fine is provided of not more than $50 for students who fail to file and not more than $100 for schools and colleges for each offense. Forms are available at schools and colleges.

The statement seeks the following information: registration number and make of the motor vehicle and state or country of registration, name and address of owner, names and addresses of all insurers providing liability insurance covering operation, legal residence and residence of student while attending school or college, and name and address of the school or college attended.

VII. MASSACHUSETTS BAY UNITED FUND CAMPAIGN—1968

His Honor, Mayor John F. Collins, has called attention to the annual United Fund Campaign for 1968 which is now under way. His Honor, the Mayor, hopes that the customary generosity of Fire Department employees will be repeated this year. Fire Commissioner Fitzgerald is the Chairman of the City Government Employees Group.

Pledge cards and literature concerning the United Fund Campaign are being distributed to the department today. Company commanders and heads of branch divisions are requested to interview each member of their commands, including employees on sick and injured leave, and ask them to make a contribution. All pledge cards are to be made out and returned to Headquarters on or before October 13, 1967. However, completed cards with initial donations should be sent to Headquarters as soon as possible before the above date. Company commanders are requested not to hold a number of completed cards while awaiting receipt of others.

Also issued with this order are subscribers' receipts which company commanders will fill out and give to each member upon receipt of a pledge or a payment. Report envelopes are being sent out to each company on which the company commander will list the amount to be contributed through payroll deduction and also the amount of gifts which are paid in full at the time of solicitation. Cards of members who request that payroll deductions be made and those which will be billed directly by the Massachusetts Bay United Fund, shall not be placed in the white report envelope, but should be forwarded to Headquarters by October 6 if possible.

The sealed envelopes containing pledge cards and currency will be received at Headquarters by Principal Clerk Joseph P. Cawley on or before October 13, 1967. Payroll deduction cards will also be forwarded to him. Delivery of envelopes and pledge cards can be made on any weekday except Saturday between 9 A.M. and 3 P.M.

A member may pledge a sum of money and have it deducted on the department payroll in accordance with the provision of chapter 180, section 17B of the General Laws. However, deductions can be made on the payroll only four times a year during the weeks in which there will be no Blue Cross deductions as follows: weeks ending January 30, May 29, August 28, and October 30, 1968.

Deductions of less than $1 cannot be made on the payroll. There is a space on each card for a member who desires to pledge a certain amount to make a down payment and have the United Fund bill him for the balance in four payments as indicated on the card or on some particular date to be inserted on the card by the member.

Additional pledge cards and envelopes may be obtained at Headquarters.

WIDESPREAD CRIME COSTS UNITED STATES $27 BILLION ANNUALLY, SAYS FBI HEAD

In view of the national increase in crime the following analytic report of Director J. Edgar Hoover of the FBI is of timely interest:

Today, thousands of Americans live in fear. They fear for their lives, the safety of their families, their homes, and their businesses. The cause of their fear is crime.

Without a doubt, crime is rapidly becoming our nation's number one internal problem. For years, we have seen apologists, misguided sociologists, and well-meaning but misinformed public officials rationalize the spiraling crime rate and excuse criminal behavior.

We have seen an apathetic public ignore the warning signals of surging criminality which is costing taxpayers an estimated $27 billion annually. We have seen a criminal "feedback," caused by judicial leniencies, including pardons, paroles, and probation, which is a disgrace to our system of criminal justice. And we have seen loopholes, technicalities, and delays release hundreds of hardened, unrepentant criminals on the streets to prey again on the public while awaiting trial on easily provable charges.

Crime Up 62 Percent Since '60

Nearly 3½ million crimes were reported in 1966, an 11 percent increase over 1965. Figures for the first 6 months of 1967 show a 17 percent increase above the 1966 totals for the same period. Is it any wonder that more and more people are living in fear of crime?

Let us examine some of the popular arguments by those who attempt to explain away our intolerable crime problem. First, we are told that crime increases because our population continues to grow. This is true, but the volume of crime is up 62 percent since 1960 while our national population has risen only 9 percent during that period. Thus, crime is outstripping population growth by almost 7 to 1.

We are told that revised and improved reporting methods by law enforcement agencies result in more violations being reported. This contention carries no weight. Hundreds of departments which have had approved uniform crime reporting systems for years continue to have increases in all categories year after year with no change whatsoever in their reporting methods. These increases are attributable to only one thing—a rise in the volume of crime. Further, agencies which do update their reporting systems are not included in the national trend totals until they have established two comparable records under their revised setups. This is done to avoid any marked increase or decrease which may result from a change in reporting procedures.

And we are told that much of the rise in crime is caused by the extensive population growth of the crime-prone young age group. Here again we see shallow reasoning. The young-age-group population, 10 to 17 years, rose 19 percent during the 7-year period of 1960 through 1966. Arrests of persons in this group for serious crimes increased 54 percent during the same time.

Clamors for Leniency

No right-thinking person could oppose long-range programs to alleviate and eradicate conditions which breed crime. But the man, woman, and child on the street today are more concerned with their immediate safety. And rightly so, since the risk of their becoming victims of serious crime has risen 48 percent since 1960.

The young child who is criminally assaulted, the corner grocer who is repeatedly robbed, the elderly lady at the bus stop who is mugged and brutally beaten, and the thousands of others who are victimized each day by vicious thugs want instant as well as permanent relief. They, too, have rights. But their cries for help are frequently drowned out by the clamor for mercy and leniency for guilty lawbreakers who scoff at law and order and the rights of society.

Justice must extend beyond the courtroom back to the site where the victim's rights are violated. When the individual is no longer reasonably secure in his home and on the streets of his community, then justice is not served. Rather, the criminal is being favored at the expense of the law-abiding citizen.

Crime can no longer be shrouded by appeasement and rationalization. Its magnitude is frightening. Crime must be reduced by eliminating the huge profits and the soft justice which attract criminal-minded individuals. Avalanches of crime and terrorism cannot be tolerated in a society of free men. Either we win the war against crime or the priceless heritage which we cherish will be destroyed.

Full justice is needed — stern justice. We need justice which keeps the balance true and affords the law-abiding public an even break. We need justice which deals swiftly and surely with the criminal, convincing justice which means a quick arrest, prompt prosecution, and substantial punishment of the guilty lawbreaker.

Volume—Port's Need

Cost is the major problem in the Port of Boston, but it can be resolved if New England importers and exporters provide volume, Edward J. King, Executive Director of the Massachusetts Port Authority, told the newly formed International Center of New England, Inc., at a recent meeting.

Merging to form the new organization were the International Trade Association of New England, Inc., and The World Trade Center in New England, Inc.

President of the new organization is Prescott C. Crafts, Jr., who is Vice-President of The First National Bank of Boston.

Crafts was described as "a man of amazing ability and energy" by Charles S. Luther, master of ceremonies, who was elected an ICNE Vice-President. Luther is Supervisor of Export Controls, International Sales and Services, Raytheon Company.

President Crafts announced that the new International Center of New England had selected Rear Admiral Harry Hull (U. S. Navy, Ret'd.) as its Executive Director.

Since 1964 until his retirement last July, Admiral Hull was Director, Navy Shore Activities Development and Control Division, in the Pentagon, responsible for advising the Chief of Naval Operations on shore installations, worldwide, and developing and presenting to Congress the Navy's annual request for military construction authorization and funds.

Crafts called the merger "exciting" and added: "We all want a first-class top quality International Trade Center." He noted that the leading growth industry today is international business, which, he said, is growing at a more rapid annual rate than the Gross National Product (GNP).

Crafts said the merger represented a consolidation of the international business community, reflecting "our liaison with the World Affairs Council of Boston."

He expressed the conviction that the International Center of New England can contribute much to the regional economy.

"We have a headquarters, a staff, stepped-up service, trade leads, a library, etc.," Crafts said. The headquarters is at 470 Atlantic avenue, Boston, the address of the former World Trade Center.

According to Crafts, ICNE plans a greater program of meetings, will issue a new newsletter, and has retained professional public relations assistance.

King said that the Massachusetts Port Authority, which promotes the port and is not a party to the ILA-Boston Shipping Association contract, has spent $8 million on improvements to the Port of Boston in the last nine years.

"Investment by the Port Authority has not been the problem," he said. Noting that the Port is now starting to lose sailings it has had for years, King said everyone concerned must generate enthusiasm and ideas.

He said the role of New England importers and exporters is to assist the Port and to put all possible exports or imports through Boston.

"One factor is a lack of volume," he said, "and you can help by having the extra cargo there."

Junior Women at BCH

Junior Women's Club members of Massachusetts will convene at Boston City Hospital November 11 in "Operation Healthy Baby," a joint program effort between the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs, Junior Division, and the National Foundation-March of Dimes to promulgate greater public understanding of the problem of birth defects. Planning the meeting are Miss Margaret Morrill, Research Nurse; Dr. David Ingall, Chief of Newborn Nurseries, Boston City Hospital; Mrs. Richard G. Averill, Director, Junior Division, Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Arthur Hotch, New England Volunteer Advisor for the National Foundation-March of Dimes, and Dr. M. D. Rosy, Research Assistant to Dr. Ingall.

New Gillette Facility

Gillette Safety Razor Company, South Boston, is negotiating for a site in Andover for a new $2.8 million warehouse and packaging complex.

"If all goes well, the plant will be in Andover," a company official said.

Earlier the company had taken options on a site along Route 135 in Natick. However, a legal dispute over a railroad crossing developed with the State Department of Public Works.

"Time ran out on our option agreement in Natick," the Gillette official said, "and, as of August 1, we concluded we were out of our Natick commitments. We are going ahead with our plans for Andover."

The Andover site is reported to be a 140-acre location in the Lowell Junction Industrial Area. Initial plans call for a 500,000 square-foot facility which the company anticipates will double in size in future years.

If the negotiations are successful, the plant to be built in Andover will be involved in packing and shipping Gillette products manufactured in South Boston.

Andover Town Manager Richard J. Bowen said he expects that "Gillette is coming to Andover." There are no obstacles that he knows of. "Everything in the way of municipal services—water, sewers, roads—is in process," he said.

Gillette Safety Razor Company was listed recently as 194th in Fortune magazine's list of the nation's 500 largest industrial corporations in 1966. This was a substantial step upward over the company's position of 203rd in 1965.

Dimes March Thanks

The editor of the City Record is in receipt of the following letter:

To the Editor.

On behalf of the Massachusetts Bay Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes, I wish to thank you for your coverage of and space allotted for the announcement of March of Dimes activities and community volunteers through the past year. The monumental fight against birth defects, undertaken by the National Foundation March of Dimes shortly after its defeat of polio in 1958, is advanced immeasurably by an aware public and, thus, all the sooner do we realize our goal, the prevention and relief of human suffering.

Sincerely,

EUGENE W. HUTCHINSON,
Public Relations Director,
Massachusetts Bay Chapter.

Fire Fighter Coleman found that the fire which started in No. 28 had extended to No. 26 and No. 30 Browning avenue and recognizing the gravity of the situation he used the department radio in ordering a second alarm, which was sounded at 2.33 A.M. He then proceeded to direct the running of two 2½-inch pump streams between two buildings which prevented further extension of the fire in this thickly settled district of wooden dwellings. By his quick and responsible action, Fire Fighter Coleman displayed initiative and leadership.

ODD-FIXING?

When columnist Charles McHarry mentioned that men and women use different techniques for striking matches, Ernest A. Safford wrote: "Actually, a man strikes a match toward himself and a woman strikes it away from herself. Don't just take my word for this. Watch a thousand people light a match and you'll see. And may I suggest you watch in the proportion of nine women to one man. Your research will be more enjoyable this way."

APPROPRIATION FOR SURVEY RE LEAKS AT SUFFOLK COUNTY COURTHOUSE

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, July 17 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:
I am forwarding herewith a request by the Corporation Counsel for an appropriation of $50,000 for expert(s) services in determining causes of leakage of windows, etc., installed under contract.

During the course of trial, Caputo Construction Company v. Commission for Care, Custody and Control of the Suffolk County Courthouse, the court asked how many windows were leaking and the cause.

To provide the court with a satisfactory reply will require the removal of a considerable number of windows and a qualified examination to determine the cause by expert(s) in this field.

I am submitting herewith an order for the sum of $50,000; said appropriation be by transfer from the account Hospital and Insurance Plan and respectfully recommend approval by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, July 12, 1967.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Will you kindly request an appropriation of $50,000 for this department from the City Council for services of expert(s) on causes of leakage of windows, etc., installed under contract involved in Caputo Construction Co. v. Commission for Care, Custody and Control of the Suffolk County Courthouse, Suffolk Superior Court No. 86,728 Eq.

Yours very truly,

J. J. SULLIVAN, Jr.,
Corporation Counsel.

Ordered, That the sum of money specified herein be, and hereby is, appropriated to the Law Department for expert(s) services; and further Ordered, That to meet said appropriation the sum of $50,000 be, and hereby is, appropriated by transfer from the account Hospital and Insurance Plan to the Law Department.

From the appropriation for Hospital and Insurance Plan, 1-01-98, $50,000, to the appropriation for Law Department, 1-01-51, $50,000, Item 2, Contractual Services.

LEGISLATION AUTHORIZING BORROWING FOR CONSTRUCTING AND EQUIPPING NEW CITY HALL

The following was received:

City of Boston
Office of the Mayor, July 17, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:
The $25,000,000 debt authorization contained in St. 1958, c. 624, as supplemented by St. 1964, c. 516, is proving to be insufficient to cover the cost of both constructing the new City Hall and equipping it throughout with new furnishings, which, under modern business practice is customarily done when an enterprise moves into a new building and which in the instant situation is really needed because most furniture in the departments affected is many years old.

Accordingly, at the behest of the Government Center Commission, I am recommending that your Honorable Body adopt the order transmitted herewith approving a bill for a special law authorizing the City of Boston to borrow one million dollars additional outside the debt limit for the purpose of constructing and originally equipping and furnishing our new city hall.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Ordered, That the petition of John F. Collins, Mayor of the City of Boston, to the General Court accompanied by a bill for a special law authorizing the City of Boston to borrow one million dollars additional outside its debt limit for the purpose of constructing and originally equipping and furnishing a new city hall, be, and the same hereby is, approved.

Referred to the Committee on Legislative Matters.

DELETING PROVISION FOR PERMIT TO SELL MILK WHOLESALE

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, July 20, 1967.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

Chapter 356 of the Acts of 1967 repeals the law (section 43 of chapter 94 of the General Laws) requiring a producer or dealer in milk to obtain a permit from the Board of Health of each municipality in which he sells milk or delivers it for sale. Accordingly, I recommend adoption of the accompanying ordinance repealing clause (218) of section 1 of chapter 30 of Boston's Revised Ordinances of 1961 which fixes the fee for such a permit and has been made obsolete by St. 1967, c. 356.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-seven.

An Ordinance Deleting from the Revised Ordinances of 1961 the Provision Therein for a Fee for a Permit To Sell Milk at Wholesale Where Dairy Farm Certificate Not Required.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Section 1 of chapter 30 of the Revised Ordinances of 1961 is hereby amended by striking out clause (218).

MINORITY REPORT OF COUNCILLOR PIEMONTE

Committee Member Gabriel F. Piemonte re sale of land to Sheraton Corporation offered the following minority report:

The order which we have before us concerning the sale of city land adjacent to 470 Atlantic avenue by the City of Boston to Sheraton Building Corporation affords a prime example of the opportunity for more active participation in matters concerning Boston by the Real Estate Board, the Research Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, and the Boston Finance Commission.

The order as presented to the Council for its approval by his Honor the Mayor on each of the three occasions failed to contain any safeguard or protection for Boston taxpayers against a future claim for damages for the publicly announced future taking of the water side land. It is a matter of public knowledge that there is a public taking to be made of land and water rights in the rear of the building on Atlantic avenue for a highway. This could very well result in the Sheraton Building Corporation being awarded damages greater in amount than the consideration named in the order. This could be avoided by the city reserving its rights in this.

Yet none of the organizations either appeared at the hearings on this matter or in any way communicated with the Council to offer this safeguard.

It was only because of the alertness of the Council who adopted my suggestion that any deed conveying the property contain a reservation to the City of Boston of all aquatic, lateral, and riparian rights, is contained in the order we are now discussing.

The order states a minimum price of $50,000. It is my hope that the administration will take a more realistic look at the value of said parcel and set the consideration to be paid more proportionate to its true value.

GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE,
Member of the Committee on Public Lands.
Placed on file.

MINORITY REPORT OF COUNCILLOR PIEMONTE RE AUDITORIUM CONTRACTS

Minority report of Councillor Gabriel F. Piemonte, Chairman of the Executive Committee.

Pursuant to an order approved by this Honorable Body re monopoly service contracts and charges for extras by said contractors to the groups renting the auditorium, a meeting of the Executive Committee was held Thursday, July 20, 1967.

Those present included the members of the Auditorium Commission, the Manager, the Business Manager, Executive Secretary, the members of the Auditorium Commission, the Finance Commission Chairman, John Thompson, and his Executive Secretary.

It was announced that this being the initial hearing, the meeting would be devoted to examining the contracts and discussion of the policy of the Commission in awarding the same.

Questioning of the Commissioners re the contracts awarded suggest a lack of familiarity with such pertinent provisions as the term of the contract.

The Chairman of the Commission testified it was for one year. An examination disclosed that it was for three years with an option in the Commission to extend it for two additional years.

Questioning related complaints gave indication of the need for a better manual of organization between the Commissioners and those directly charged with the business administration of the Auditorium.

A Commissioner testified that they were aware of the complaints as they read them all. When pressed for a specific instance he looked to the Executive Secretary. The Executive Secretary responded by stating that they had never received any complaints.

Also disturbing is the circumstance surrounding the award of the contract for catering food and beverages. The question was asked as to why the contract was initially awarded to one without any prior experience in that line. The response given was that he was able to place the $50,000 bond. This contract was later assigned by this individual to the corporation now operating this service.

The Commission members showed no knowledge or prior interest in the corporate or financial structure of the monopoly contractors.

Public records on file in the Secretary of State's Office show that on February 19, 1965, the service contractor voted to issue 54 shares of capital stock, on September 15, 1964, issued 50 shares as a "Bonus" for services.

The Certificates of Conditions and other pertinent public records of the service contract contain matters which in and of themselves required in-depth investigation to determine among other things whether the best interest of Boston is being served in the awarding of these contracts.

The Finance Commission which was undertaking a study to evaluate how Boston's Auditorium compares with other cities, indicated through its Chairman that it would broaden its study to take in the matters above referred to.

It is the intent of the Chairman of the Executive Committee to retain jurisdiction of the pending order awaiting the action of the Finance Commission.

GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE,

Member of Executive Committee.

Placed on file.

Adjourned at 5.15 P.M., on motion of Councillor Iannella, to meet on Monday, August 7, 1967, at 2 P.M.

Note: All debate of City Council eliminated from proceedings in accordance with Chapter 447, Acts of 1947.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Almighty God our Father in this moment of prayer we do not seek tasks more suited to our strength but for the strength that will make us equal to our tasks. Whatever appointed tasks lie before us in this session may we accept them without complaint. We do not face the hours of the day with apprehension but with the assurance of the many opportunities these hours offer for the building of a better and happier city in which to live.

To Thy unbounded mercy we commend the noble soul of friend, and dedicated servant of the people, Joseph White. He represented all that is best, noblest, and highest in public office. Grant peace and eternal rest to him, and strength and consolation to his family.

August 4, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

One of the few remaining functions required to clear the way for a computation and subsequent approval of the 1967 tax rate is to provide the necessary funds to meet collective bargaining agreements with city employees. The major contract was approved by you recently and the projected cost for 1967 has been estimated as $1,800,000.

It will be some time before a detailed analysis of each department's monetary needs can be determined but to eliminate any delay regarding the appropriation of funds, I would like your Honor to consider the immediate appropriation of one million (1,000,000) dollars to the Reserve Fund.

Funds appropriated to this account can legally be transferred by you, with the approval of the City Council, to the specific departments needs.

It is understood also, that the state's share of Urban Renewal programs due Boston for 1966 amounts to slightly more than $800,000.

It is my intention, subject to your approval, to establish a reserve account and as the needs arise to meet collective bargaining agreements, draw on this account.

Respectfully,
HENRY T. BRENNAN,
Supervisor of Budgets.

Ordered, That under the provisions of section 5A, chapter 40, of the General Laws, the respective sum of money specified, be, and hereby is, appropriated for the purpose hereinafter specified, said sum to be raised by taxation on the estates of the City of Boston, and that all orders heretofore or hereinafter passed by the City Council relating to appropriations, taxes and interest thereon apply to the appropriation and taxes herein provided for.

RESERVE FUND

Special Appropriation..... $1,000,000
Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

COUNTY CLASSIFICATION AND COMPENSATION PLANS TO INCLUDE TITLE OF GRAND JURY STENOGRAPHER

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, July 25, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

The attached proposal by the Supervisor of Personnel to amend the Classification and Compensation Plans for Officers and Employees of Suffolk County to include the classification title of Grand Jury Stenographer, is hereby approved and transmitted for consideration and adoption by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department,
July 25, 1967.

To the Mayor and City Council.

Gentlemen:

In accordance with Rule 3 of the Classification and Compensation Plans for Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, the Supervisor of Personnel, whenever a new position is established, is required after an investigation of the actual and proposed duties and responsibilities and, with the approval of the City Council and the Mayor, to classify the position by allocating it to its appropriate class.

An order to establish the position of Grand Jury Stenographer is hereby submitted. My investigation of this matter reveals that there is need of the classification because of the highly involved nature of the work.

In order to include this new classification in the Compensation and Classification Plans for Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, I recommend consideration and adoption of the accompanying order amending these plans to include the position of Grand Jury Stenographer in compensation grade R-15, in the Suffolk Superior Court.

Yours very truly,
DUNCAN T. FOLEY,
Supervisor of Personnel.

Ordered, That Schedule B of the Classification and Compensation Plans for Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, adopted by order passed by the City Council on September 9, 1963, and approved by the Mayor on September 12, 1963, be, and the same hereby is, amended by including the following new classification:

GRAND JURY STENOGRAPHER

Duties: Under general direction, to take verbatim notes of all matters presented to the Grand Jury, including medical and technical testimony; transcribe said stenographic notes in each and every case presented; to appear before any judicial or court hearing and testify concerning the same if a justice of the Suffolk Superior Court or the District Attorney shall so require, shall take an oath as prescribed by G.L. 221, S. 86; to perform other related work as required.

DOG LEASH ORDINANCE

The following was received:

South Boston Residents' Group,
P.O. Box 56,
South Boston, Mass. 02127,

July 26, 1967.

Mr. Frederic J. O'Donnell,
Assistant City Clerk.

Dear Sir:

The South Boston Residents' Group hereby petitions the Boston City Council for the consideration by it of the adoption of an ordinance requiring the restraint of dogs by leash in the City of Boston.

The enactment of such an ordinance would be pursuant to powers conferred by chapter 140, section 167, of the General Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Enclosed herewith and appended hereto as part of this petition is a suggested form of ordinance which the South Boston Residents' Group requests be considered for enactment.

In submitting this proposed form of ordinance the South Boston Residents' Group, of course, does not thereby suggest exclusion of consideration of any other form pursuant to the same policy objective.

May we ask that as Assistant City Clerk you present this petition, including the proposed form of ordinance, to the Boston City Council as soon as convenient.

This action is taken by a very substantial majority of the South Boston Residents' Group, a civic organization composed of over eleven hundred (1,100) members, residing, or in business in South Boston, and is the result of a three (3) month poll taking on the subject, conducted in South Boston showing that South Bostonians were 95 percent in favor of a dog leash law. A spot check of various other areas in Boston revealed that a somewhat lower but still high 89 percent of the people interviewed indicated that they too favored a dog leash law.

The officers and members of the group will be prepared to present the reasons for this petition at a hearing, by whatever committee of the Council is assigned the duty of hearing this matter.

Thanking you for your courtesy. Best wishes.

Yours sincerely,

JAMES E. WALSH,
President, S.B.R.G.

GROUP ACCIDENTAL DEATH INSURANCE FOR POLICEMEN AND FIREMEN

Coun. PIEMONTE offered the following:

Ordered, That chapter 383 of the Acts of 1967, entitled "An Act Providing That a Local Governmental Unit May Pay One Half the Cost of a Premium and the Full Amount of an Additional Rate for Group Accidental Death Insurance for Policemen and Firemen Who Are Killed or Who Die from Injuries Received in the Performance of Their Duties," be, and is hereby, accepted.

The act reads as follows:

CHAP. 383. AN ACT PROVIDING THAT A LOCAL GOVERNMENTAL UNIT MAY PAY ONE HALF THE COST OF A PREMIUM AND THE FULL AMOUNT OF AN ADDITIONAL RATE FOR GROUP ACCIDENTAL DEATH INSURANCE FOR POLICEMEN AND FIREMEN WHO ARE KILLED OR WHO DIE FROM INJURIES RECEIVED IN THE PERFORMANCE OF THEIR DUTIES.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Chapter 32B of the General Laws is hereby amended by inserting after section 11C the following section:—

Section 11D. Upon acceptance of this section as hereinafter provided, the appropriate public authority of the governmental unit may negotiate with insurance companies or savings banks and purchase on such terms as it deems to be in the best interest of the governmental unit and those persons employed as police officers and firefighters and defined as employees in section two a policy or policies of group accidental death insurance payable on behalf of a police officer or firefighter who dies as the natural and proximate result of a bodily injury accidentally sustained or a hazard undergone as a result of and while in the performance of his official duties as an employee of the governmental unit and not as an employee of a private organization, at some definite place and at some definite time on and after the date of his becoming insured hereunder, and without serious and wilful misconduct on his part.

The appropriate public authority may incorporate this accidental death insurance as an integral part of the coverage provided under section eleven A, or, provide a policy of accidental death insurance for said employees with the claim experience and retention costs maintained unrelated to the claim experience and retention costs applicable to any policy or policies of group life and accidental death and dismemberment insurance in, effect as provided under said section eleven A. but in either event, the aforementioned employees shall be insured for group accidental death insurance authorized by this section for twice the maximum amount to which the policeman or fireman would be entitled if insured for the maximum amount of group accidental death and dismemberment insurance provided under section eleven A whether or not said employee is insured for such maximum amount under said section eleven A.

Such accidental death insurance shall be issued by the carrier or carriers as determined by the appropriate public authority for a period not exceeding five years, provided that the terms of such insurance shall have been approved by the commission before the effective date thereof and, such insurance shall be issued without regard to a minimum number of eligible policemen or firemen or to the provisions of chapter one hundred and seventy-five.

Each policeman and fireman entitled to be insured under this section shall file an application therefor with the treasurer of the governmental unit on an appropriate form prescribed by said treasurer, except that a policeman or fireman having such accidental death insurance who becomes entitled to further accidental death insurance hereunder by reason of an increase in annual salary shall automatically be insured for the amount of such further accidental death insurance to become effective on the first day of the second month following the month in which the increase was granted provided that such increase in salary has been authorized for a period of time in excess of one year. No reduction in the amount of accidental death insurance shall be required on account of a reduction in salary or compensation. For purposes of this accidental death insurance, yearly gross salary or compensation shall not include any overtime pay.

With respect to any accidental death insurance which is in effect for a policeman or fireman there shall be withheld from each payment of salary, wages or compensation fifty percent of a premium the amount of which may be changed by the governmental unit from time to time as part of the total cost for such accidental death insurance. The governmental unit shall contribute the remaining fifty percent of said premium together with payment in full of a subsidiary or additional rate which rate may be lower or higher than the governmental unit's share of the aforesaid premium. If a policeman or fireman is not entitled to receive salary, wages or other compensation for a calendar or premium month while in the status of leave of absence without pay, he shall make payment directly to the treasurer of the governmental unit and there shall be no contribution by the governmental unit for such payment.

A policeman or fireman insured under this section may by written notice on a form provided by the treasurer cancel such accidental death insurance and such insurance shall require no further premium payment the first day of the premium month following the expiration of fifteen days from the receipt of notice of cancellation. Accidental death insurance coverage will therefore terminate at the end of the month for which premium has been paid.

Upon retirement of a policeman or fireman eligible for pension allowances under any general or special law the accidental death insurance provided under this section shall terminate.

Any dividend or refund applicable to the accidental death insurance provided under this section shall be paid by the insurance carrier or carriers to the governmental unit and shall then be distributed in accordance with the provisions of section eight or eight A whichever may be applicable.

■ The appropriate public authorities of two or more of the governmental units, irrespective of the county, may join together in negotiating and purchasing one or more policies of accidental death insurance as prescribed in section twelve.

This section shall take effect in a county, city, town or district upon its acceptance in the following manner:— In a county by vote of the county commissioners; in a city having a Plan D or Plan E charter by a majority vote of its city council; in any other city by vote of its city council, approved by the mayor; in a district by vote of the governing board of the district; and in a town by submission for acceptance to the registered voters in the form of the following question which shall be printed upon the official ballot to be used at an election:— "Shall the town pay one half of a premium for group accidental death insurance for policemen and firemen who are killed or who die from accidental injuries received in the performance of their duties with such employee paying the remaining one half, and shall the town also pay a subsidiary or additional rate?"

EASTERN GAS AND FUEL TO BUILD MODERN HEADQUARTERS IN PARK SQUARE

Plans for a 20-to-30-story office building headquarters in the Park Square area have been announced by Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates.

The structure, to cost between $15 million and $20 million, will house the Boston Gas Co., a subsidiary of Eastern Gas, as the prime tenant. Also to be housed there will be other subsidiaries of the utility firm, according to John N. Philips, senior vice-president.

The firm said it was in final stages of negotiations for a tract of land at Boylston and Providence streets. The land originally was scheduled to be the site of a motel to be developed by realtor Bertram Druker of Boston.

The site, comprising some 33,000 square feet has been serving as a parking lot.

The new building will comprise about 450,000 square feet and will house about 900 employees of Eastern Gas.

Philips said the Public Improvement Commission is being asked to approve discontinuance of two small portions of public rights of way for eventual sale to the utility company. The added parcels, he said, would square off the present lot and permit an economic development.

"We have studied a dozen locations in over two years of extensive planning and have selected this site because of its key location," said Philips.

"It is convenient to the public, employees, public transportation and auto traffic.

"We want to be part of Park Square and believe our building will be a significant addition to the area and the New Boston."

He said the parent company had operations in eight other cities outside Massachusetts "and around the world," but that a conclusion was made that Boston had more advantages as a home office city for a national and international corporation.

"In addition, we are confident that the momentum of the new Boston will continue under the new city administration," Philips said.

The structure is being designed by the PARD architectural firm of Boston.

Prudential Sees Big '68

Newark, N. J.—Highs in spending and lows in unemployment will characterize a prosperous 1968, according to the Prudential Insurance Company's annual economic forecast being released by Orville E. Beal, the company's president.

Average family income is expected to rise to $8,400 in 1968, an impressive 6.3 percent, or $500 gain. Unemployment will be close to the 3.5 percent historic minimum.

The U. S. gross national product—total value of all goods and services—will rise $63 billion to $848 billion according to the forecast prepared by Prudential's chief economist, Dr. William C. Freund.

This represents an 8 percent gain, of which 5 percent will be "real growth" and 3 percent inflation. Without a surcharge on the federal income tax, the forecast points out, inflation may be even more serious.

The continuing growth of the total economy next year will be due to increases in spending by government, business, and the individual consumer.

Federal spending will rise about 10 percent to $100 billion, Prudential's forecast says. This will result from increases in defense spending, a federal pay hike, and other programs.

While defense is one of the primary elements of government spending, the forecast says that peace in Vietnam would provide "welcome relief for an overheating economy." Appropriate federal actions, moreover, could minimize

For Air Control

The John R. Roy Company of Boston has announced formation of Airtex Corporation. The corporation will specialize in the engineering and installation of air pollution control systems for the disposal of solid and fume waste for industrial plants, institutions, and multiple dwellings of all types.

John R. Roy, president, stated that the new company "meets the need for a 'total capability' source for air pollution control systems here in the New England area. It is a need that has become increasingly urgent in view of mounting pressure for air pollution control legislation."

Company offices will be at 419 Boylston street, Boston.

dislocations and hardships produced by the "shifting of gears from military to civilian production."

At the state and local levels of government, 1968 expenditures will rise to $95 billion, up $8.5 billion over this year's estimate. The outlays will respond to a growing need for schools, highways, and social services, according to the forecast.

Business spending will be a major factor in next year's economy, the forecast states, especially in the area of inventory investment.

During 1967, bulging warehouses led to a cutback on inventory buying and at the same time exerted "a massive drag" on production of new goods. During the first half of 1968, inventory buying will be at a healthy $7 billion rate, leveling to a full year's total of about $5.5 billion.

Plant and equipment outlays will rise $5 billion to $87.5 billion in 1968.

Housing stands on the verge of a resurgence in 1968, depending on the availability of mortgage money. Prudential's forecast calculates that the demand for new housing—spurred by the lowest vacancy rate since 1959—can easily support 1.6 million starts.

Prudential expects housing starts to total 1.5 million units during 1968, with the rate approaching 1.6 million by the fourth quarter. This will bring housing outlays to $28 billion, up $3.7 billion.

Elsewhere on the consumer scene, Prudential expects a new spurt of buying—cars, furniture, appliances, color television sets, as well as services.

Prudential reports that this year, consumers have been cautious, both in their spending and in taking on new debt. At the same time, savings have risen from a typical 5.5 percent of disposable income to 7 percent.

That 1.5 percent difference, the forecast points out, amounts to about $7.5 billion in retail sales.

Consumer spending—always the largest segment of the gross national product—will rise 7 percent in 1968 to $527 billion, a $34 billion increase. Consumer spending, the forecast says, is "like a coiled spring ready to be released."

Almira W. Bates

Almira Wellington Bates, 88, of 20 Wendell street, Cambridge, retired teacher at East Boston High School, died November 6 at a Lexington nursing home.

Miss Bates was born in Royalston; graduated from Radcliffe College in 1901, and received a master's degree from Harvard-Radcliffe in 1926.

She taught French at East Boston High for more than 40 years. She was a member of the Radcliffe Alumnae Association, and the First Parish Church of Cambridge.

She leaves a sister, Josephine B. Bates of Cambridge.

Yule Jobs Open

Manager William A. Hanley of the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security's Boston Clerical and Sales Office urges all interested in Christmas season employment to register immediately at the special office which has been set up at 289 Washington street, Boston.

This office, at Washington and School streets, is open Monday through Friday from 8.45 A.M. to 5.00 P.M.

Jobs are already available and many more openings will occur from Thanksgiving through the end of the holiday season.

A special invitation is extended to housewives who will find employers happy to arrange flexible work schedules that will not interfere with household and family duties.

Openings for both experienced and inexperienced people exist in retail selling, stock and marking work, and clerical positions. Most of the openings are in downtown Boston, but there are also some in the surrounding neighborhoods serviced by the Boston offices.

Training Specialists

Effective Monday, November 13, 1967 a staff of work training specialists have been assigned to the Roxbury Crossing Welfare Department district office. This is the first of a series of moves under a reorganized Title V Administrative Plan. The department has developed this plan in an effort to bring the work training specialists who supervise trainees into the district offices in order to improve the service to clients and to enable the social worker carrying the case and the work training specialist to operate as team.

A new Medical Processing Unit is in operation at the Roxbury Crossing district office, third floor, as a subdivision of the central office Fiscal Division. This unit will process Medicare bills. Davis Carroll, Principal Clerk, will be in charge.

Both the central medical processing unit at Hawkins street and the Roxbury Crossing medical processing unit have opportunities for overtime Saturday employment from now until the first of the year. Persons in the grades of clerk-typist, senior clerk, and key punch operator interested in medical processing on an overtime basis should get in touch with Miss Grace Lane at Central Office—Line 325 or 326.

We Are Sixth

Last week the U. S. Census Bureau placed Boston as the sixth largest metropolitan area in the nation—a spot which most statistic-minded folk have long recognized.

For years cities like Los Angeles have long been climbing upward in population by putting in elastic boundaries or claiming the populace of communities well beyond their natural boundaries.

The top six ranking metropolitan centers now, says the Census Bureau, are: New York, 11.41 million; Los Angeles, 6.8 million; Philadelphia, 4.7 million; Detroit, 4.06 million, and Boston, 3.2, million.

"Toys For Tots"

Boston's own 1st Battalion, 25th Marines, have begun collecting toys for underprivileged children in their 21st Annual "Toys for Tots" Campaign. Charitable citizens are urged to donate new or useable toys for needy tots by placing them in containers located at Fire Stations throughout your city. To quote the late Walt Disney, a Toys for Tots booster, he said: "Your local Marine Corps Reserve is doing everything possible to see that no unfortunate child is denied the pleasure of having a present to open on Christmas morning." Toys for Tots was begun shortly after World War II when toys were still scarce for many. Your local reserve unit, through the efforts of all generous citizens and business corporations, last year distributed more than 16,000 toys . . . supporting more than fifty children agencies throughout the Greater Boston area. The local leathernecks are again this year appealing to the generosity of the citizens of this great community, to help them to make this Christmas a joyous one for that child who is not so fortunate as our own. For further information concerning this campaign call 542-5100, Extension 458-459. Any Avis Rent A Car Office will accept your donations or you may leave them at any McDonald Hamburger Drive-In.

ABCD Seek Volunteers

Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD) at 18 Tremont street is seeking volunteer workers. It points out that special tutoring could make the difference between a brain-damaged child being rehabilitated and attending public schools or spending the rest of her school years in special institutions. Late afternoon or early evening home tutoring desired.

East Boston is seeking tutors for children ages 10 to 16 in reading, math, and language arts. Tutorial training provided. Flexible hours, 3 P.M. to 5 P.M., four hours a week minimum.

Call Miss Lynn Moncreiff, 742-5600, ext. 301.

Welfare Trainee

Miss Phyllis Dean, a graduate of Howard University School of Social Work, has joined the Boston Welfare Department for a six-months' period as a supervisory trainee. She will be assigned to the Roxbury Crossing district office following in-service training at the central office. This placement is part of a two-year training program under the sponsorship of the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Miss Dean had her initial field work placement with the District of Columbia Welfare Department.

To Blink Again

The white lighthouse that has stood at the Stamford, Conn. harbor entrance for 85 years has been sold by the federal government to three businessmen who plan to keep its beacon shining.

They placed a bid of $10,100, topping 44 others considered by the General Services Admn.

The three buyers are principals in a company that is developing Stamford Landing, a marina for 500 boats at the foot of South street a mile and a half from the lighthouse.

Educational Leaves

All Welfare Department staff members who wish to be considered candidates for the department's Educational Leave Program must send a memo to In-Service Training which contains the following information—their name; name of college from which they graduated; degree or degrees obtained; field of concentration; major or minor, and any additional education information that they feel should be considered. Interviews will be scheduled in the district offices in the near future.

READY-MADE SCREAMS

"Screams" are on sale in Brisbane, Australia. They come in a handy plastic case resembling a flashlight and cost about four dollars. When a woman is frightened and clutches the case, it emits a spine-chilling scream—enough to scare away the most determined of attackers.

Clubwomen at BCH

More than 100 Massachusetts junior clubwomen visited the March of Dimes birth defect center at Boston City Hospital last week.

The Junior Membership of the General Federation of Women's Clubs has been associated with the March of Dimes Foundations for the last two years.

Dr. Davis Ingall, director of the Boston City Hospital Center welcomed the junior clubwomen and joined Dr. M. D. Rosy, his research assistant, in telling them about the center's work.

Mrs. David Perkins of East Bridgewater, public affairs chairman of the state Junior Membership, planned the day at Boston City Hospital.

At the Massachusetts Juniors' recent fall conference, MOD regional director Jean Dargis said the clubwomen had shown the National Foundation education techniques it had never heard of before.

"Spreading the word, stressing the need for pre-natal care is vital when you consider one child in every 16 is born defective in some way," he said. "Over 250,000 defective babies are born in this country every year; 8,000 in Massachusetts. That's five times the number of polio cases at the peak of the epidemic.

"Junior clubwomen have helped immeasurably with saturation campaigns; since you mobilized, you have gone on radio, television, contacted clubs other than your own—and come up with a few original gimmicks." Jean Dargis cited one Junior club which provides neighborhood milkmen with brochures to distribute on their rounds.

Mobilization by Junior clubwomen comes formally under "Operation Healthy Babies," a national federation project adopted in 1965, in which Juniors work directly with local MOD offices across the country to promulgate greater public understanding of the problem of birth defects.

For the past 10 years, he was a supervisor with the Mass. Turnpike Authority.

Commonwealth Avenue To Get New Face Lift

Boston's Commonwealth avenue, one of the nation's most famous park strips will be restored with a half-million dollar public landscaping, Boston Parks Commissioner John J. Tierney, Jr. announced recently.

Tierney, in remarks prepared for a Back Bay Neighborhood Assn. meeting said bids for the $500,000 to $600,000 Commonwealth avenue restoration project will be sought soon.

The program is a joint venture of the city and Back Bay organizations which have contributed planning funds.

The plan "is intended to restore the simple grandeur of Commonwealth avenue," Tierney said. It was prepared by Cambridge landscape architects, Mason and Frye.

The plan, he said, would call for new lawns and planting of 54 Christine Buisman elms. At intersections wrought-iron fences and brick sidewalks would be installed.

At Dartmouth street the plan envisions a plaza with an ornamental fountain. The area at Massachusetts avenue will have special seating, good lighting, and a protective wall.

Between Mass. avenue and Charlesgate East there will be a "decoratively paved plaza."

The program is expected to take two or more years.

Tierney lauded the neighborhood groups for cooperation in purchasing trees.

Middlesex Gov't Center To Be Started Soon

Work on a $22 million tower building, part of the new Middlesex County government center in Cambridge will begin soon.

A contract for the 23-story structure which will house the Middlesex Superior Courts, Third District Court and County government offices, as well as a new county jail, was signed last month. The tower is the first of three phases of the total complex.

County Commissioners John F. Dever Jr., chairman, and Frederick J. Connors and John L. Danehy awarded the contract to the Geyvyn Construction Corp. of Marmoneneck, N.Y.

Future plans call for a three-story structure which will contain the County Probate Court and Registry of Deeds, plus two levels of parking for 480 cars, as the second stage. The third phase planned is for a broad plaza for the entire complex fronting on Cambridge street.

The 650,000 square foot complex was designed by the Edward L. Tedesco Assoc. of Winchester. Signing for the construction company which was the low bidder for the project were George Ungar, president, and Evelyne H. Ungar, secretary-treasurer.

The contract figure for the tower building which is scheduled for completion by January 4, 1970, is $21.8 million.

Full-Time Office

Effective December 1, the Welfare Department will extend the transient service presently available at the Charlestown Health Unit to a full-time operation. Charlestown social workers will continue to be based at the East Boston district office but will, on a rotating basis, maintain planned office hours at the Health Unit which will also have a full-time clerical worker.

Spanish Classes

The Centro de Accion, 630 Tremont street, Boston, is conducting classes for professionals (doctors, lawyers, social workers, etc.) who wish to learn Spanish and who are dealing on a daily basis with Spanish speaking people. The classes are held at the Centro two nights a week on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9. There is no charge and the scheduled instructors are professors at Harvard and Wellesley.

There will also be free classes held for Spanish speaking people who cannot read or write Spanish but would like to learn to do so.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, August 11, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Police Commissioner concerning your order of recent date, in which a request is made that the Police Commissioner be directed to equip patrol cars with oxygen tanks and such other first-aid equipment as may be deemed advisable.

Respectfully,

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Attention: Mr. Albert Kramer, Administrative Assistant.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Reference is made to the attached order passed in the City Council on May 22, 1967, requesting that the Police Commissioner be directed to equip patrol cars with oxygen tanks and such other first-aid equipment as may be deemed advisable.

The Boston Police Department is presently supplied with the following: first-aid equipment: 105 oxygen inhalators; 60 first-aid kits; 60 inflatable plastic splints; 60 collapsible stretchers.

The senior officers in command of our field operations, who have devoted a lifetime to providing safety and security for this city, are responsible for making the day-to-day determinations as to the equipment necessary to carry out their mission. If in their judgment additional equipment is needed it will be acquired and issued.

Respectfully,

EDMUND L. McNAMARA,
Police Commissioner.

DELAY IN IMPLEMENTING FOOD STAMP PROGRAM

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, August 11, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Director of the Welfare Department concerning your order of recent date in which a request is made to advise the City Council of the reasons for the delay in implementing the Food Stamp Program for low-income families, and on what date the program will be implemented in Boston.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Welfare Department, August 4, 1967.

Mr. Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.

Dear Mr. Kramer:

I am in receipt of the following order of the City Council passed on July 24, 1967:

Ordered, That the Boston Welfare Director Daniel Cronin advise the City Council of the reasons for the delay in implementing the Food Stamp Program for low-income families, and on what date the program will be implemented in Boston.

The Welfare Department will implement the Food Stamp Program within sixty days of the point when federal funds are available and the state plan for determining the amount of the food stamp in accordance with family income has been approved.

Originally it was hoped that this would occur on September 1, 1967. Recently, a decision was made to set October 1, 1967, as the date for initiating the program. Since it is our understanding that Congress has not yet appropriated funds from which Boston's allocation of food stamps will be made and the State Department of Public Welfare has yet to finalize the income schedule we believe that October 1 is the earliest feasible target date.

Very truly yours,

DANIEL I. CRONIN, Director.

INFORMATION ON CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, August 11, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Development Administrator concerning your order of recent date, relative to various questions with reference to the Central Business District Project.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Boston Redevelopment Authority,

July 13, 1967.

Mr. Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.

Dear Al:

Re: Council Order, June 19, 1967.

My suggested answers to the questions raised in attached Council order are as follows:

1. Plans for the proposed CBD Urban Renewal project have been completed by the staff of the Redevelopment Authority and have been filed with the Regional Office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development with a request for review and approval of same.

2. The federal capital grant requested for this proposed project is $77,315,875. The local share required for this project will be $23,405,709.

3. The federal government had reserved for the Central Business District project a capital grant of $19.6 million. Accordingly, the increased capital grant requested of the federal government would be $57.7 million. The funds approved by the federal government for the early acquisition program amounted to $15,501,400 of which $1,043,000 remains unexpended as of June 1.

4. In order to approve the proposed CBD project, the federal government must review and approve the plan and supporting documentation submitted to it and be assured that the local governing body has taken appropriate actions pursuant to law. Upon completion of local actions and all federal reviews, the federal government could then enter into a contract for loan and grant with the Boston Redevelopment Authority for the carrying out of this project.

5. It is anticipated that the Redevelopment Authority will undertake shortly to hold a public hearing on the Central Business District plan, and upon its approval, it then will be transmitted to the City Council for such action as the Council deems appropriate.

Sincerely,

EDWARD J. LOGUE.

CENTRAL BUSINESS DISTRICT URBAN RENEWAL MATERIAL

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, August 14, 1967.

To the Honorable City Council.

Gentlemen:

I enclose for your consideration the Urban Renewal Plan and related materials, as listed on the attachment hereto, for the Central Business District Urban Renewal Area.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority approved the Central Business District Urban Renewal Plan on August 2, 1967. That approval, together with other findings and determinations required under Chapter 121 of the General Laws, was made by the Authority after consideration of statements, views and opinions expressed at a public hearing held by the Authority in Faneuil Hall on July 27, 1967, and was also based upon studies and a public hearing undertaken in 1965 in connection with the Early Land Program for the Central Business District.

Under the provisions of Chapter 121 of the General Laws and Title I of the Federal Housing Act of 1949, the Authority must secure approval of the plan by the Mayor with the approval of the City Council. Such approval must include certain findings and is to be made after due notice and a public hearing. Federal requirements specify that such notice should be published at least once a week for two successive weeks, with the first notice to be published not less than ten (10) days prior to the date of the hearing.

The CBD Plan appears to have broad support throughout the Central Business District Project Area. At the Authority's public hearing, many persons and businesses interested in the development of Boston and of the downtown area expressed their support and endorsement of the plan. There were very few opponents and none from within the project area.

The plan has been developed by the Authority in close cooperation with the Committee for the Central Business District, a nonprofit corporation organized and financed by the downtown business community to assist in the preparation and execution of a renewal plan for the downtown area.

The implementation of the Central Business District Plan will provide opportunities for substantial new private development as well as resulting in major new public improvements. Estimated new private investment to be made within the project area is over $300,000,000. That estimate includes two new office towers scheduled to commence within the next few months.

The major thrust of the public improvements would be the improvement of the flow of vehicles and pedestrians through the congested downtown area. Pedestrian walkways, including the Washington Street Mall, underground truck tunnels and widening and realignment of streets are important features of the plan.

The undertaking of the Central Business District Project will in effect be a continuation of the Early Land Program which was approved by the Council in December, 1965. There is tangible evidence of progress in that program. Ground-breaking for the new Raymond's Department Store and parking garage is expected next month. A bill to permit the Massachusetts Port Authority to develop the South Station area is progressing in the General Court. The site for the new Boston Five Cents Savings Bank building is expected to be under demolition in two to three months.

Relocation of families and businesses appears fully feasible. The number of families to be relocated is very small, totaling only about half a dozen families and seventeen or eighteen individual householders.

Business relocation on the other hand will be very substantial. About 1,300 firms will have to be displaced. However, the relocation will take place over a period of about ten years, and normal vacancies will be vastly augmented by new construction not only in the Central Business District area but also in nearby renewal projects.

The total cost of the project, including land acquisition, demolition, relocation, property management, site improvements, supporting facilities, administrative expenses and contingencies, is estimated at approximately $113,000,000. The return from the sale of land is estimated at approximately $19,000,000. The net project cost, which will be shared two thirds by the federal government and one third locally, would therefore be about $94,000,000. The local share would be principally in the form of non-cash local grants-in-aid, i.e., the cash value of such improvements as street improvements, water and sewerage facilities, street lighting, and underground truck service system, and police and fire signal systems. To a lesser extent the local share would be met by excess credits from other renewal projects. No direct cash expenditures by the city to the project are contemplated. The enclosed loan order in the amount of $24 million would provide the city funds necessary for construction of the above-mentioned street improvements and other improvements to be provided as non-cash local grants-in-aid.

A major problem that must be recognized is the current shortage of federal urban renewal funds. This matter has been discussed with federal officials and we are hopeful that adequate funds from the federal government will be obtained to get the project under way with supplementary amounts to be obtained from the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development as the project progresses.

The Central Business District Urban Renewal Area is nearly surrounded by other large downtown urban renewal projects which are well under way, i.e., Government Center, Waterfront and South Cove. The approval of the Central Business District Urban Renewal Plan will therefore be a great step in the renaissance of the entire downtown Boston area.

I urge the Council to approve the enclosed Plan and related documentation.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Whereas, It is estimated that the cost of certain project improvements required for the development of the Central Business District Urban Renewal Area, in Boston, in accordance with the Urban Renewal Plan approved by order passed in the City Council on _____, which will not be met by loans, contributions or grants from the federal government or otherwise will total twenty-four million dollars ($24,000,000); now therefore be it hereby Ordered, That under the provisions of Section 26CC of Chapter 121 of the General Laws, as amended, the sum of twenty-four million dollars ($24,000,000) be, and the same hereby is, appropriated, to be expended in aid of and with the approval of the Boston Redevelopment Authority and in accordance with the approved Urban Renewal Plan for the Central Business District Urban Renewal Area and the cooperation agreement by and between the City of Boston and the Boston Redevelopment Authority for defraying such items of the development costs of said Urban Renewal Project not met by loans, contributions, or grants from the federal government or otherwise and that to meet said appropriation the Collector-Treasurer be, and he hereby is, authorized to issue, from time to time, on request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

(Annexed hereto are the plan and documents referred to.)

Referred to the Committee on Urban Renewal.

APPROVING LEGISLATION AUTHORIZING BORROWING OF MONEY OUTSIDE DEBT LIMIT FOR CONSTRUCTING AND EQUIPPING A NEW CITY HALL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, August 28, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

The $25,000,000 debt authorization contained in St. 1958, c. 624, as supplemented by St. 1964, c. 616, is proving to be insufficient to cover the cost of both constructing the new city hall and equipping it throughout with new furnishings, which, under modern business practice is customarily done when an enterprise moves into a new building and which in the instant situation is really needed because most furniture in the departments affected is many years old.

Accordingly, at the behest of the Government Center Commission, I am recommending that your Honorable Body adopt the order transmitted herewith approving a bill for a special law authorizing the City of Boston to borrow one million dollars additional outside the debt limit for the purpose of constructing and originally equipping and furnishing our new city hall. I am also withdrawing the order and accompanying bill relative to the same matter which were transmitted to your Honorable Body under date of July 17, 1967.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

To the Honorable Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in General Court assembled.

The undersigned, Mayor of the City of Boston, respectfully petitions for the passage of the accompanying bill and for legislation authorizing the City of Boston to borrow additional money outside its debt limit for the purpose of constructing and originally equipping and furnishing a new city hall, substantially as set forth in the accompanying bill, and for such other, further or similar legislation, if any, as may be necessary or advisable to accomplish the purposes and objects referred to.

JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor of the City of Boston.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts
In the Year One Thousand Nine Hundred and Sixty-seven

An Act Authorizing the City of Boston to Borrow Additional Money Outside Its Debt Limit for the Purpose of Constructing and Originally Equipping and Furnishing a New City Hall.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Section 1. Chapter 624 of the acts of 1958 is hereby amended by inserting after section 4A, inserted by section 1 of chapter 516 of the acts of 1964, the following section:

Section 4B. To provide, for the purposes of this act, funds in addition to the funds provided by sections four and four A, the city may borrow, from time to time, not exceeding in the aggregate under this section one million dollars, and may issue and sell at public sale serial bonds or notes of the city therefor, which shall be registered or with interest coupons attached as the collector-treasurer of the city may deem best. Such bonds or notes shall bear on their face the words, City of Boston, New City Hall Loan, Act of 1967. Each issue shall constitute a separate loan, and such loans shall be paid in not more than thirty years from their dates. Debt incurred from time to time under authority of this section shall not be included in determining the limit of indebtedness of said city as established by law but shall, except as herein provided, be subject to the provisions applicable to said city of chapter forty-four of the General Laws, exclusive of the limitations contained in section seven thereof, but including the provisions of section seventeen thereof relative to temporary loans in anticipation of the issue of bonds or notes.

Ordered, That the petition of John F. Collins, Mayor of the City of Boston, to the General Court accompanied by a bill for a special law authorizing the City of Boston to borrow one million dollars additional outside its debt limit for the purpose of constructing and originally equipping and furnishing a new city hall, be, and the same hereby is, approved.

On motion of Councillor Foley, the foregoing order was passed under suspension of the rules.

MINORITY REPORT OF COUN. PIEMONTE RE ADDITIONAL BORROWING FOR NEW CITY HALL

A hearing was held on the matter of the Council's approval of the act authorizing the city to borrow an additional $1 million to equip the new City Hall. Those present included the Chairman of the Government Center Commission, a representative of the architects on the project, and others.

Testimony of the Commission was that the legislation creating the Commission was enacted in 1958; the contract for the construction was not awarded until 1963.

In the interim, the cost of labor and supplies had increased 34% according to the testimony given.

In order to meet this increased cost, it was requested of the Legislature that an additional $5 million be authorized. The Legislature granted this request.

The increase in cost of labor and supplies due to the lapse of time between the enactment of the Legislature and the awarding of the contracts represent about 35 cents on the tax rate for any given year.

We are now asking the Legislature to authorize this act which is $1 million for the equipment. The statement was made this is usual in newly constructed buildings. That statement is not quite clear. While it is usual to furnish new buildings with new furniture, it certainly is not usual to do it by means of loans.

Actually, what we are doing is saddling the future administration with another 87 cents on the tax rate, plus the interest.

The time has come, and I predict next year will see a change in the attitude irrespective of who the mayor is, that leaders of communication and the civic organizations will return to the sound business practice of discouraging borrowing for current operating expenses.

I hope that this minority report will serve, at least, to show this Council, as in the past, has done its best in the interest of the taxpayer, and especially to keep the costs down.

Member of Committee on Legislative Matters.

BOSTON HAS GOOD START TOWARD IMPLEMENTATION OF MODEL CITIES PROGRAM

Mayor John F. Collins expressed "great satisfaction" that Boston was named to be the recipient of a Model Cities Grant.

"This means," Mayor Collins said, "that our proposal was accepted on the basis that it was imaginative and, capable of producing a plan and a program, which will eventually provide a resurgence of the neighborhoods in Jamaica Plain, Dorchester, and Roxbury to a condition that will make these neighborhoods healthy and enjoyable areas in which to live and to work."

"In Boston, the Administrator, Commissioner Daniel J. Finn, whom I appointed many weeks ago, has already set up a mechanism for utilizing all of the best talent available in our city to assist in the creation of this master plan in cooperation with the Model Cities Board.

"I have every confidence that the Model Cities Administration will at the end of the nine-month planning period produce a program that will have great effect on the social and economic life of these three communities, as well as, changing noticeably the living conditions of those who reside in the Model Cities area."

Boston is seeking $240,000, to which it will add $60,000 of its own money to finance the planning process over the required estimated nine-month period.

Working with the city in devising the program to be submitted for federal approval will be an 18-member Model-Neighborhood Board, comprising residents of the area.

This panel was elected in early August. Under an agreement approved by the Mayor and the City Council the special board will have $35,000 for its own staff independent of those engaged by the city administration.

The community leaders also will exercise a limited veto over any plans developed with which they might disagree. Such differences would be hammered out by a special three-member arbitration board made up of an appointee of the neighborhood group, a designee of the city administration, and a third person selected by the first two.

Mr. Finn, who is also the city's Commissioner of Housing Inspection, was named by Mayor Collins in early September to administer the model-cities program.

For staffing he is expected to rely heavily on personnel from the Boston Redevelopment Authority and the Action For Boston.

A minimum of $5 million a year will be required if the model-cities program is to be a meaningful impact, Mr. Finn believes. "It would take at least that amount to get off the ground and ideally we should have $10 million," he asserts.

The board already has held several meetings in the neighborhood, with Mr. Finn and members of his staff. Last week he praised Mr. Finn for his work with the residential board, but he stressed it was not up to his group to make any endorsements.

One of the first items on the agenda, he said, will be to sit down with the incoming mayor and with Mayor Collins to discuss the Model Cities matter.

Mr. Finn said that the program is "fairly well tooled up and efficiently organized and for the past two months we have had 12 task forces studying and preparing for all aspects of this program."

He said the task force comprises experts in business, industry, and education. It will study everything from social planning to manpower training. The board will schedule a public meeting very soon "to report back to the people who elected it."

One task will be to nail down the cooperation of the School Committee, the Superintendent of Schools and the State Department of Education, since education will play a strong role in the social rehabilitation phase of any massive planning program.

Other target areas include recreational facilities, social services, health services, housing schemes including ownership cooperatives.

Boston is among the 63 cities awarded planning grant money for the Model City program. It will begin a nine-month study of how to attack the problems of persons

Christmas Festival Committee to Remember All Bostonians Serving Nation in Vietnam

Mayor John F. Collins announced on November 20 that all Boston servicemen and women serving in Vietnam will receive a Christmas package from the Boston Christmas Festival Committee. The contents of the package, specially prepared for these servicemen, will contain 13 different food items. Festival Director, Lawrence M. Quealy, said the gifts will be paid for by contributions, large and small, from the people of Boston and will be sent to the servicemen in their names. Relatives and friends of any Boston man or woman serving in Vietnam are requested to send their names and military addresses to:

Vietnam Christmas Packages,
c/o Mayor's Office,
City Hall,
Boston, Massachusetts 02108.

Deadline for the receipt of these names will be Monday, December 11, in order that these gifts will arrive at their destination in advance of Christmas. Therefore, all names should be sent in as soon as possible. Mayor Collins, in commenting on the action of the Festival Committee said "this action by the people of Boston and the Festival Committee will continue a practice that has been the source of much joy to our brave sons of Boston who are serving in Vietnam.

"We received many letters from the men last year thanking the people of Boston for their gifts which they received on Christmas Eve. I have also received communications from a number of officers in Vietnam who commented on the wonderful effect these packages had on the morale of our men and on how proud the people of Boston should feel. I am sure that the people of Boston will once again respond generously to this appeal."

Money contributions to help pay for the packages may be sent to Vietnam Christmas Fund, care of Mayor John F. Collins, City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts 02108.

The Festival Committee will supervise the holiday gift sending and Mr. Quealy said that approximately $5,000 will be needed to finance the program.

living in a 2,000-acre area in Roxbury, Dorchester, and Jamaica Plain.

The proposed area forms an irregular ring around the Washington Park urban renewal site and is surrounded roughly by the city's proposed U. S. aided code enforcement program.

Funds for this program, which is aimed at helping essentially sound neighborhoods showing signs of physical decay, have not yet been approved by the Housing and Urban Development Department.

The problem of how to cope with the problems of the poor are not as simple as some persons might suppose, Mr. Finn said.

He pointed out that Model Cities is not a program to build a Utopia.

"It's a five-year beginning plan. Hopefully it will allow Boston to start certain types of programs that will be . . . important to the social and economic lives of the people who live in this area."

It is essential, according to Mr. Finn, that private industry become more involved in helping government alleviate the problems of the poor than it has in the past.

Mr. Finn believes that Boston has one advantage that the other 62 cities do not have—an 18-member Neighborhood Board elected by the Model City community.

"Having come on a formal basis from the people they are in a far better position to articulate their demands and hopes, and they should be well received when they ask the people for information and cooperation."

The board—made up of three representatives from the six areas of the project—is believed to be the only elected group in the country granted specific powers to influence city plans.

Cornelius J. O'Connell

A Solemn High Mass of Requiem was sung Nov. 15 at St. Mary's Church, Canton, for Cornelius J. O'Connell, 65, principal of Edmund P. Tileston School, Mattapan.

Mr. O'Connell died Saturday at his home, 8 Paulman Circle, West Roxbury.

He was born in Canton, graduated from Boston College High School and Boston College, and had been associated with the Boston system for 43 years.

He served in the Army during World War II and was a member of the Boston Principals Assn., John J. Williams Council of Knights of Columbus, and West Roxbury Post American Legion.

He leaves two sisters, Julia A. and Mary T., both of West Roxbury.

First of New BFD Apparatus Here Soon

The first of more than a $1 million worth of new fire apparatus is expected to arrive in Boston next month.

It is the department's first major purchase of apparatus since 1962, when nine engines and six aerial ladders were bought. The last previous sizeable purchases were in 1947.

New equipment will include 13 pumpers at a cost of $438,000, four aerial ladders, $224,000, an aerial-scope or tower ladder, $93,560, four new tractors for existing aerial ladders, $71,000, and a fireboat, $495,000.

Fire Chief John E. Clougherty said the new apparatus will be put into service in the high incidence fire areas, replacing equipment up to 30 years old.

School Bill Opposed

The Winchester citizens' group whose opposition balked participation by the town's schools in the METCO busing program is opposing a bill to establish the nation's first state-supported public school.

The bill proposes an experimental community school, located in Boston. The school would mix city and suburban children in urban surroundings.

The State Board of Education would subcontract the school's operation to the Council for Community Education (CCED), whose board of directors largely comprises the leadership of the Metropolitan Council for Educational Opportunity (METCO).

The Winchester group views the proposed experimental community school as the beginnings of a metropolitan school system, leading to the eventual loss of grass roots control over public schools.

"It's taking us down the road to socialism," said Arthur Hewiss, a Winchester machinist and one of the "Voice" leaders.

Mr. Hewiss contended the bill calls for what amounts to "reverse busing" of suburban pupils "into the ghetto."

Commissioner William J. Fitzgerald started the campaign for the equipment shortly after he took office earlier this year.

The four aerial ladders with a reach of 100 feet, would have been delivered by now but were held up when Chief Clougherty asked the cabs be closed in and the tillerman's seat be enclosed with unbreakable plastic bubbles.

Last summer's civil disorders and attacks on fire fighters in Roxbury-North Dorchester dictated the modifications, the chief said.

Boston will be the first fire department to have a protected tiller seat on an aerial ladder.

Technological advances in fire apparatus design is depicted by the aerialscope, or tower ladder.

Four of these units are in service in New York City but Boston will be the first New England city to own one.

It combines features of a snorkel and an aerial ladder and can reach to the eighth floor of a building for either rescue work via the bucket or ladder or to deliver a massive quantity of water to an upper floor from the outside.

The aerialscope also can reach down 10 feet below its wheels, providing for the first time a way to deliver heavy streams of water under a burning pier.

It will replace the department's two water towers, which are still in service and good working order, although they are more than 60 years old.

The pumpers are being built by the Ward LaFrance Company and the ladder trucks by the American LaFrance Company. The scope is by Mack Company.

Cabs on the new pumpers will also be closed in, Chief Clougherty said. Boston fire fighters have, until now, always favored open cabs because of the increased visibility afforded and the speed of movement they allow when reaching a fire.

All of the new apparatus will have power steering, power brakes and automatic shifting, and all are economical diesels.

Whistler Show at BPL

An outstanding collection of etchings, drypoints, and lithographs by James McNeill Whistler, American painter and etcher (1834-1903), are being exhibited in the Central Library's Wiggin Gallery through December 3.

The collection, gathered during a period of almost 50 years, owes its beginnings and many of its strengths to Albert H. Wiggin, who gave his far-ranging collection of prints, drawings, and illustrated books to the Boston Public Library in 1941.

Mr. Wiggin owned prints by Whistler as early as 1919. After 1941, when the Wiggin Collection (ranging from the prints of Dürer and Rembrandt to the work of twentieth-century printmakers) came to the Library, opportunities to add to it were taken whenever possible. The range of prints by Whistler was increased through purchases from English and American dealers and through gifts from two American collectors, Louis Black and Sydney Huntley. A fine group of Whistler's prints came to the Library by bequest of a third collector, Lee M. Friedman, long a Trustee of the Boston Public Library and a leading figure in activities centering on the arts in Boston.

The exhibition is an opportunity to share the vision of one of the genuinely original figures in printmaking. The names of the great printmakers are brief, vivid signatures familiar to many. Dürer, Rembrandt, Piranesi, Goya, Daumier belong to the company of men who possessed a new viewpoint and gave it unforgettable expression. Toulouse-Lautrec is one of them; so is Whistler.

William F. Fitzgerald

Funeral services for William F. Fitzgerald, 78, of 942 East Fourth street, South Boston, father of Fire Commissioner William J. Fitzgerald, were held on November 18 in St. Bridget's Church. He died on November 16 after a lengthy illness.

He was also the father of Mrs. Marie Marden, and was a lifelong resident of South Boston.

The Red Cross will also photograph the family, and mail a picture and disc to the serviceman.

The service is free of charge, but appointments should be made by calling 262-1234, ext. 247.

50 Boys and Girls Win Good Citizen Awards

The Massachusetts Committee for Catholics, Protestants, and Jews, tendered its annual "Citizenship Award Luncheon" for Boston's youthful "Citizens of the Year" on November 15 at the Dorothy Quincy Suite, John Hancock Hall. The annual affair, conducted in cooperation with Mayor John F. Collins' Committee for Civic Unity and the Boston Parks and Recreation Department Summer Playground Program, honored 50 youngsters, named as the outstanding "Citizens of the Year" by their respective playground instructors.

This program of good citizenship through playground recreation is in its 15th year. It grew out of the desire of the Massachusetts Committee to do something to emphasize the exemplary behavior of the majority of Boston's youngsters. Park Commissioner John J. Tierney, Jr., and Recreation Director Patrick J. Ryan cooperated with Thomas Francis, Executive Secretary of the Mayor's Civic Unity Committee, and instituted the project as a major part of the annual Summer Playground Program. During the summer season, the playground leader on each playground selected the boy and girl who had contributed the most toward the success of each week's program. The selections were made on a five-point basis: Interest; Cooperation; Kindness; Sportsmanship, and Responsibility.

The boy and girl then became the Playground Instructor's Junior Leader for the following week and carried the title: "Citizen of the Week." At the close of the season, over 2,500 boys and girls earned the engraved "Mayor John F. Collins" award. Storm Teamwork To Help Out Stork

A Boston City Hospital doctor and nurse got through the November 15 storm and delivered a baby girl in an automobile bogged down in traffic near the hospital.

Mr. Sabeno Rivera was driving his wife, Carmela, 23, to the hospital when the paralyzed traffic made further progress impossible.

Spotting an MDC cruiser ahead, Mrs. Rivera's sister ran up and told Officer Robert Kelley that her sister was about to meet the stork and help was needed.

Officer Kelley had another storm casualty in his car—the victim of a broken hip. Now he had two prospective patients for Boston City. He got the MDC car to a point near Albany street and Massachusetts avenue and ran the rest of the way through the storm to the emergency floor of the hospital.

Dr. Beach Conger, Nurse Rosemary O'Brien, Medical Aide Walter Bonavita and his brother, Security Policeman Richard Bonavita, with medical supplies and a stretcher, ran out of the hospital to the cruiser.

The baby was born three minutes after the medical team arrived.

The doctor and the nurse ran back to the hospital with the baby, who weighed in at 7 pounds, 4 ounces.

The mother was brought to the hospital on a stretcher by the Bonavita brothers who were assisted by police officers.

Both mother and baby are in excellent condition.

Museum Sky Show

Sky Fantasia, a sparkling production with an all-star cast of 9,000, opened the week of November 6 as the first program in the recently renovated Hayden Planetarium at Boston's Museum of Science.

The planetarium was closed temporarily in September, after nine years of constant use and 9,500 showings, to overhaul and update its complex Korkosz projector, which beams the stars onto its domed ceiling. At the same time, alterations and changes were made in its theater and controls.

Some 95 twinkling first-magnitude stars, brighter than ever before, plus a supporting cast of almost 9,000 other stars ranging down to sixth magnitude, present a magnificent spectacle in the new production, which takes viewers on a global trip to see nighttime skies above foreign lands.

A frighteningly realistic tornado and thunderstorm add excitement to the program, which also features the midnight sun, North Pole stars, and a solar halo display.

Sky Fantasia may be seen daily, including Sunday, and Friday nights. It continues through November 26.

AFDC Freeze Blocked

The U. S. Senate Finance Committee has rejected a freeze on welfare payments under the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program which was passed earlier by the House of Representatives as part of the 1968 Social Security Amendments bill.

The Senate Committee also adopted a broad-range program of government subsidized jobs for welfare recipients as a substitute for a controversial House amendment making work or job retraining mandatory for these recipients.

Now the Senate-passed version of the bill goes before a joint Senate and House subcommittee to see if a compromise can be reached.

Police Cab Drivers

The Taxi Industry News Service of New York announces that by the end of the year one out of every four taxi drivers working at night would be an off-duty policeman in New York City.

The news service reported that 2,100 policemen have received permission to drive cabs from police headquarters.

There were 1,839 law enforcement officers driving cabs as of Nov. 1, James O'Rourke, director of manpower for the Taxicab Board of Trade reported. He said the rest "haven't gotten around to applying for their hack licenses yet."

Mr. O'Rourke said the presence of policemen as taxi drivers is expected to drastically reduce the number of taxi stickups.

Fares to Work

In a letter to some 200 mayors, HUD Secretary Robert Weaver urged local administrators to draw on Urban Transportation Administration funds for assistance in solving transit expansion problems related to increasing employment prospects for underprivileged citizens of ghetto areas. HUD has earmarked UTA funds specifically for analyzing individual situations of local communities in order to "improve transportation for qualified labor in depressed areas to employment centers where their skills are needed."

Included in the message were examples of two experimental projects: the Watts area of Los Angeles and the Long Island sector of Nassau County, N. Y. Surveys have found that after the second month of operation, the Long Island project carried a total ridership of 5,700 people and 47 percent of this number were work-oriented fares while 25 percent of the 5,700 were employed at newly created jobs. In Los Angeles official figures indicate that the number of average daily fares has increased from 700 in July of 1966 to approximately 2,500 in August of this year.

Michael J. Ward

Michael J. Ward, 68, active in Boston politics for three decades, died early today in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where he has resided the past seven years.

Mr. Ward entered politics after being disabled in World War I. He was appointed secretary to Mayor James Michael Curley and the environment became infectious. He successfully sought a council seat in 1925.

After four years on the council he entered the state Senate and following two terms he sought and won election to the House.

Having served four years in the House, Mr. Ward moved to Ward 21, Allston, and returned to the city council's then 22-man council from that district.

Mr. Ward was elected to the school committee in 1939 and served 12 years, then went back to the council for one term, and returned to the school committee in 1953, a post he preferred over others. After one term, with health beginning to wane, he retired.

N. Y. Times Square—Si! Hawaii—Definitely No!

A Boston travel firm has erected a giant billboard in Times Square, New York to promote travel to Hawaii—which has no billboards.

The billboard of the American International Travel Service measures about 30 feet by 50 feet. It electrically flashes letters calling attention to the company name and the address and phone number of its New York City office.

Hawaii has had a ban on billboards since 1927.

Ninety-one percent of the American people live in areas that will be served by 49 Regional Medical Programs now being planned. These programs will make improved methods for diagnosis and treatment of heart disease, cancer, stroke, and related disease more readily available to people in the region.

Registration Deadline

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin reminds motor vehicle owners that the Registry cannot guarantee delivery of validating stickers, registration certificates, or plates by January 1, 1968, if applications are received by mail after the close of business on December 8.

After that date (December 8) all 1968 registration applications—properly filled out and endorsed by insurance companies—should be taken to the nearest Registry office for immediate processing.

He was born in Charlestown and was a member of the 14th Engineers Veterans Association of World War I and the Boston Firemen's Post, American Legion.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Eleanor Carpenter of Westfield, N. J., and Mrs. Janette Simmons of Stoughton; and a brother, Revere W., of Mattapan.

V. BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT BAND MEMBERSHIP

One of the greatest assets to the Boston Fire Department is its band. In my opinion, the band not only performs a needed public service but also adds an over-all esprit de corps to the department and its membership.

Of late, we have had some difficulty in maintaining a full complement of musicians. Therefore, I earnestly request that any members of the department with an ability to play an instrument or a desire to receive instruction (paid for by the department) forward their names on a Form 5 as soon as possible.

Chief officers and company commanders are instructed to bring this notice to the attention of all members. Their full cooperation is expected in helping to continue this particular function of the Boston Fire Department which is so well respected and enjoyed by the citizens of Boston.

ORDINANCE RE SALARIES OF OFFICERS IN CHARGE OF CERTAIN DEPARTMENTS

The following was received:

City of Boston.

Office of the Mayor, September 11, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Submitted to your Honorable Body herewith is an ordinance designed to adjust the salaries of officers in charge of certain departments of the city so as to keep them at a suitable level above their subordinates.

In July of 1961, after an extensive review of the salaries paid to city officials, the Boston Municipal Research Bureau made certain recommendations as to the salaries which, in its opinion, should be paid to the various city officials. By the action of your Honorable Body taken in 1964, the compensation of certain heads of departments was adjusted, but it is my view that the salaries paid by the city are still well below those paid by the commonwealth and by other major cities of comparable size and by other public agencies. The increases proposed in the accompanying order are still below those suggested in the report and finding of the Boston Research Bureau.

Also enclosed is a schedule listing the current rate of each salary affected and the rate of salary proposed by the accompanying ordinance.

It is my feeling that the adjustments set forth in the attached schedule are fair and reasonable under all the existing circumstances and I recommend its early adoption by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

'TOT' PLAYGROUNDS IN VARIOUS HOUSING PROJECTS

The following was received:

Boston Housing Authority,

August 28, 1967.

Mr. F. J. O'Donnell,
Assistant City Clerk.

Dear Mr. O'Donnell:

Enclosed is the response of the Boston Housing Authority to the order passed by the Council on August 14, 1967.

Sincerely,
ELLIS ASH, Administrator.

August 28, 1967.

REPORT TO THE CITY COUNCIL BY THE BOSTON HOUSING AUTHORITY RELATIVE TO ITS ORDER OF AUGUST 14, 1967, RELATING TO 'TOT' PLAYGROUNDS

The Boston Housing Authority respectfully submits, in response to this order, the advice that installation of playground equipment in various housing developments throughout the city is now in process.

The order refers to an "intolerable delay" in this matter—a judgment founded apparently on misinformation. We regret this circumstance and we are delighted to have the opportunity to correct it.

There was steady progress made in selecting the sites and type of equipment in concert with citizen and tenant representatives. Subsequently, action to issue a "proceed order" to the contractor was taken sometime ago. Please keep in mind that as a public agency it was necessary for us to obtain both federal and state approval of the funds budgeted for this program and their further detailed review of the installation proposed.

The equipment already installed seems to be serving a very useful purpose. We trust that this information will indicate that there are no special problems associated with this program, and that it is on schedule.

Placed on file.

NO. 48

MAYOR DEDICATES 1967 XMAS FESTIVAL TO FIGHTING MEN IN VIETNAM

(Following are the remarks of Mayor John F. Collins at the opening of the Christmas Festival on November 24, 1967):

"During the past few years the fame of our Boston Christmas Festival has spread far beyond our city. Each year the number of inquiries we receive concerning its planning and operation have grown in number.

"Some have come from cities in our own country. Some have come from cities overseas.

"This evening for the seventh time in the past eight years it is my most joyous privilege to mark the opening of another festival.

"Today our festival has become a tradition—a Boston tradition, broken only four years ago when sudden martyrdom struck down our beloved President Kennedy, only hours before the festival was to open.

"Christmas, 1967, comes to the United States as many thousands of her sons engage in military combat far from home—fighting to preserve our precious freedom, fighting to prevent those forces which would destroy the coming Holy Days and the meaning they hold for all of us.

"In the days ahead—even as we prepare for their observance—we will share our thoughts and our prayers for those who are far from their home firesides defending the principles on which this the greatest of nations has been founded.

"To all of them and particularly to the men and women from Boston serving in Vietnam I wish to dedicate this year's Boston Christmas Festival.

"It will be the greatest of our festivals.

"I wish to take this occasion to invite our thousands of visitors to share not alone in admiration of the galaxy of lights, the music and the exhibits but to share as well the true spirit of our observance.

"Each year we have added to the display on our Common. Each year as the New Boston strongly moves toward the completion of its rebirth the lights and decorations of our buildings have added to the breathtaking vista of the holiday season here.

All In Good Taste

"I am most pleased by the fact that as the festival theme has been developed from a simple crèche on the Common—our planners and our people have insisted on the highest standards of good taste—in strict keeping with the true spirit of the season we observe.

"I wish now to thank all those who have worked so hard in the year-long planning; those who will work so unselfishly day and night in insuring its success and those individuals and organizations who will participate in its manifold programs.

"To those who have contributed and will contribute financially in its success and particularly those who will make it possible to present Christmas Day gifts to our Boston men and women in Vietnam, I express my most sincere gratitude.

"Even in this amazing electronic age there will be those among us who will remember the day when candles with their naked flame attempted to provide a soft reflection of the Star of Bethlehem.

"Today with a touch of a button I light the Advent Wreath.

"As I do so I join with the people of Boston in hailing the start of our Christmas Festival.

"May God be with you, always."

Nonresidents Must Register Their Cars

A law requiring nonresident students to register their cars with local police departments is now in effect. Noncompliance can cost $50.

According to Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin, the new law is an attempt to control parking abuses by nonresident students.

"It applies state-wide," he said, "but was primarily designed for the Back Bay area of Boston, where streets serve as parking lots for many noncampus schools".

The law requires the student to register his car with the police department, and the college to issue a decal with identifying student number and name of the institution he is attending.

According to Mr. McLaughlin, failure of the college to issue decals can cost $100 for each offense. "Some of the schools have been pretty irresponsible," he said, "they could care less what their students are doing with regard to motor vehicle regulations."

He said some cars belonging to out-of-state students have collected up to 100 parking tickets in the space of a few months. With this decal, however, police can identify and readily apprehend such violators.

Pru Christmas Concert Series Opens Dec. 14

More than 2,000 Massachusetts carolers, traveling from Gloucester on the North Shore, and from Bourne, on Cape Cod, including many from Greater Boston, have been invited to participate in the 1967 Christmas Concert Series at Boston's Prudential Center.

The 10-day concert series opens December 13, with a 7 P.M. performance of Christmas music by the Boston Conservatory of Music combined 125-voice chorus and 70-member symphony under the direction of Rouben Gregorian.

Choral groups from 36 churches, high schools and colleges, will give special concerts four times a day from a stage in the lobby of the 52-story Prudential Tower beginning at 5 P.M. on Thursday, December 14, through 22. Extra concerts will be performed during noontime lunch hours by organists and small student groups from the Boston Conservatory.

Pru also joins the Salvation Army for the second year in designating the huge 20-foot Christmas tree in the Tower's lobby as "Christmas Corner" where Salvation Army volunteers will maintain a booth for receiving toys and clothing for needy children.

22-Story Tower for Big Chinatown Project

Groundbreaking for the Chinese Community Housing project, first step in the South Cove Urban Renewal Plan, has been scheduled for the first of the year.

Sponsored by the Chinese Community Development Committee, the project will be built by the Development Corporation of America. It will be located on the southeast corner of the South Cove, between Tufts-New England Medical Center's Posner Hall, the Massachusetts Turnpike and the access road that forms a curve around the southeast perimeter of the site.

Frederick A. Stahl, the architect who designed the complex in association with Carl Koch, anticipates that the project will be ready for occupancy by 224 Chinese families in mid-1969.

The design, providing five buildings of various heights ranging from a 3-story building through a 22-story tower, has already won an award, the 1967 Progressive Architecture Citation, for the firm, F. A. Stahl & Associates.

The 22-story tower building will be the core of the complex, with the other multistory buildings linked to this structure by means of exterior bridges at corridor floors. The first three floors of each building contain walk-up apartments. The novel skip-floor access plan allows some of the larger apartments to have windows at both front and rear. It also permits exterior balconies for more than 40 percent of the units.

In addition to housing 224 families and providing underground parking space for each tenant, the complex will contain space for a nursery, small parks, and social and recreational activities. Areas also will be provided for retail stores, markets, barber shop, laundry, and other commercial enterprises.

After completion, the project will be turned over to the New China Village Corporation, a nonprofit organization which will own and manage it. Available will be eight efficiency apartments, 72 one-bedroom suites, 56 with two bedrooms, 69 with three, and 19 with four bedrooms.

As worked out by the Boston Redevelopment Authority, priority for tenancy would go first to those families displaced from the immediate neighborhood. Second priority would be given to other displaced Chinese families, then to families not displaced by urban renewal. The rents will be based on family income.

18th Christmas Festival to Attract Million Visitors

Christmas Festival Chairman Arthur G. Coffey, Boston's Deputy Mayor, and Festival Director Lawrence M. Quealy expect well over a million visitors to view the 18th annual display on Boston Common.

The festival displays will remain up through January 6, Little Christmas, in accordance with past custom.

As usual, Santa's eight reindeer will be on display at Playland, but the usual string of lights will be substituted by a lighted tree, Quealy said.

There will be eight additional lighted trees as part of the festival, he said.

Opening ceremonies in front of City Hall on November 24 featured children's groups. The reading of the Christmas Gospel was by Sharon Lanza, eighth grade pupil at Michelangelo School, North End.

Participating groups included the St. Raphael's Boys' Choir, West Medford, and St. Raphael's School Brass Sextet and St. Catherine's School Choir, Charlestown.

Director Quealy said that approximately 60,000 lights will be used to illuminate the Common.

Besides Santa's eight reindeer, Sicilian donkeys and sheep will be in their Playland home to delight the youngsters.

Concerts will be given in the Concert Chapel daily from 12.30 to 2 P.M. and 7.30 to 8.30 P.M. at night. Sunday concerts will be held from 2 P.M. to 4 P.M. and 7 P.M. to 9 P.M.

BFD's Lt. Lynch Dies in Thanksgiving Fire

Lieut. Warren Lynch met death and three other members of the Boston Fire Department were hospitalized in a fire early Thanksgiving morning in a residence on Hartford street, Dorchester.

Lieutenant Lynch, a 20-year veteran of the BFD, had been assigned to Ladder 23 in Grove Hall from his regular station at Engine 18, Peabody square, in a regular "swingman" rotation.

According to District Chief James Finn, the fire started on the first floor of the 2½-story building and spread quickly up through the walls to the attic.

He and the three injured firemen were the first to arrive at the scene shortly after 3 A.M. They climbed an aerial ladder to battle the smoky fire from inside the attic.

When Capt. Thomas Keeley, 43, of 64 St. Brendon road, Fireman Robert McInnis, 28, of 45 Richfield street, both of Dorchester, and Higgins realized Lieutenant Lynch was missing they returned to the attic and carried him to the sidewalk and then collapsed. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Boston City Hospital.

Fire Fighter James Higgins, 48, of 38 Lindsey street, Dorchester, suffered burns of the hands and face and his name was placed on the Danger List at City Hospital. The two other fire fighters, Captain Keeley and Private McInnis were treated for smoke inhalation and released.

The occupants of the Hartford Street house, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Casey and their five children, fled uninjured. Cause of the fire is under investigation.

Mr. Lynch was promoted to lieutenant a year ago and assigned to Engine Squad Company 18 at Peabody square, Dorchester. Previously he had been assigned to Engine Company 13 in Roxbury.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Doris (McKenna) Lynch, he is survived by two daughters, Lorraine, 18, and Jane, 6; his mother, Mrs. William O'Donnell, and a brother, Richard Lynch of Boston.

Senior Play-Off

The 1967 Boston Senior Park Championship Grid Game will be held Sunday, December 3, at 1.30 P.M., at George White Stadium at Franklin Park, Dorchester.

Meeting in this traditional tilt will be the defending titleholders, the O'Connor Club of Roxbury, and the undefeated and untied Lyons Club of Dorchester. Over ten thousand highly partisan spectators are expected to be on hand at kick-off time, when these high-flying powerhouses collide.

This will be a replay of the 1966 title tilt, when the O'Connor Club eked out a victory by a narrow margin.

Mayor Calls For MBTA Fare Hike Study

(Following is the statement by Mayor John F. Collins regarding the proposed MBTA raise in fare):

"The proposed fare raise by the MBTA increasing local bus service fares from 10 cents to 20 cents is a matter of great importance to many millions of annual transit users and will have an obvious detrimental effect on mass transportation passenger loads throughout the City of Boston and the metropolitan area.

"I am going to request at this time that the 14 cities and towns which are affected by this proposed fare increase meet within a week, under the chairmanship of Mayor John J. Slater of Chelsea, with MBTA officials to investigate fully all aspects of this proposal."

Model Cities Program to Improve Lives of 60,000 People in Dorchester, Roxbury and Jamaica Plain

(The following article by Daniel J. Finn appears in the current issue of The Realtor, official publication of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board, and is reproduced here by permission. Mr. Finn is Administrator of the Boston Model City Program, Commissioner of the Housing Inspection Department, Chairman of the $4.5 million Community Conservation Program, and Administrator of Mayor Collins' Manpower Training Program):

By DANIEL J. FINN

In August of this year the residents of Roxbury, Jamaica Plain, and Dorchester went to the polls and elected eighteen citizens to represent them on the new model city board. Shortly thereafter Mayor John F. Collins appointed me the Administrator of the Model City Program for the City of Boston. One week later the new board members were officially sworn in at a meeting in the Mayor's office. This series of steps completed the preliminary administrative arrangements that will permit the City of Boston to begin one of the most challenging and exciting governmental programs ever created.

In the next year the City of Boston, through the efforts of an active partnership between the residents of the model city area, government officials, and professional advisors from universities and industry, will create a detailed plan that will blueprint the directions that Boston shall follow for the next five years in seeking to improve dramatically the conditions of the people who live within the boundaries of the selected area.

As required by the federal government, this area encompasses 10 percent of the city and includes approximately 62,000 people. The over-all plan will be subdivided into many subplans that will include housing, health, transportation, education, recreation and major city services such as police, sanitation, streets, and welfare. It will also include a general program for manpower which will seek to provide greater skills for those now underemployed and new skills and jobs for those who are now not employed.

Present plans call for experimenting with a development corporation that will, it is hoped, provide a corporate umbrella under which we can place many small business activities. This corporation will permit us to create new jobs and new businesses in the heart of the city. We have already begun to pay special attention to the many small business operations now functioning in Roxbury, Dorchester, and Jamaica Plain. In cooperation with schools of business and the appropriate federal agencies, we plan to provide continuing advice and counselling so that the small businesses can grow and add new strength to the neighborhoods in which they are located.

The model city board under the leadership of Mr. Richardson, chairman, and Mr. Hanley, vice-chairman, will add to the prospects of eventual success of the program. I am confident that these gentlemen along with the other members of the board will successfully carry out the functions envisioned for the board in the original proposal; that is to be an effective instrument for interpreting and presenting the needs, the hopes, the aspirations, and the dreams of the people that they represent.

The program, if adequately and continuously supported by the Congress of the United States, can provide the City of Boston with its greatest opportunity to meet the total needs of its citizens in this first model city area. As we proceed with the work of creating this plan we must constantly be aware that the money to be made available now and in the immediate future will not be enough to solve all of the problems and it will take an ever-increasing sense of maturity on the part of the people within the area to understand and accept this reality.

We have every hope of making a good beginning, but I must caution now that it would be foolhardy to become overoptimistic about the end result from this first effort. We must proceed day by day, week by week, and month by month, to attack each pressing problem, and we must do it simultaneously in many problem areas at the same time.

As we analyze the problems of this community and divide and reduce them to manageable size, it is my earnest belief that the citizens of this community and this government can plan a program which will eventually make this area a true model city.

Medicaid Threat

Amendments to the Social Security Act approved by the U. S. House of Representatives recently would hurt the state's Medicaid program if they are approved by Congress.

The House-passed bill would set a federal limit on the income of a family before its medical bills could lead to partial federal reimbursement to the state. The present system provides federal aid for all medical bills accepted under a state's standards. The new House limit would be 150 percent of cash benefits given in a state's Aid to Dependent Children program during the last half of 1968.

A U. S. Senate version of this same bill, may prove to be even more stringent. It would change the Medicaid eligibility standard to that used for Old Age Assistance, and limit federal aid to 150 percent of this income.

Medicaid Speakers

The Boston Welfare Department is forming a Medicaid Speakers Bureau to accommodate the many requests received from various groups and organizations for information about the program.

Individuals interested should contact Miss Marie Scanlon, Medical-Social Division, extension 375.

FORD GRANT TO M.I.T. TO MAKE POSSIBLE EXTENSIVE STUDIES OF URBAN PROBLEMS

The Ford Foundation has awarded a grant of $3 million to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to encourage and support a major program of educational and research activities in urban affairs, President Howard W. Johnson announced recently. He said that the Institute's efforts toward the understanding and the solution of urban problems would be enlarged significantly.

Broad participation in the study of urban problems by individuals and groups in a number of relevant fields at M.I.T., including architecture and city planning, engineering, economics, political science and management will be made possible by this grant. Professorships in urban affairs will be endowed and the grant will support the establishment of an inter-departmental laboratory for urban systems analysis. A program of M.I.T. Fellows in Urban Affairs, under which M.I.T. graduates from several departments will serve on the staffs of urban officials for a period of a year or more, will be inaugurated.

Mayor Collins First Appointment

The grant will be used also to bring leaders in urban affairs to M.I.T. to lecture, teach, and participate in research. The first such appointment is that of Mayor John Collins of Boston, as visiting professor of urban affairs, effective January 2. Mayor Collins will be affiliated with the departments of Political Science, Civil Engineering, and the Alfred P. Sloan School of Management.

"The methods of analysis now available in science and technology could make a dramatic impact on the human quality of urban life," President Johnson said. "A massive response to the problems that beset our cities today must include the active participation of the universities. We need a generation of urban technologists who have a language in common with those whose primary concerns are the political, social, and economic aspects of city life.

"The large systems problems of the city will be solved by all of the elements of our society working together effectively and contributively. But the universities bring special talents to bear—research in order to understand, experimentation in order to discover and, finally, action involving the most precious resource, our youth. This new grant from the Ford Foundation will help us to build a body of knowledge about the city and a direction for effective action on its problems. M.I.T. has special resources to contribute and it has a responsibility to do so."

New Links Established

In commenting further on M.I.T.'s program, President Johnson indicated that one objective would be to "support the work of faculty members who will bring to bear the special knowledge and insights of their academic disciplines on the complex problems of the urban setting. The M.I.T. Fellows in Urban Affairs will create effective new links between academic departments at M.I.T. and centers of urban activity and innovation."

"The urban systems laboratory will serve as a means of integrating the many disciplines involved in developing the methodology for studying complex, dynamic variables in urban design, construction, and services."

M.I.T. has pioneered in the fields of operations research, information sciences, computer technology, and systems analysis. Use of computers makes possible the manipulation of huge quantities of shifting data for management and policy decisions, simulation and resource allocation such as is needed in urban management. Extensive activity in the use of computers is already under way in the Schools of Engineering, Management, Humanities and Social Sciences, and Architecture and Planning. One professor, for example, has been conducting systems engineering studies of police force and municipal court operations and of ways in which regional blood banks can be operated.

M.I.T. Long Active in Planning

For the past 35 years, M.I.T.'s work in city planning has contributed importantly to the study and design of cities. Using computers in much of its research, the Department of Civil Engineering has made notable progress in studies of transportation, traffic control, highway safety, and the design of new kinds of structures. New ideas have been developed in interdepartmental student-faculty projects, such as "Glideway" (1965), a high-speed ground transport system between Boston and Washington; "Metran" (1966), a proposed metropolitan transportation system for Boston in 1990; and "Central City Module" (1967), the design of a new kind of urban environment for 100,000 people.

These projects have demonstrated, Mr. Johnson said, the way in which the city planner, the engineer, the political scientist, the economist, the manager, the architect, and the artist can work together on urban problems.

M.I.T. has a tradition of bringing together people from many disciplines to work on complex subjects. This has occurred in centers for international studies, earth sciences, materials science, and education research.

Over the years, there has been extensive collaboration between Harvard and M.I.T. faculty in various fields. The Joint Center for Urban Studies, the director of which is Daniel P. Moynihan, was established by Harvard and M.I.T. in 1959 with a Ford Foundation grant, to stimulate and support research by faculty and students of the two institutions in the areas of urban and regional studies.

N. E. Hospital Named ABCD Medical Center

New England Hospital has been established as a Medical Center for Action for Boston Community Development's job trainee physical examination program.

The hospital has organized complete out-patient clinic facilities and provided medical staff to handle an anticipated 2,000 examinations per year. According to the federal regulation, all persons who register for job training with ABCD must first receive a complete physical check-up.

The clinic, which opened very recently, accepts patients from ABCD's four job-training centers located in Roxbury, Dorchester, and South End.

The clinic program is being carried out on a two-day-per-week basis in cooperation with the Visiting Nurses Association which has assigned two nurses to the project.

According to Mrs. Beatrice M. Bonnevie, Administrator of New England Hospital, persons whose examinations disclose need of follow-up medical care will be referred to the Visiting Nurses Association. This organization will then refer such patients to the medical facility that can provide the care they need.

Serving as liaison for VNA is Mrs. Norma Holt. Supervising the program for ABCD is Peter Solomon.

Medicaid Delay

Governor Volpe has announced that State Public Welfare Commissioner Robert F. Ott has informed the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare that Massachusetts is postponing until July 1, 1970, its plan to extend Medicaid coverage to people between the ages of 21 and 64.

The proposed extension would have provided Medicaid coverage for an additional 850,000 persons in the state at an estimated cost of $40 million a year.

The Governor said "The Commonwealth in good conscience cannot assume new costs of these proportions and burden taxpayers with this expense. Such entry of a large segment of the population into Medicaid is premature at this time."

Health Insurance Rates

To Department Heads and County Officers.

Attention: Payroll Clerks

Effective January 1, 1968, the new over-all rates for Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Life Insurance will be—for active employees under 65 years of age or over who are not in "Medicare."

(B.C.-B.S.) Individual $10.12.

(B.C.-B.S.) Family $31.56.

Life Insurance $1.05 per thousand.

This means the active employees deduction, starting December, 1967, for January, 1968, for B.C.-B.S. and Life Insurance will be:

Individual: $6.12 per month—$2.04 per week

Family: $16.83 per month—$5.61 per week

For the year 1968, the only change in benefits is in the deductible used for "Extended Benefits."

For the entire 12 months of 1968 the deductible used will be $50 per Individual or $100 for all members covered under the same Family contract.

The OME rate for those over 65 will remain at $4.91 per month—with no change in benefits.

The cost of a Retirees Life Insurance is $1 per thousand.

The rates for Optional Life Insurance will remain the same for 1968, that is:

$0.40 per thousand—under 40 years of age.

$0.75 per thousand—ages 40 through 49.

$1.40 per thousand—ages 50 through 59.

BRA Explains Stand on West End Parcels

(Following is a report submitted to Mayor John F. Collins by the Boston Redevelopment Authority in response to newspaper stories regarding Charles River Park):

Jerome L. Rappaport has never submitted a plan for the development of the last two parcels in the West End which is acceptable to the Redevelopment Authority.

His first plan calling for the construction of three 40-story apartment buildings was turned down by the Design Review Panel.

His second plan, submitted about April 1, 1967, calling for the erection of three 35-story apartment buildings, a theatrical playhouse, and commercial property, also was turned down by the Design Review people who felt there should be no playhouse or commercial property. They also suggested the plan be revised and the buildings rearranged to provide for the possibility that all three buildings might not be built. In other words, so that the complex would look all right if Mr. Rappaport were able to build only one or two buildings.

Early in October the Redevelopment Authority returned the plan to Mr. Rappaport with instructions to eliminate the playhouse and commercial property which he does not have the right to build under the plan, to concentrate on housing and to comply with the Design Review recommendations.

Mr. Rappaport indicated at that time he would submit a revised plan within two weeks. He has not yet done so even though almost two months have passed.

His complaint that he is losing parking revenue because of the operation of the Massachusetts General parking lot and the other parking lot toward the North Station is without merit.

Mr. Rappaport is operating an open-air parking lot and providing public parking in two private residential garages in violation of the Redevelopment plan under which he obtained land from the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

The Redevelopment Authority never has authorized public parking in either the open-air lot or the two supposedly private residential garages.

A serious question exists as to the financial feasibility of any additional high rental or luxury housing in the West End. Doubt has been expressed as to whether the market would support any additional high-rise luxury apartment buildings in the West End.

In view of these facts and in light of the experience with Mr. Rappaport, the Redevelopment Authority decided in October that it would not be in the public interest to turn over any additional land to Mr. Rappaport until he can show a financial ability to develop it. This was one of the requirements insisted upon by Mr. Logue before land was turned over to developers.

The operator of the parking lot at the North Station and of the West End land operates under certain restrictions imposed by the Redevelopment Authority. He must provide spaces for employees of the Massachusetts General Hospital, the Eye and Ear Infirmary, and the Retina Foundation for 30 cents a day. He must provide spaces for Beacon Hill residents for a charge not in excess of $14 per month. He cannot charge the general public more than 75 cents per day. The Redevelopment Authority has taken the position that this met a public need.

To turn the two parcels of land over to Mr. Rappaport before he is able to develop them and for the purpose of driving parkers into the illegally operated two garages and open-air lot operated in violation of the Redevelopment plan does not seem to the Redevelopment Authority to be in the public interest.

The Redevelopment Authority also has been informed that it will be necessary for the city to realign Lowell street and that this will involve the taking of land from Parcels 4 and 5. It seems to the Authority that this question also should be resolved before the two parcels are placed under the control of Charles River Park.

Thanks to W.E.I.U.

The Welfare Department offers its appreciation to the Women's Educational and Industrial Union for its cooperation and pioneering spirit in implementing projects under the Work Training Program. The "Union" has been effectively instrumental in offering productive courses for welfare clients as Home-Makers Assistants, Home Health Aides, Diet Aides, and the new program on Home Management for Spanish-speaking people.

An important innovative project is being started at the Union to help orientate Spanish-speaking mothers to an English-speaking urban environment by offering them a Home Management Course. The course is unique because it is for Spanish-speaking mothers only and is geared specifically to meet their problems. The services of an interpreter will be available throughout the program.

TOO DIRTY

During the labor-force shortage of World War II a Cleveland resident called a window-washing company to send out a man.

"Are the windows very dirty, lady?" asked the manager.

"Certainly, that's why—"

"Sorry, lady. Takes too long to clean dirty windows these days."

Police Save Gas Victim

Swift action by two Boston police officers was credited on November 30 with saving the life of Mrs. Caroline Zinowski, 74, of 9 Revere street, West End, after she was overcome by gas fumes in her apartment.

Following a call from residents, William M. Crosby and Joseph J. Foley of District 2 found Mrs. Zinowski on the floor in her apartment with three of the burners on her gas range open and the flame out due to lack of oxygen in the room.

Mr. Crosby administered mouth to mouth resuscitation while Mr. Foley quickly aired out the apartment and revived Mrs. Zinowski.

ALA Head Urges $25 Parking Fines for Hub

Any and all types of illegal parking in Boston should bring a flat $25 fine, the American Legal Association urges.

"Halfway measures will no longer work, nor should they be tolerated," said Philip C. Thibodeau, ALA general manager.

"A $25 fine, as in New York, is the only measure that will unclog Boston's streets," he said.

"Tie this stern penalty with rigid enforcement and a noticeable improvement in traffic flow will appear almost overnight."

Mr. Thibodeau said:

"Presently, cars and trucks are parked illegally on almost every major artery in Boston. Double parking and even triple parking is common in front of hotels, restaurants, and clubs throughout the city, and the cars stay there as long as the doorman is rewarded by the driver."

The ALA spokesman said, "Hit a violator hard once and he'll think twice. Such a fine ($25) would benefit the entire city and the state."

"Traffic conditions would improve, enabling shoppers to park more easily. Movement of police and fire equipment would be facilitated."

"And the additional revenue from parking fines could be used to hire more police."

Thomas F. Kennedy

Thomas F. Kennedy, 70, of 120 Bynner street, Jamaica Plain, a former deputy superintendent of public buildings for Boston, died on December 2 at Brooks Hospital, Brookline.

Born and educated in Roxbury, Mr. Kennedy was appointed to his city post by former Mayor Maurice Tobin and served until 1960, when he retired.

He was a brother-in-law to former State Banking Commissioner Timothy J. Donovan.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary A. (Donovan); a son, Thomas E., Jr., of New York, and a daughter, Mrs. Harry E. Hewes, II, of West Roxbury.

Joint Committee Gets Social Security Bill

The U. S. Senate has passed its version of the omnibus Social Security Bill. Here are some of the major points pertaining to welfare it contains.

The Senate deleted from its version a House of Representatives proposal that would limit federal contributions to states for Aid to Families with Dependent Children. The freeze approved by the House would limit federal aid for children in broken homes to the proportion of the population in a state receiving such aid as of last January.

The Senate would vastly expand work training programs for recipients in an attempt to equip them to enter the work force. As part of the over-all plan, day-care facilities would be expanded and high incentives would be paid to persons on welfare to encourage them to take jobs. Also mothers of children could not be put off relief if they refused to accept work, as they presumably could under the House bill.

The 1968 Amendments to the Social Security Bill are now headed for a joint Congressional conference committee where lengthy debate is expected before any final compromise legislation emerges.

Legal Holiday Chart

An informational chart on legal holidays in Massachusetts during the coming year has been made available by the Government Department of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

"1968 Legal Holidays in Massachusetts" contains a complete holiday calendar and answers a number of important questions on business restrictions relating to "Sunday Law" holidays, labor laws relating to legal holidays, and state laws on the sale and delivery of alcoholic beverages during holidays.

Copies of the chart can be obtained by writing to the Government Department, Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, 125 High street, Boston 02110.

Conscience Balm?

The City of Boston's "conscience fund" was enriched by $436 recently with receipt of an anonymous donation for an unspecified purpose.

City Treasurer-Collector Edmund W. Holmes said the remittance, in four $100 bills, three $10 bills, a $5, and a $1 bill will be turned into the city's general fund.

He thinks the mysterious remittance might be from the same person who sent in $800 a few weeks ago.

Municipal Research Bureau Studies State Welfare Law

(Following are excerpts from a study of the new state welfare law and its effect on the City of Boston. The study was made by the Boston Municipal Research Bureau and is contained in the December 1 Special Report of the Bureau):

Apart from promising social benefits, the welfare law passed in October, 1967, relieves Boston and other communities from the administrative and relief costs of the categorical public welfare programs—old age assistance, medicaid, aid to families with dependent children, disability assistance, and general relief. The state take-over date is July 1, 1968. Thus, Boston still is faced with providing for welfare expenses at least for the first half of 1968.

In determining the 1968 and 1969 spending margin or tax rate effect from the welfare law, it would be very simple, but incorrect, to say that Boston spent x dollars in 1967 for welfare and thus one-half of x was the spending flexibility or taxpayer savings in each of 1968 and 1969. A more accurate measure would be to determine the net cost to the city in 1967 and to compare that to the estimated net cost in 1968; the same procedure would be used for measuring the 1969 impact. Net cost is the difference between the figures used in the tax rate computation for expenses and welfare receipts from the state.

In 1967, Boston will provide $50.6 million for welfare programs covered by the new law as follows:

$44.2 million — appropriations

5.0 million — welfare loan

1.4 million — principal and interest on past welfare loans

$50.6 million

The $5 million loan should be discounted in determining 1967 net costs, however, since it did not affect the 1967 tax rate. Principal and interest payments will not begin until 1968. Estimated welfare receipts in 1967 are $22.3 million. Although less than what actual receipts will be, the estimated figure must be considered since that figure was used in the 1967 tax rate calculation. Thus, the net welfare impact this year is $23.3 million.

There are two ways of estimating 1968 net costs. First, it can be assumed that Boston will have to appropriate $25 million to cover welfare costs for the first six months. Normally, about 61 percent of this should be reimbursed making the net cost nearly $10 million. This can be reduced further to $7 million since the city would expect to get seven months reimbursement. The extra month covers December, 1967, expenses which would not be reimbursed until 1968. But principal and interest on three outstanding welfare loans ($2.6 million) will shoot the net cost back to $9.6 million.

The second method is based on the assumption that the city would have to provide funds for the full 12 months and be reimbursed on the old basis for the first half of the year and the new basis for the latter half. This method would require an estimated $55 million in city appropriation of which about $45.2 million would be reimbursed. The $9.8 million difference plus the $2.6 million in principal and interest payments on outstanding welfare loans would make the 1968 net cost $12.4 million.

Comparing the 1967 net cost of $23.3 million with the 1968 net cost of between $9.6 million and $12.4 million shows that Boston's new mayor would have between $11 and $14 million more to spend or that the city's taxpayers would benefit in reduction of their taxes by the same amount. Moreover, if actual 1967 welfare receipts are substantially more than estimated, thus providing free cash, the flexibility/savings would be increased. Incidentally, Boston's mayor will not make the decision on whether the city will benefit by $11 million or $14 million.

The flexibility in 1969 will be even less than 1968's since the additional spending margin will run about $7-$10 million—the $9.6-$12.4 million net welfare cost of 1968 reduced by principal and interest on outstanding welfare loans.

There is absolutely no doubt that, without the funding of the welfare law, Boston and its new administration will not be able to stabilize the property tax. Even with funding, any large new spending programs will cause a major property tax hike because spending margin will not be available to the mayor-elect.

Effect of Tax Bill

The second important question then is the Governor's tax bill currently before the Legislature. The implication or effect on the city from failure to fund the welfare law is now quite evident. But there is a less obvious implication in the tax bill—one which could eventually be harmful to the city. This is in the provisions of the bill which would use the Local Aid Fund as the vehicle for state reimbursement. The tax sources are not in question.

The bill would at first pour some $60 million in new revenue into the fund to cover cost of the welfare take-over and reimburse cities and towns from the fund. However, unless the annual increase from the new tax sources is large enough to cover the annual increases in welfare costs, the rest of the Local Aid Fund will have to make up the difference. In effect, this would reduce the absolute benefit and water down the intent of the state welfare assumption law. Put another way, the cities and towns would, in effect, start paying for part of the welfare costs again.

Although the present tax bill may be intended to cover a transitional period and future legislative changes would be sought to prevent erosion of the Local Aid Fund, there is no guarantee that such legislation would pass. As the bill now stands, and that is how Boston must analyze it, the eventuality of local sharing of welfare costs again is there.

Governor Would Ease Traffic In and Out

A parking ban on major routes into Boston during peak traffic was part of a plan outlined by Governor John A. Volpe at a meeting of his highway-safety committee and community officials from Greater Boston.

The ban would affect inbound lanes from 7 to 10 A.M. and outbound lanes from 4 to 7 P.M.

The Governor also suggested setting up two kinds of winter weather alerts—a white alert when emergency conditions are expected and a gray alert when there is no emergency but snow or icing conditions prevail. He also suggested that snow tires or chains be required at the annual fall inspection of motor vehicles, and that cars without snow tires or chains be banned from state highways and expressways during a white alert.

Ten-to-Two Juries

The Parliament of Great Britain, in passing a new Criminal Justice Act, has done away with the requirement for a unanimous jury verdict in criminal cases. Under the new act a 10-to-2 majority vote will be sufficient for conviction.

The Labor government was prompted to push through the bill because of the rising crime rate. One of the main arguments was that professional criminals with syndicates behind them are sometimes able to bribe or intimidate one juror. The result of this has been a divided verdict, acquittal, or at least a retrial.

The British National Council for Civil Liberties has questioned the Home Office's evidence on mounting intimidation of jurors. But, even with this objection, the Home Office decided to push its jury proposal to extensive tryout.

Author To Speak

Stephen Birmingham, author of the best-selling social history "Our Crowd: The Great Jewish Families of New York," will be the featured speaker at the Jewish Book Month program at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel, Sunday, December 10, at 2.30 P.M.

The program, cosponsored by the Boston Public Library and the Jewish Community Council of Metropolitan Boston, will include a commentary on "Jewish Music Through the Ages" by Cantor Gregor Shelkan of the Temple Mishkan Tefila. The public is invited to attend, free of charge, both the program and the reception to follow.

Cronin to Speak

Public Welfare Director Daniel I. Cronin will be one of the invited speakers at the National Round Table Conference of the American Public Welfare Association to be held in Washington, D.C., December 8. His subject will be "The Social Service Component in Model Cities—New Dimensions for Public Welfare."

CITY OF BOSTON

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, October 2, 1967.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 p.m., President HYNES in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

Eternal God, source of every blessing, in this mad whirling vortex of violence, confusion, defeat, comes this bright day of victory and of joy that is unbounded for the people of Boston. We have grown accustomed and somewhat tired of demonstrations against this or against that, but today we are all caught up in a demonstration of gratitude, wholesome, refreshing excitement. How clean everything seems today. All differences seem obscured as we share in the triumph of Boston's Red Sox. "I thank God," said the team's great manager, and so do we thank Thee, Heavenly Father, for this blessing of great joy and for all Your blessings from the beginning.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

It was voted at the meeting of the Board of the Department of Health and Hospitals on May 26, 1967, that the House Officers at Boston City Hospital, Mattapan Chronic Disease Hospital, and Long Island Chronic Disease Hospital be granted an increase in rates of pay effective July 1, 1967, as follows:

Since this expenditure could not possibly have been foreseen at the time of the preparation of our budget, may I respectfully request that funds to implement this vote in the amount of $183,000 be granted to our department.

AMENDMENT TO COUNTY CLASSIFICATION AND COMPENSATION PLANS

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 2, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

The attached proposal by the Supervisor of Personnel to amend the Compensation and Classification Plans for the Officers and Employees of Suffolk County to include the classification title of Senior Telephone Operator (Court House) is hereby approved and transmitted for consideration and adoption by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department,
October 2, 1967.

To the Mayor and City Council.

Gentlemen:

In accordance with Rule 3 of the Compensation and Classification Plans for the Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, the Supervisor of Personnel whenever a new position is established, is required, after an investigation of the actual and proposed duties and responsibilities, and, with the approval of the City Council and the Mayor, to classify the position by allocating it to its appropriate class.

Under date of September 22, 1967, the Chairman of the Court House Commission requested that the title of Senior Telephone Operator (Court House) in compensation grade R-6 be established in his department.

My investigation of this request discloses that there is need of this new classification of a supervisory nature in order to compensate for the additional responsibilities of the position.

In order to include this new classification in the Compensation and Classification Plans for the Officers and Employees of Suffolk County I recommend consideration and adoption of the accompanying order amending these plans to include the position of Senior Telephone Operator (Court House) in the Suffolk County Court House.

Respectfully

DUNCAN T. FOLEY,
Supervisor of Personnel.

Ordered, That Schedule B of the Classification and Compensation Plans for the Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, adopted by order passed by the City Council on September 9, 1963, and approved by the Mayor on September 12, 1963, be, and the same is, amended by including the following new classification:

SENIOR TELEPHONE OPERATOR
(COURT HOUSE)

Duties: Under general supervision, operates a PBX telephone switchboard and supervises a small group of telephone operators; assigns and instructs new operators; prepares vacation schedules; arranges for relief operators when the regular operators are absent; takes and relays messages; keeps records of toll calls and telegrams. Compensation Grade: R-6

On motion of Councillor Langone, the rules were suspended, the order was passed.

EXTENSION OF TIME ON PERFORMANCE OF CONDITIONS OF DEED OF LAND TO JOHN J. MORIARTY AND EDMOND B. NARDONE

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 2, 1967.
To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith a communication received from John J. Moriarty requesting an extension of time for the performance of conditions set forth in a deed of the City of Boston to John J. Moriarty and Edmond B. Nardone pursuant to an order of the City Council approved January 6, 1965, as amended by an order of the Council approved April 13, 1966.

I also transmit herewith a proposed form of order for your consideration which would permit the grantees an extension of time to December 31, 1968.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

October 2, 1967.

To the Honorable Mayor and Honorable City Council of the City of Boston.

Gentlemen:

On March 31, 1965, the City of Boston delivered a deed to John J. Moriarty and Edmond B. Nardone of approximately seventy-one hundred square feet of land on Washington street, Dorchester. A condition in this deed provided that the buyers construct an access roadway to adjacent city property within one year. On April 13, 1966, the Mayor and Council of Boston was kind enough to extend the time for performance an additional eight months.

The reason for the delay in construction, and consequently the necessity for requesting a further extension of time has been the difficulty in obtaining financing for the over-all project. We have now been assured of obtaining the necessary financing and respectfully request that the time for performing the conditions set forth in the deed of March 1, 1965, be extended to December 31, 1968.

Very truly yours,
JOHN J. MORIARTY,
10 Codman Street,
Dorchester, Mass.

Whereas, By an order of the City Council read and passed December 21, 1964, and read and passed the second time January 4, 1965, and approved by the Mayor of the City of Boston January 6, 1965, the City of Boston by its Mayor was authorized to sell and convey to John J. Moriarty of Boston and Edmond B. Nardone of Newton, for the sum of three thousand five hundred dollars, approximately seventy-one hundred square feet of land situated on the westerly side of Washington street, Dorchester district of the City of Boston, upon certain conditions set forth in said Council order; and

Whereas, On March 31, 1965, the Mayor of the City of Boston delivered to John J. Moriarty and Edmond B. Nardone a deed pursuant to said Council order; and

Whereas, By an order of the City Council passed March 26, 1966, and passed for a second time April 11, 1966, and approved by the Mayor April 13, 1966, the time for the performance of certain conditions set forth in said deed were extended to November 30, 1966; and

Whereas, The grantees have not up to the present time performed the conditions set forth in said deed and have requested that the time for compliance be extended to December 1, 1968; now therefore it is hereby Ordered, That the Council order of January 6, 1965, as amended by the Council order of April 13, 1966, be amended by striking out therefrom the words, — "Said instrument shall contain a condition that the grantees shall not later than November 30, 1966, construct to the specifications and satisfaction of the Parks and Recreation Commission of the City of Boston an access roadway, guardrails, sidewalk and chainlink fence, as indicated on the plan hereinbefore referred to; and substituting in place therefor the following: "Said instrument shall contain a condition that the grantees shall not later than December 1, 1968, construct to the specifications and satisfaction of the Parks and Recreation Commission of the City of Boston an access roadway, guardrails, sidewalk and chainlink fence, as indicated on the plan hereinbefore referred to; and it is hereby further Ordered, That the Mayor of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized to execute such instrument as may be required to extend the time for performance of the above-named conditions.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

ORDER FOR LOAN OF $5,000,000 FOR WELFARE DEPARTMENT

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, October 9, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am forwarding herewith a communication from the Director, Welfare Department, in the City of Boston, with an accompanying appropriation order, requesting authorization to borrow five million dollars ($5,000,000).

It is apparent that the expenditures required under Medicaid have far exceeded the anticipated costs of this new program.

As this order is of an emergency nature it is respectfully requested that your Honorable Body give early consideration to the enclosed order.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Welfare Department,

October 6, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mayor Collins:

The Welfare Department expenditures for assistance payments and medical care for the calendar year 1967 will exceed appropriations which are available by $6,511,000. By transferring every available dollar from both public assistance and administration accounts, a net figure for which a request for additional funds is needed is $5,000,000. We respectfully request that these additional funds be appropriated in order to enable the department to meet its obligations during the remaining months of the calendar year.

The principal cause of the request is the expenditures being made on the program of Medicaid. The expenditures could not be anticipated due to the fact that the program was enacted on September 1, 1966, and that two essential factors were not known to us at the time when the appropriation requests were made: (1) The unusually large number of families that would qualify for Medicaid; and (2) the increases in rates paid for medical assistance, particularly in the area of in-patient and out-patient hospital costs.

The Medicaid program not only provides comprehensive medical care to all clients on public assistance, but has extended the medical assistance eligibility to large numbers of low-income families and to aged persons previously ineligible for these benefits. The department has already qualified for Medical Assistance 25,000 children from 6,000 low-income families. Expenditures for the entire medical program are now averaging $3,000,000 a month. We are budgeted from federal and municipal appropriations at $25,525,000, but will expend $30,375,000.

It is important to understand that a substantial part of the $5,000,000 for which an additional appropriation is needed will be anticipated revenue in the early months of 1968.

Very truly yours,
DANIEL I. CRONIN, Director.

Whereas, An emergency involving the health of a substantial segment of the people exists through inability to provide necessary public assistance for the remainder of the current fiscal year due to the depletion of current appropriations for public welfare, as hereinafter defined, by the costs of the Medicaid program for recipients of such public welfare far exceeding original estimates of expenditures for this new program; now therefore it is hereby Ordered, That the sum of five million dollars ($5,000,000) be, and hereby is, appropriated for public welfare purposes, including in such term, old age assistance, medical assistance, aid to families with dependent children, and disability assistance; and further that to meet said appropriation, the Collector-Treasurer be, and he hereby is, authorized under the provisions of clause 9 of section 8 of chapter 44 of the General Laws to issue from time to time, on the request of the Mayor, bonds or certificates of indebtedness of the city to said amount.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

Hub's 8-Year Comeback As Great "Showplace" Of Ideas Hailed By Real Estate Head

(Following are excerpts from an address given recently before the Boston College Citizens' Seminar by President Richard H. Barnett of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board.)

Over these recent years we have heard Boston called the City of Ideas, heard our times described as the Decade of Dedication, and we saw Boston fly the All-American City Banner. Certainly, we can't go on much longer here without getting to the name of the man who knew it was going to happen — and who made it happen — Mayor John Collins. He generated the idea, picked the team and did the job. As he said in his report to the people in mid-June, "We regained our heart, our courage, our vitality and our confidence."

Certainly another strategic development was the bringing together of forces that could make it possible. Perhaps for the first time in Boston's history, there was produced an understanding among the leadership of the municipal, business, religious, and academic communities. These Boston College Seminars themselves are a splendid example.

So it goes beyond what you see bursting skyward in Boston. But this is no attempt to sell that short either. Those new buildings you see represent more than the brick and mortar so often mentioned. They mean people — and people are the value in any city. Let's take the new Government Center.

You have all seen the John F. Kennedy Federal Building, the new State Office Building, Boston's spectacular new City Hall now nearing completion, and the most prominent private buildings: Center Plaza and the New England Merchants Bank Building.

But most people are not fully aware of the continuing activity not so readily seen. This suggestion may be drastic for some of us, but find time to take a walk through the area some lunchtime. You'll find that of the 23 parcels for disposition, only two small ones remain uncommitted to developers. You'll see site work under way on three smaller commercial buildings, three of 11 new buildings presently under construction in old Scollay Square. These include buildings for public, private, and religious use — all of which will contribute new life. Incidentally, the Boston Press Club has moved into the former Shawmut Bank Building next to the Telephone Company in Government Center. Certainly that adds a little zest!

New Village Square

There is really no way to measure what will be the total impact of Government Center on Boston. The Boston Redevelopment Authority releases a figure of $200 million as the value of construction under way or committed in this area. But what will be the value to the city if the great City Hall Plaza now evolving does become a modern day meeting place? This huge concourse, related by walkways and arcades to other plazas and centers in adjoining areas, stands a mighty chance of becoming the core city's village square.

Why not stage the Art Festival here? It would be a natural setting for such a Boston showpiece.

If you ever do take that walk, you can move from Government Center directly into the developing state complex, then directly into the new Charles River Park complex; or take another direction and head into the business and financial district through the sites of new construction here; or head eastward where walkways will eventually take you right into the Faneuil Hall area and the changing waterfront; or head westward into Tremont street where the changes are also becoming more obvious.

Boston's renewal has become like a Chinese firecracker — popping out all over the place. But we must remember it did not happen until the initial spark was set off.

Eight New Bank Buildings

A good example of what happens when a city gets a grip on itself is clearly seen now in the expansive bank construction program under way in Boston. Eight of the major banks have important new buildings completed, under way or planned. At least another half-dozen Boston banks are involved in shifting into new, upgraded downtown locations—not to mention the development of countless branch banks throughout the city.

One of the big stories in recent days was John Hancock's announcement of its 60-story tower in Copley Square—within looking distance of Prudential's complex and the Christian Science Church program.

The utilities, too, are involved in the downtown construction. The Telephone Company has plans for a high-rise office building in the waterfront area and Eastern Gas and Fuel will soon release details of its skyscraper in Park Square.

These are the ones we have heard about.

Are many of you aware that there are significant transactions under way for commercial ventures in the Kneeland Street-South Cove area; and that things are happening quietly but progressively in the Boylston Street area running from the Garden to Copley Square. And did you know that our famous State street is being infected by all that's happening around it. There's no question in my mind there will be major changes there within the next decade.

Two Billion Dollars' Worth

This is why it's difficult to enumerate the precise spin-off impact of Boston's accomplishments thus far into the sixties. Our realtors and developers are busy. The Redevelopment Authority says total private and public investment in the areas in which it is involved approximates two billion dollars. And that is a far cry from a city which was on the brink of bankruptcy.

One example with which I am familiar, though, is the tenant situation in the office buildings. It must be admitted that members of the Building Owners and Managers Association, a division of our Real Estate Board, were fearful that the onslaught of new buildings in Boston would have a devastating effect on their tenant situation. Particularly worrisome was the threat that Government Center would pull too many tenants out of the private market at the same time. This, of course, would reduce income from the buildings and reduce the tax revenue to the City of Boston. It didn't happen.

And Vacancies Went Down!

In October, 1964, 100 buildings responded to our semiannual vacancy survey. They reported on nearly 10½ million square feet of space. At that time the vacancy rate was 10.9 percent. Our latest survey, completed in October of this year, produced a response from 153 buildings reporting nearly 13.5 million square feet of space with a vacancy rate of only 5 percent. Four years ago, government tenants occupied 7.3 percent of the reported space. Now, the government tenants use only 2.6 percent of the space in the private buildings.

Another uncertainty when it all began was where the tenants would come from to occupy all these new buildings. Largely, they were here all the time. So far the city has safely absorbed all the new space without doing harm to the existing buildings. As a matter of fact, the well-maintained, well-located older buildings are being improved to stay in the competition and having no trouble renting space. Just about all of the tenants came from within the city itself, from firms which needed expansion space to keep abreast of economic growth.

There has been a rapid expansion in employment of office workers, a growing influx of space need for computers and other advanced office equipment, and the need for more space for each individual office worker. An excellent example is the Travelers building, the first of the major new ones downtown. It added an additional 80,000 square feet of space last year—and all of it was filled by expansion of tenant needs within its own building.

So far, we have only mentioned new buildings. One of the unsung spin-offs of these changing times has been the great amounts spent on the remodeling of existing buildings in Boston, in office buildings, retail stores and apartments. Hundreds of millions of dollars have been poured into this effort to remain competitive.

Taxable Real Estate Up $53 Million

Some indication of the extent of the action is reflected in Boston's building department figures which show building activity has averaged almost 110 million dollars annually for the top half of the decade of the sixties. This is compared to only 48 million dollars annually during the 1950's.

Taxable real estate in Boston has increased by 53 million dollars since 1959, most of the increase came within the past two years, and that's an encouraging trend we expect to continue.

In Boston, a big share of the growth is in the intown, high-rise movement. Tremont-On-The-Common, the new 180 Beacon Street with its art works, Charles River Park, Prudential's apartments—with many more on the way, such as three high-rise towers on the waterfront. And we are witnessing more interest in the new and rehabilitated town house and garden type apartment developments in Boston at Clarendon Park in the South End, Bay Village, the Back Bay and five FHA-financed, low-to-middle income developments in various sections of the city.

Another walking tour for you is into the South End and the gateway development in Castle Square. This is a unique adventure which includes private enterprise housing, a percentage of rent subsidy tenants, integrated with 100 public housing units for the elderly under way, and also including commercial and service shops.

That area of Boston also has a variety of New Boston spin-offs, including the fifteen-acre Flower Market at Albany street and the Southeast Expressway, and a new development just getting under way in the South Bay section to provide quarters for the city's marketmen.

Who would have thought ten years ago that an out-of-Boston firm would be showing interest in developing 15 acres of run-down docks and warehouses near Maverick Square in East Boston—with plans to convert it into a restaurant and shop complex?

Could you then have imagined the old Prince Spaghetti warehouse on Atlantic avenue as being feasible for conversion to intown apartments?

Or would you have believed that there would be five serious bidders for a site at Washington street and Cornhill where a 15-story building will be sitting within a few years?

How about luxury parlors over a church in Boston proper, such as now exists at Bostonview next to the State House, or a massive community college to be located in Charlestown at the site of the old State Prison, or a Japanese garden in the heart of the city, within the walls of the new State Street Bank Building.

And the ladies may not like being called a spin-off—but how about those Meter Maids. They are not only better looking than the men they replaced, but 34 ticket horrors are increasing the parking fines revenue by almost a million dollars a year!

There are some of you in this audience who, knowing I am at the end of my time at this rostrum, are wondering if I am ever going to mention the plan to renew the Central Business District. I didn't dare get into it because it is so huge and will have a telling influence on all for the city for many generations to come that it would be an injustice to try to credit it properly in a short time. Four years of difficult work has produced one of the most exciting concepts of a renewed central district in the history of the nation. Its design elements include extensive pedestrian walkways, underground truck service tunnels, a new highway cutting through the core, elevated pedestrian walks, a new traffic pattern, improved public transportation, intown apartments, new retail stores, office buildings and an entertainment center.

A city is often described as a marketplace for ideas. In Boston we have a difference. We are a showplace for ideas, ideas which become a startling reality with each passing year.

HEADWAITERS ORIGIN

From the Baltimore Sun: "The Sudan, a one-million-square-mile territory about the size of Western Europe, lies to the south of Egypt. It is populated by more than nine million people, a third of them jungle tribesmen. The headwaiters of the Nile are there."

Diabetes Clinics

In a major effort to find undetected diabetics, Boston's Department of Health and Hospitals has launched a Diabetes Screening Program.

Eight screening clinics have been set up. It is estimated there are probably 2,000,000 diabetics in the United States. About 1,000,000 have been identified and most of these are under treatment.

Persons visiting the Boston screening clinics will be notified by the department whether the test is negative or positive. If positive, the department will help make arrangements with a family doctor or the Outpatient Department of Boston City Hospital for a more thorough examination.

Ranking eighth as cause of death in the United States, diabetes may strike at any age, but is most common after 40. Mild in its early stages, the disease is likely to progress if untreated.

There is no fee for the test at the Screening Clinics.

Clinics and their schedules follow:

Charlestown Health Unit, 73 High street, Monday and Wednesday.

East Boston Health Unit, 79 Paris street, Tuesday and Thursday.

Harvard Street Health Unit, 895 Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, Monday and Wednesday.

Hyde Park Health Unit, 26 Central avenue, Tuesday and Thursday.

North End Union, 20 Parmenter street, Tuesday.

Savin Street Health Unit, 82 Savin street, Roxbury, Monday and Thursday.

Whittier Street Health Unit, 20 Whittier street, Roxbury, Tuesday and Thursday.

South Boston Health Unit, 133 Dorchester street, Tuesday and Thursday.

(Starting time for the clinics at the above locations will be 1 P.M.)

Unclaimed Cash

The State Department of Corporations and Taxation has launched a drive to locate 6,705 taxpayers who have refunds coming to them for the 1966 income tax period.

The refunds—totaling $169,-855.84—range from a high of $2,412 to a low of just three cents.

State Tax Commissioner Cleo F. Jaillet said taxpayers failed to receive the refund checks primarily because of address changes.

The U. S. Government has nearly $38 million waiting to be claimed by Americans who for two generations let the Post Office Department do their banking.

The money is what is left from the old postal savings system which operated from 1911 until it was abolished last June 30.

Seven-Day Week At Museum of Science

Boston's Museum of Science will be open all day, seven days a week, and Friday nights, to accommodate record-breaking growth in attendance.

The museum was host to over 500,000 visitors last year, an increase of eight times the growth of the previous year, its annual report states.

Guard To Keep Armory

Despite the sweeping reorganization of the Massachusetts National Guard announced by Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Ambrose, adjutant general, the Commonwealth Armory in Allston will continue in active service. The National Guard had announced last year that the facility was no longer suitable for use.

Gen. Ambrose stated that the Guard reorganization, which now begins throughout the nation, is intended by the Defense Department to provide a more combat-ready reserve force by reducing the number of units, all of which, however, would be given much greater manpower, equipment, full-time personnel and training funds.

The General also stated that the reorganization will be the most massive in the state's history, affecting almost every unit, and that during the month of January, hundreds of officers and enlisted men would be reassigned to other units and duties; however, all present Guardsmen, including full-time employees, will be retained in the new force structure.

$24.5 Million Housing Rehabilitation Program

Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development recently announced a $24,500,000 rehabilitation program to upgrade housing for moderate income families in the Roxbury-North Dorchester section of the city. The program will be one of the largest of its kind to be undertaken. The funds will be used to rehabilitate 2,000 existing units of 101 buildings and help the families meet their rents.

Rent supplements will be administered in two ways: (1) Through a below market interest rate of 3 percent for 40 year mortgages and (2) the government making a direct payment to the tenant of the difference between a fair rent for the neighborhood and 25 percent of the tenant's income. Mr. Weaver said that the subsidies will be for the life of the mortgage and that light, heat and fuel will be included in the rent.

Population Shift

St. Louis apparently will have a majority of Negroes in the next decade unless current population trends are reversed.

This is indicated in a study here by the Model City Agency, which concerns itself with sociological and governmental problems.

If the growing Negro population is confined to the inner city and the white exodus to the suburbs increases, as appears likely, Negroes may outnumber whites in the city in less than nine years.

A St. Louis population of 675,000 for 1976, with more than 337,500 nonwhite residents, was projected by the study. It estimated that by 1980 Negroes will comprise 55 percent of the city's population. In 1960 it was 750,000, of which about 30 percent were Negroes.

Negroes now make up 37 percent of the city's population of about 695,000, indicating that St. Louis has become the home of most of Missouri's Negro population, the study found.

YAC Busy

The Youth Activities Commission operates as a special service of Mayor John Collins' office. Its objective is to reach the non-joiners, the unorganized, unmotivated youngsters who remain outside of the influence of all the church, social service, and civic youth organizations at work in the community.

There are 24 YAC workers in Boston. They have been instrumental in preventing many youngsters from dropping out of school and successful in getting others who were dropouts to resume their education. The Commission's neighborhood workers are available to assist social workers on difficult cases involving such discouraged youths. They work with these children in the evenings as well as during the ordinary working day. The YAC is located at 20 Whittier street in Roxbury, telephone 445-2080.

Worker Earnings Up

The research department of the Division of Employment Security reports that the average hourly earnings of production workers in Massachusetts factories were at an all-time high of $2.73 in September. Massachusetts earnings are up 13 cents since September 1966, while the work week is shorter, down an average of 40.9 hours in September, 1966, to 40.3 hours in September, 1967, with all but the apparel, printing and publishing, and leather and leather products industries working at least 40 hours a week.

Production workers in the transportation equipment industry with hourly earnings of $3.46 are the highest paid of any factory workers while production workers in apparel are at the lower end of the scale in hourly earnings ($2.15) and hours worked per week (34.5).

Even As Bay State

Mayor Lindsay of New York believes that the "disastrous" Social Security bill now before Congress would cut Federal aid to welfare and Medicaid programs so drastically that it would cost the city from $50 million to $70 million over the next 18 months.

Proportionate burdens would be placed on every municipality in the state, he explained, and the state government, since it matches local payments for welfare and Medicaid, would be equally distressed.

The total New York burden—state and local—could exceed $150 million annually, the Mayor said.

Charles G. Brophy

Patrolman Charles G. Brophy, 53, of 1 Short Street place, Charlestown, a member of the Boston Police Department for 23 years, died December 8.

He was attached to the police department traffic division. A veteran of World War II, he was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Knights of Columbus.

He leaves his wife, Rita A. (Shea) Brophy.

New Medicare Plan

Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, John Gardner, recently disclosed a new Medicare hospital payment plan much like the estimated payment plan used by persons who are self-employed or in high earnings income brackets to pay their taxes. Now, on the basis of experience of the daily average costs, hospitals will work out with the Social Security Administration an estimate of the anticipated Medicare charges for a year. Weekly payments totaling this amount will be paid to the hospitals directly. Final settlement and audits will take place once a year.

According to Secretary Gardner, hospitals then should be able to plan their budgets more economically and improve their day-to-day management while substantially reducing the routine paperwork.

Registry Closed Dec. 23

"All Registry offices will be closed on Saturday, December 23, in order that Registry employees may enjoy the holiday with their families," Registrar Richard E. McLaughlin announced today.

The Registry is the only State agency which provides Saturday morning services at Boston headquarters and seven key branches throughout the Commonwealth under a program initiated by Registrar McLaughlin two years ago.

"The Saturday opening policy has been extremely successful," the Registrar said, "with a large volume of transactions handled each week and has proved very popular with motorists who cannot get to the Registry during normal business hours."

FORECASTING BY ACHES

A Portland, Ore., weather forecaster made this request in a local newspaper: "Often I have some arthritic or rheumatic person call me during or after a heavy rain to say that his pains or lack of them warned him that the storm was coming. I should like to have those persons call me before the indicated weather occurs—call when you feel stormy or clear weather coming on."

CIRCULAR LETTER NO. 24

To All Department Heads.

This notice will amend and supplement directive No. 23 dated November 22, 1961, issued by my predecessor concerning the establishment at that time of a "Snow Coordinating Table."

As we are presently in the snow-storm season and experienced, only recently, a fast-hitting blizzard which caused incredible problems to police, fire, and other public safety agencies, it is not unreasonable to expect that storms of a similar or more extensive nature may visit us during the next several months.

As you are aware, headquarters for the operations of the newly designated agency, now titled, "Emergency Communications Center," are located at the Boston Civil Defense Headquarters, 115 Southampton street, Tel. HI 2-3020.

All department heads, in addition to those serving on the Public Safety Commission, should be familiar with the location and telephone number of this agency which is activated as soon as a major snow-storm or any other type of emergency warrants. Your employees, the families of your employees, and the general public should be acquainted with the fact that when a major snowstorm, hurricane, etc., visits this area, calls for emergency assistance should be directed to HI 2-3020 which serves, in the main, to prevent the blocking of switchboards of operating departments, particularly Public Works, which on occasion has been unable to function properly due to the flood of incoming calls. However, it is also suggested that emergency problems associated with fire or police matters be referred directly to the respective departments.

This Center is established to operate 24 hours a day for the duration of an emergency and is equipped, in part, as follows:

1. Eight interconnected push-button phones, all of which are activated by calling HI 2-3020.

2. Four direct telephones, one each to the Mayor's Office, Public Works Department Snow Headquarters, Police Headquarters, and the MBTA.

3. One teletypewriter, through which messages can be transmitted to the Public Works Snow Headquarters and the Public Works district yards and messages received from the Public Works Snow Headquarters.

4. Three short-wave radio sets for sending and receiving on channels assigned to the Fire, Police, and Public Works Departments.

As this is an important function of city operations during any type of emergency, it is suggested that you keep copies of this directive handy at all times or, better still, have a copy posted on your bulletin boards for immediate reference by your employees when occasions arise for emergency operations.

ARTHUR G. COFFEY.

Winter Parking Rules

Traffic and Parking Commissioner John H. O'Neill, Jr., reminds the motoring public that during the winter months all-night parking is permitted only on the odd-numbered side of the street.

If there are signs reading "No Parking Any Time" on the odd-numbered side of the street, then you may park all night on the even-numbered side of the street.

Welfare Hits Suburbia

Welfare rolls in New York City suburbs are rising even faster than those in the city, according to a study submitted to a state legislative committee.

The number of relief recipients in the city rose by 96.4 percent from 1962 through the first nine months of 1967. But the rise in Nassau County was 133.6 percent, Suffolk County, 130.8, and Rockland, 133.9. Only Westchester showed a slower rate, at 88.3 percent. The over-all increase for the period in the four counties was 117.7 percent.

The study, made by Teamsters Joint Council 16, urged that the state "take over both the local share of financing and the total administration of the welfare system as an essential first step toward the ideal—total financing and administration by the Federal Government."

Mr. DUNCAN T. FOLEY,
Supervisor of Personnel.

DEAR Mr. FOLEY:

On November 1, 1967, Miss Mariette Coffey was appointed secretary to the Youth Activities Commission with compensation in Grade 16 at $149.50 a week. Miss Coffey has had previous experience with the city totaling seven years.

Prior to entering the city employ, Miss Coffey had fourteen years experience in private industry in secretarial-office managerial positions which ideally qualifies her for the position of secretary to the Youth Activities Commission. While in the service of the city, she was assigned to the Mayor's Office where her duties there better prepared her for the current assignment.

It is requested that because of this qualified experience of twenty years, Miss Coffey's 2-, 3-, 4-, and 5-year increments be determined under the provisions of Rule 6 (f) of the Compensation Plan for the Youth Activities Commission to be effective November 1, 1967.

Very truly yours,

On April 24, 1967, Ajax Electrical Company, Inc., entered into a contract with the City of Boston providing for making repairs to existing electrical equipment at the South Bay incinerator, sewage pumping stations, and drawbridges in the City of Boston.

On September 22, 1967, the Commissioner of Public Works directed this company to perform certain electrical work of an emergency nature at McArdle and Chelsea Street Drawbridges, under the terms of this contract.

Upon failure of the Ajax Electrical Company, Inc., to faithfully furnish and perform everything required to be furnished and performed by it, substantially breached the contract. On October 3, 1967, the commissioner so notified the company and informed it that he had terminated the contract. On the same date, the commissioner notified the Hanover Insurance Company, surety on performance bond in the contract, of the breach and termination of the contract and advised it to procure someone to complete the contract or the city would be compelled to take other action under the terms of the contract.

On October 13, 1967, the Hanover Insurance Company agreed to have Rejan Electrical Company, Inc., of 17 Chestnut avenue, Jamaica Plain, take over and complete the above contract at the same prices as the original contract. They further agree that the performance and payment bonds executed by the Hanover Insurance Company will remain in full force and effect.

Therefore, your permission is requested to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract to Rejan Electrical Company, Inc., of 17 Chestnut avenue, Jamaica Plain, Mass., for making repairs to existing electrical equipment at the South Bay incinerator, sewage pumping stations, and drawbridges, in an amount not to exceed $8,000.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN F. FLAHERTY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

MAYOR DEMANDS 2ND SESSION OF 90TH CONGRESS MEET CRUCIAL NEEDS

Mayor John F. Collins, in his first official announcement from Boston's New City Hall, said December 18, "the first session of the 90th Congress has adjourned with a record which conveys dismay rather than hope to the poor and disadvantaged of our cities."

Collins, who is serving out the last two weeks of his eight-year term as mayor in the new 25 million dollar City Hall, warned that although winter is only a few days off, summer is not far off "yet relatively little has been done to meet the problems uncovered by riots and disorders."

The Boston mayor who will join the faculty of Massachusetts Institute of Technology next month, called upon President Johnson and the second session of the 90th Congress "to make the necessary commitments, to assign the necessary priorities to meet these most urgent domestic needs."

(The full text of Mayor Collins remarks follows):

The first session of the 90th Congress has adjourned with a record which conveys dismay rather than hope to the poor and disadvantaged of our cities, and disillusionment and frustration to city leadership striving to cope with a momentous urban crisis.

If the Congressional response to the major domestic needs of the day, focused in the cities of America, truly reflects the depth of national concern, the nation learned little from the costly street violence of the summer.

We approach the end of a year of national domestic crisis. The prairie fire days of summer, when an accidental spark could set off a disastrous blaze in our major urban centers, are not really far off, yet relatively little has been done to meet the problems uncovered by the riots and disorders.

Fundamental Change Needed

Studies by foundations, institutes, Congressional committees, and national commissions have been initiated. The President's Commission on Civil Disorders is engaged in the most comprehensive study of all, in spite of a totally inadequate Federal commitment to finance its activity. The final reports of that Commission, to be made public in early spring, will cast further light on the problem areas and will undoubtedly recommend new programs.

Without prejudice to this report, and others yet to be made, it is perfectly clear that deep and fundamental changes are called for. It has been a waste of precious time to stand still while waiting for the reports of long term investigations. The old programs and measures are obviously inadequate and antiquated. Action on a new scale and ideas of new scope are needed. They have not been forthcoming—from state capitals or from the national capital.

Although it is natural to want to fix the blame on one group or another, the fact is that the responsibility for current urban conditions and the related riots is shared by all levels of government—from Washington to the state capitals to the cities, as well as by all elements in the population—from the rioters to those rioted against. Any reports which say anything else state only part of the truth. It is clear that no single factor was responsible for the riots and no single action would have prevented them in 1967 or will prevent them in 1968.

We who are mayors accept our share of responsibility for the past, but we emphasize the tragic lack of sufficient local resources or power to resolve problems which are state and national responsibilities—migration, poverty, illiteracy, illegitimacy, crime, unemployment, poor housing, inadequate education, absence of vocational training, and inadequate individual rehabilitation assistance.

To begin to resolve these problems and to meet these needs, state and Federal action and support are needed on a massive scale—NOW!

2nd Session Must Act

We need broad measures which will effectively help to: preserve public order and assure personal security; restore the confidence of all segments of society in the concern and compassion of our democratic institutions; eliminate the degrading physical blight from our expanding urban environments; assure each individual maximum opportunity to develop and apply his

Cardinal Regretfully Leaves Boston City Hospital, Mayor Praises Prelate's Long, Devoted Service

Richard Cardinal Cushing last week submitted to Mayor John F. Collins his resignation as a member of the Board of Trustees of the City of Boston Department of Health and Hospitals because of ill health.

The prelate had served on the Board since his appointment by Mayor Collins in 1963.

In his letter of resignation he expressed to the Mayor his disappointment in his inability to fulfill actively his duties as a trustee because of his health.

From his appointment until a few months ago he rarely missed a meeting of the Board at Boston City Hospital and he enthusiastically supported the promotion of the Mayor's multimillion-dollar program for the rehabilitation of the hospital and his far-reaching overall public health program.

Expressing his regret on leaving the Board the Cardinal described City Hospital as "the greatest in the country."

"It is with great reluctance," Mayor Collins said in announcing the resignation, "that I accede to Cardinal Cushing's wishes.

"His devoted service to City Hospital and to the public health has been an outstanding example of an unselfish regard for all of the people of Boston.

"He has made it clear that he stands ready at all times to make available to Boston and its people his great wealth of knowledge and counsel in all matters concerned with the well-being of our people."

Cardinal Cushing wrote Mayor Collins:

"I have not been active in fulfilling the duties of a trustee of this institution (City Hospital) and I do not think it is fair to have any dead wood whatsoever officially affiliated with it.

"I am delighted to know that in the future you will occupy a professional chair at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. They could not find a better man.

"What a wonderful administration you have had as Mayor of Boston. There has been nothing like it in the history of this historical city."

talents; guarantee a life free of disease and neglect to those who cannot share in the benefits of our great economic and social system because of uncontrollable limitations on their own capability.

The Congress just adjourned had many opportunities before it to make major contributions to these goals—the Safe Streets Act, an expanded and adequately funded anti-poverty program, new housing legislation, adequate funding of Model Cities, civil rights and open housing bills, and an adequate social security and welfare system. In each case, the Congress failed to act or fell short of meeting the documented needs.

While understanding other national and state requirements, we call these failures to the attention of the American people and call upon them, the President, and the second session of the 90th Congress to make the necessary commitments, to assign the necessary priorities to begin to meet these most urgent domestic needs.

New Haven Crisis

The New Haven Railroad will be facing a crisis of survival in the next few months. The Road's future is dependent on both the eventual consummation of the merger between the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroad and the availability of operational funds.

Because of declining revenue caused in great part by uncertainty of its future, the New Haven may face financial difficulties prior to finalization of the merger. Several possibilities exist for the procurement of additional interim funds but all depend heavily on prompt Supreme Court approval of the merger. Oral arguments began December 4 before the Supreme Court and most observers expect the merger to be consummated no earlier than February 1, 1968. Any further delaying of the merger would be disastrous for the New Haven.

Ready-Made Island?

City Councilman Robert A. Low of New York City has recommended that a fourth jetport be built on a man-made island in shallow water off the North New Jersey coast.

The Manhattan Democrat said this island could be made of compacted garbage and refuse, which experiments in Japan have shown can be used for construction in water.

His proposal, he said, would avoid the opposition of many persons to having a jetport built on land near their homes. It would also help meet the growing problem in New York and New Jersey of how to dispose of garbage, he added.

N. Y. Suburban Police Claim Tough New Penal Code Places Handcuffs on Effective Law Enforcement

The new New York Penal Code which became effective September 1 hasn't evoked much enthusiasm from the ranks of the police and other law enforcement agencies in that state.

Suburban policemen are in general agreement in their criticisms of the state's new Penal Code and court decisions concerning the rights of arrested persons.

"Before the new code," said Detective Lieut. Richard C. Ketchum of the Nassau County Police burglary squad, "we could arrest a burglar and close out about 100 cases. Now we get him on only one job. He refuses to talk and stands on his Constitutional rights."

Police Chief William Donovan of Harrison, N. Y., said, "They're hard to nail because of the way the law is." Harrison, a central Westchester County town of 21,000 is one of the hardest hit with 84 burglaries so far this year compared with 58 in 1966.

"Right at the scene of the crime or in the police station now we tell them they don't have to talk to us," Chief Donovan said. "And if they ever went through this before, they know the answers a lot better than we do."

Some police officers were particularly critical of the Code. It bars a policeman from shooting at a fugitive unless the policeman has reason to believe that deadly force was involved in the commission of a felony or that the fugitive is immediately dangerous.

The law also bars a civilian at home from using a weapon against an intruder unless he has reason to believe the man is about to use deadly force against him or his family.

Criticizing the law, Police Chief Donald Gray of Scarsdale, N. Y., told of an incident two weeks ago in which his officers caught a man leaving a house where a burglar alarm had gone off.

The policemen, Chief Gray said, grabbed the suspect, but he managed to wrest himself free. Then, backing away, he said, "I'm unarmed. You can't shoot me, I'm not armed." With that, he ran away and escaped. Scarsdale, a tree-shaded Westchester village of 19,000 where the average family income is about $38,000 a year, has been an increasingly good hunting ground for burglars. So far this year, burglaries have climbed past 100, compared to 76 last year and 67 in 1965.

Residents, as a result, have placed 230 home burglar alarm signals in the police station on Post road. Weather and malfunctionings set off about two false alarms a day, but Chief Gray is grateful for the systems nevertheless. Two suspects have been taken because of the systems, but one was the man who escaped. The homeowners must pay for the alarm systems, which cost from $500 to $1,500.

Top state officials are predicting that the 1968 Legislature will broaden the authority of policemen to shoot at criminals and suspected criminals with the intent to kill.

Governor Rockefeller has said several times in recent weeks that he favors such revision of the new law.

The Temporary Commission on Revision of the Penal Law and Criminal Code, which drafted the new law, has tentatively decided to propose amendments permitting police to shoot to kill in three situations in which such action is not now legal: muggings, rapes, and kidnappings under certain conditions.

Looking For A Job?

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce will again sponsor a Greater Boston Careers Exposition on January 6, at Sheraton Plaza Hotel. The Exposition affords senior high school students a unique opportunity to familiarize themselves with the thousands of jobs available in the Greater Boston area—all in one day at one convenient location. Sixty-five participating companies sponsor booths from which they interview, take applications and offer employment with their firms.

Air Service To Europe

New service between the U. S. east coast and Europe will be the issue in a transatlantic route case instituted recently by the Civil Aeronautics Board. The case will concentrate on routes bypassing New York, whose international airport, Kennedy, "is rapidly approaching saturation," the CAB said.

United States cities to be considered for the direct European service will be Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, D. C., and Hartford, Conn. The Board decided to include Hartford because of the possibility that service from there would siphon some traffic out of the congested New York airports. Included in the proceedings will be the question of service between Miami and London, which was provided for in the U. S.-United Kingdom bilateral amendments of May, 1966. Except for Great Britain, in the case of Miami service, western European countries will be excluded where service is already authorized for both Pan American and Trans World. Among those included are Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Finland, the Netherlands, Belgium, and Yugoslavia.

Four's The Top Limit

Motorists on Massachusetts highways who have had more than four drinks will be hauled into court on the charge of driving under the influence of alcohol, under a measure passed by the State Senate.

This proposed new law labeled the Implied Consent Bill, carries an automatic 90 days suspension for drivers who refuse to take the breath test if arrested on suspicion of driving under the influence.

It now goes back to the House for what is considered routine concurrence since the measure was passed earlier in the lower chamber by a better than 2 to 1 margin.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard E. McLaughlin says the law will go into effect 90 days after it is signed by the governor.

Many "Greathearts" Make Sure Boston City Hospital Patients Are Not Forgotten on Holidays

Not forgotten this Christmas are the patients at Boston City Hospital. Many outside groups and organizations as well as individuals have volunteered to do their part in bringing the joys of the holidays to both adult and child patients.

Already the Salvation Army, the Girl Scouts of Old South Church, seminarians of the Jesuit Order, the Beaver Country Day School, American Legion Post No. 24, the American Veterans, and Ribany Lodge have given of their time and talents, some with gifts.

Employees of the John Hancock Life Insurance sang carols and brought gifts to the patients of the Peabody Building. And following a tradition, employees of the New England Mutual Insurance Company staged a party for 75 underprivileged children who are regular visitors at the hospital's out-patient clinic.

Also participating at different times have been teacher Barbara Epstein and her 25 carol-singing students; U. S. Marine Reserves who brought gifts to children in the Out-Patient Pediatric Clinic; the Junior League of Boston; Jordan Marsh Co. employees (entertainment and gifts for the children); St. Clement's Newman Center; the Braintree Women's Association (who staged a party and brought gifts to the children's wards).

Other groups included such "big hearts" as those representing Massachusetts State College at Boston; the City Chorus (City of Boston high school children); Boston University Dental School; Msgr. Ryan High School, and B'Nai B'Rith.

Early Christmas morning the youngest patients in the children's ward are to awake early to see what Santa has brought them.

States Must Act

The states must move into the power vacuum in the life struggle for community development in many of the nation's cities, Deputy Commissioner Julian D. Steele, Division of Urban Renewal, Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development said in a recent address.

Addressing the National Biennial Conference of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials, in Portland, Oregon, Steele asserted that the vacuum is one that many states have permitted to develop by avoiding their responsibilities or abdicating them to the federal government.

"That vacuum must be filled by the states," he said, "if our communities are to survive in this era of unprecedented urban ills."

Once the center of security and productivity, Commissioner Steele said, many of our cities "are now engaged in a life struggle, strangled by out-moded physical plants, insufficient resources for community services, urban noise, air and water pollution, and inadequate governmental machinery."

Most citizens in the nation, he said, believe that we do have the resources and capability to cure these ills.

The states can move in effectively, he said, because state government occupies a unique administrative vantage point.

"It is broad enough," he observed, "to have an over-view of local problems while, unlike the federal government, it is close enough to enable treatment of problems individually and at first hand."

He added that the states can act with greater speed and flexibility than the federal government. In addition, the fact that localities are, in effect "creatures of the state," means that state government can be an effective instrument for program coordination and innovation.

Over 500 developing colleges and universities have received $35 million under the Higher Education Act of 1965.

American History Honor Students Win Awards

Four students of University of Massachusetts in Boston were honored recently at the annual convention of The Military Order of the Loyal Legion of the United States at the Sheraton Boston Hotel for outstanding work in the study of American History.

Award recipients were Beverly G. Drinkwater, of Watertown; Mary R. Few, of Cambridge; Benita L. Russo, of Medford, and Jenniefer S. Schwartz of Revere. The young women were selected at the request of the State of Massachusetts Commandery, M.O.L.L., for the awards by a board of American history professors at the University.

They received their awards from National Commander-in-Chief Len-ehan O'Connell of the Massachusetts Commandery.

The Loyal Legion had its inception on the night of April 14, 1865, when President Lincoln was assassinated. Its original membership were Union officers who had served in the Civil War. Its membership since has been limited to those officers and their lineal and collateral descendants. Its commanderies are located in 11 states and the District of Columbia.

Commander-in-Chief O'Connell is a prominent Boston attorney and president of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library.

"I believe," he said at the presentation, "these girls offer an example for all young Americans seeking a true education on both the elementary and college levels. Today this nation is beset with the antics of a fortunately limited number of our youth who would withdraw from a worthwhile life and the responsibilities of being true Americans."

"These weird cults have produced some really shocking extremists who burn flags and seek even to establish so-called neo-religions through the medium of brain-destroying drugs. It is a good time for every American to reacquire himself with the history of his country, the greatest in the world today."

Teen-Age Centers

Mayor Collins and Park Commissioner Paul J. Tierney hailed the opening of the first of many teen-age recreation centers in Boston, when a "pilot program" got under way on the evening of December 13 at the L Street, South Boston, Women's Bathhouse.

Commissioner Tierney said, "The utilization of over 10,000 feet of floor area, unused for the past 20 years has been converted into a modern recreation facility aimed at supplying juvenile needs and desires. I firmly believe this is a major step in containing vandalism, direction of youngsters' energies and enthusiasm, and supplying a Teen-Age Haven year-round." Game and reading rooms will be available, also table tennis and billiards, plus dancing with music of popular favorites.

Opening night, through the courtesy of the Bob Penza Theatrical Agency, a Rock'N'Roll orchestra performed for the youngsters' entertainment.

Plans are under way for the city-wide opening of other Youth Centers, all to be staffed and supervised by Parks and Recreation personnel. Continued success of the program will depend on the cooperation and conduct of all participants.

Commissioner Tierney continued: "In addition, at this site an area has also been renovated and modernized to be used for baby-carriage parking, bottle warming, and other services—so mother can enjoy the beach in the summer and solarium in the winter months as we bring mother out of the kitchen and into the sun."

All facilities will be open Monday through Friday, from 2.30 P.M. to 10 P.M., Saturday 9 A.M. to 10 P.M., Sunday from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M.

Also scheduled in the near future will be the appearance at the Teen-Age Haven of many nationally famed TV, recording, and motion picture celebrities now being arranged by Commissioner Tierney.

American Legion National Head Hails Boston As Great Convention City; Praises Spirit and Cooperation

The National Commander of the American Legion says in an open letter "to the people of Boston" that the Legion was "tremendously impressed" with Boston as the host city for its 49th Annual Convention last August.

William E. Galbraith said "the attitude and spirit of cooperation of the people of the host city was an important element in making of a good convention."

The American Legion Convention, the largest to be held in Boston since the Legion was last here in 1940, generated some $3 million in spending in the Greater Boston economy, the Convention and Visitors Bureau of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce estimates. More than 20,000 people attended the Convention itself at the War Memorial Auditorium, and the Convention parade and other events drew nearly 300,000 people into the city. Conventioneers utilized some 5,000 hotel and motel rooms during the convention, August 25-31.

"The American Legion found the people of Boston most hospitable," Galbraith said, "the response to our Convention parade, witnessed by an estimated quarter of a million people and the attendance at our uniformed groups contests, witnessed by a crowd of 25,000, are evidence of excellent public reception."

The National Commander said the organization was grateful to the Boston newspapers, radio and television for "courtesy and consideration." He noted the work of public safety officials for "providing not only for the comfort and security of Convention visitors but in adding a splendid display to our Convention attractions."

Paul Sonnabend, chairman of the Chamber's Convention and Visitors Bureau Committee, said that the Legion Convention "proves that Boston has the capacity of handling a Convention of this magnitude."

"The success of this Convention went a long way in rebuilding the image of Boston as a major Convention city. Now we are in a stronger position to bid for other conventions of this size," he said.

Mayor's Golden Age Christmas Party Dec. 18

Parks and Recreation Commissioner John J. Tierney, Jr., announces that the annual Mayor John F. Collins Golden Age Christmas party was held on Monday evening, December 18, at 7.30 P.M. at the Tobin Memorial Recreation Center, 1481 Tremont street, Roxbury.

Commissioner Tierney said "I have completed arrangements for the most memorable Christmas party for our Senior Citizens to enjoy, and urge all members to participate in the festivities on Monday evening, and wish to extend Season's Greetings and Best Wishes for a Happy, Healthy and Prosperous New Year."

A gala evening of entertainment was in store for the Golden Agers with traditional Christmas music furnished by the Musicians Union. Dancing, songs, and variety entertainment by local favorites included Billy Hardiman, Frank Bonner, Alan McGrath, Mary McNulty, Nancy Elliot, and the popular Fran Tuttle. Mrs. Mary McCann again rendered Christmas favorites at the organ. "Daurice" also had her dance troop ready for their usual precision numbers and Susan Panciocco, baton twirling champion gave a demonstration of top-notch rhythm.

CAN'T TELL 'EM THAT

The Holborn Viaduct station's public address system is the pride of Southern Railway. Delays of 5 to 10 minutes are regularly announced and explained.

But on a morning, when a train arrived 40 minutes late, there was no announcement. Asked why, a porter replied:

"We do not mind explaining a few minutes away. But 40 minutes—even we railway men have our pride."

Jobless Rate Down

The nation's unemployment rate dropped sharply in November, indicating that the rise of the previous two months was mainly a statistical fluke associated with strikes.

The U. S. Labor Department reports that unemployment, after the usual adjustment for seasonal factors, fell to 3.9 percent of the labor force last month from 4.3 percent in October.

This was the biggest month-to-month decline since 1961, when the economy was pulling out of a recession.

The November drop brought unemployment back to the level of the summer months. However, the rate remained higher than in the boom period of November a year ago, when it was 3.5 percent.

ABCD Staff Member Joins Planning Institute

Robert Coard of 31 Pasadena road, Dorchester, deputy executive director for planning and evaluation with Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD), has been appointed to the 11-member City Planning Committee of the American Institute of Planners, it was announced this week.

Mr. Coard who has been with ABCD since that organization was designated by Mayor John F. Collins as Boston's agency for handling the War on Poverty, will assume his new duties with the start of the New Year. The C.P.C.A.I.P., is national in scope and is concerned with "identifying the urban challenges which are shaping the role of city planners and in determining the effect of these challenges on city planning."

With ABCD Mr. Coard has coordinated the pilot Organization of Economic Opportunity, financed pilot project for the planning, programming, and budgeting of the local organization.

He holds advanced degrees from Boston University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology in sociology and city planning.

N. Y. Medicaid

Some fascinating and almost incredible figures from a New York State Welfare Department survey of two million Medicaid cardholders not receiving welfare:

The average gross income of a Medicaid household was less than $3,200, or about $61 a week.

Less than a tenth of the households had enough income to pay any part of the costs of Medicaid services.

About 44 percent of the households averaged about five persons each and had an income of $4,800, or less than $93 a week.

Three-quarters of the households had no private health insurance.

And only a quarter of one percent of the households had a gross income of $10,000 or more, and each of these had seven or more persons in the family.

James J. Murphy

James J. Murphy, 74, retired traffic officer of the Boston Police Department, died December 12 after a brief illness at Arlington Symmes Hospital.

He was a veteran of World War I and retired from the Police Department in 1948 after 26 years of service.

He was a member of the B. P. D. Relief Association.

He leaves a son, James J., Jr., of Arlington, and three sisters, Catherine, with whom he resided, Mrs. Johanna McCormack of Hollywood, Calif., and Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzgerald Lieb, formerly of Arlington.

A Solemn Requiem Mass was sung December 15 in St. James Church, Arlington.

Jobs Up In October

As of October, 1967, the work force in Massachusetts totaled 2,426,100, up 18,000 above the corresponding month last year. The unemployment rate numbered 87,000, 2,700 above October, 1966. And the total employment figure was set at 2,338,200, down 7,400 from September, 1967 and up 17,900 over October, 1966.

Jail Doors To Open?

The man whose name is on an historic — and controversial — Supreme Court decision recently lost an appeal based on that decision. Ernesto O. Miranda, whose conviction for rape had been overturned by the Court in June, 1966, when it held that he was not adequately advised of his right to counsel during police interrogation, was told by the Arizona Supreme Court that he is going to have to serve out a 20-to-25-year sentence from an earlier conviction for robbery. The Arizona court held that the "Miranda rule" does not apply to him in the robbery case because the Supreme Court did not make the rule retroactive.

Last-Ditch Drive Fails

The Social Security bill encountered a last-ditch but unsuccessful drive by liberal Senators trying to gain time to defeat restrictive welfare legislation.

1. Many Senators are upset by a provision of the measure that would freeze Federal payments for the AFDC program. The Welfare freeze would limit Federal payments for state-administered AFDC programs to the proportion of the child population in a state receiving such assistance as of January 1968. This would only permit growth in Federal payments in line with population growth within a state. The freeze would become effective next July.

2. The Senate liberals are also objecting to another aspect of the bill that would permit a state to take adults off the welfare rolls if they refuse to take training or jobs when a state's welfare officials decide they are able to do so. Notably, there is no exemption made for mothers of school children from mandatory job-training and work programs.

3. They are disturbed by the new incentive payment allowance which was scaled down from a Senate approved $20 a week to only $30 a month in the final bill.

(See Mayor Collins' statement on page 1 of this issue of the "City Record.")

Operations with liquor licenses in New Hampshire will be able to remain open until 1.45 a.m., on the night of December 30, a Saturday, and December 31, a Sunday.

The state liquor commission extended the normal operating hours recently for the New Year's eve festivities. Normal closing hours Saturday nights in New Hampshire are 12.45 P.M. Saturday nights and 9.45 P.M. Sundays.

The Boston Welfare Department's Work Training representatives will meet next week with AVCO Corporation representatives for purposes of discussing the initial employment opportunities for AFDC family heads at the new printing plant which is being established on Columbus avenue. It is estimated that between 20 and 25 AFDC clients will be offered employment and job training with this company each month.

ACCEPTANCE OF GRANT BY POLICE DEPARTMENT FROM U.S. DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor,

October 30, 1967

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of the attached communication from the Commissioner of the Boston Police Department relative to a grant of $8,000 from the Office of Law Enforcement Assistance, U.S. Department of Justice, to be expended by the Commissioner under the provisions of General Laws, chapter 44, section 53A, as inserted by chapter 99 of the Acts of 1964.

Before this grant award may be expended by the Police Commissioner, G.L., c. 44, s. 53A, requires that your Honorable Body approve such expenditure. Accordingly, in order that this much-needed program may be started in the near future, I recommend that your Honorable Body adopt at an early date the order transmitted herewith.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor

City of Boston,
Police Department,

October 6, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

The Police Department has received a grant of $8,000 from the Office of Law Enforcement Assistance, U.S. Department of Justice, under the "Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965." This grant will have as its particular objective the study of and participation in an integrated information storage and retrieving system between 15 cities and a central computer in Washington, D.C.

The ability to store vast amounts of information (criminal data) in a central location and then be able to recover this data in minutes from fifteen (15) different areas in the United States, is a giant step forward in our war on crime. This system should increase the efficiency of our over-all police operation.

I respectfully request that the Boston Police Department be permitted to expend these federal funds under the provisions of General Laws, chapter 44, section 53A, as inserted by chapter 99 of the Acts of 1964.

Respectfully,

EDMUND L. McNAMARA,
Police Commissioner

Ordered, That it be, and hereby is, voted to approve the expenditure by the Police Commissioner of an Eight Thousand Dollar ($8,000) grant award under the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Act of 1965 (PL 89-197) for the purposes of such grant, to wit, to participate with the Federal Bureau of Investigation and fourteen (14) other Law Enforcement Agencies, in a National Crime Information Center project.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

This request is being made at this time in order that the revolving fund used for the operation of the Eastern Regional Public Library System may be reimbursed.

Sincerely yours,

HEIGHT REQUIREMENTS FOR POLICE OFFICERS

City of Boston,
Law Department,

October 23, 1967

To the Honorable City Council.

Gentlemen:

This is in response to your request of October 16 (transmitted to me by the City Clerk the following day) for advice respecting chapter 246 of the Acts of 1967 entitled "An Act Providing That No Rule Regulating the Height or Weight of Persons Eligible to Become Members of a Police Department Shall Be Made or Enforced Except by a City Council or Selectmen," which amended the first paragraph of G. L., c. 31, s. 48, by changing the first sentence to read as follows:

"Regular or permanent members of police and fire forces of cities, and regular or permanent members of police and fire forces and call fire forces of such towns as, with reference to said forces, respectively, accept the provisions of this section as hereinafter provided or have accepted corresponding provisions of earlier laws, and chiefs of police or officers performing similar duties, however entitled, and chiefs of fire departments or officers performing similar duties, however entitled, of such cities or towns, as, with reference to such officers, respectively, accept the provisions of this section as hereinafter provided or have accepted corresponding provisions of earlier laws, shall be subject to the provisions of this chapter and the rules established thereunder; except that no rule regulating the height and weight of persons eligible to become members of the fire or police departments shall be made or enforced except by the city council or selectmen; and except further that no rule shall prescribe a maximum age limit for applicants in police or fire departments lower than thirty-five years or a minimum age limit therefor higher than twenty-two years and that the minimum height for applicants in police departments shall not be lower than five feet seven inches." (Underscoring supplied to indicate words added to sentence by St. 1967, c. 246.)

By the last words underscored, the statute itself prescribes a minimum height for applicants in the Police Department of five feet seven inches. In my opinion, no action by the City Council is necessary unless the City Council, of its own initiative or at the request of the Police Commissioner or other persons, wishes to prescribe a minimum height higher than five feet seven inches.

Respectfully,
J. J. SULLIVAN, JR.
Corporation Counsel

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC LANDS

Coun. CRAVEN, for the Committee on Public Lands, submitted the following:

Report on message of the Mayor and order

(referred October 23) for sale of portion of Ringer Park and Playground, to West End House, Inc. — recommending that the order ought to pass.

The report was accepted, the order was given its first reading and passage, yeas 9.

Assigned for 14 days for final action.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CONFIRMATIONS

Coun. FOLEY, for the Committee on Confirmations, submitted the following:

1. Upon the matter of the appointments by the Mayor and confirmations of Very Reverend Francis P. Lally, George Condakes, and James G. Colbert to be members of the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority:

Both candidates for Mayor of Boston were notified concerning the hearing on Wednesday, October 25, 1967.

Notification was by special delivery letter to each candidate for mayor, said letter reading as follows:

BOSTON CITY COUNCIL,
Council Chamber,
City Hall,

October 24, 1967.

Mrs. Louise D. Hicks,
1780 Columbia Road, South Boston, Mass.

Mr. Kevin White,
158 Mt. Vernon street, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir and Madam:

As chairman of the Committee on Confirmations of the Boston City Council, I have scheduled a hearing for 3 P.M. Wednesday, October 25, 1967, to consider the three matters set forth in the enclosed notice.

As you undoubtedly know, four members of the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority are appointed by the Mayor for five-year terms. The appointments are confirmed by the Council, after which the member so appointed and confirmed is removable only for cause and by the same procedure as the original appointment. The law exactly parallels the Boston Housing Authority law. One of the five members is appointed by the Chairman of the State Housing Board for a five-year term. This appointment (presently held by Mr. Massucco) is not subject to City Council confirmation.

The present status of the terms of the four members of the Board appointed by the Mayor is that three are serving as holdovers beyond their terms.

These are Monsignor Lally, Mr. McCloskey, and Mr. Condakes. Mr. Colbert has resigned.

The Mayor has placed before the Council:

1. An appointment for Monsignor Francis J. Lally expiring September 17, 1971.
2. An appointment of George P. Condakes expiring September 17, 1969.
3. An appointment of James G. Colbert expiring September 17, 1972.
4. Mr. McCloskey has served as a holdover for many years.

There is no appointment of Mr. Stephen E. McCloskey before the City Council.

As qualifiers for the office of mayor in the recent preliminary election, you may rest assured that you will be heard promptly and with no delay at the hearing Wednesday should you care to attend.

You will, of course, be most welcome.

May I therefore extend to you an invitation to attend at 3 P.M. on the fourth floor, of City Hall.

For the Committee,
WILLIAM J. FOLEY, JR., Chairman.

A telegram was sent to Mrs. Hicks and Mr. White containing the text of the letter.

The chairman of our committee has taken the further precaution of determining that the notification did, in fact, reach each candidate.

In the case of the appointment of Mr. Condakes, a question arose concerning his membership upon the Board of the Boston Redevelopment Authority and the Board of Directors of the New England Produce Center, Inc., simultaneously. At the request of the committee, Mr. Condakes' attorney, Harold Widett of the law firm of Widett & Kruger, supplied the following opinion of law:

WIDETT & KRUGER,
Counsellors at Law,

October 27, 1967.

Mr. William J. Foley, Jr.,
Committee on Appointments, City Hall,
Boston, Mass.

Dear Councillor Foley:

In connection with the reappointment of George Condakes as a member of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, whose appointment is presently pending before the Committee on Appointments, Mr. Condakes has asked us to advise you as to whether we see any problem arising under the conflict of interest statute by virtue of his being both a member of the Boston Redevelopment Authority and a Director of New England Produce Center, Inc.

To the best of our knowledge there is no present or contemplated contractual relationship between the Boston Redevelopment Authority and New England Produce Center, Inc.

We have taken into account the possible effect of relocation and moving expense payments which the Boston Redevelopment Authority is authorized to make in connection with the relocation of firms forced to move by a redevelopment project. New England Produce Center, Inc., is ineligible for any such assistance or payment. Certain firms which are being forced to relocate by the Downtown Waterfront Project will be eligible for such payments and they are members of the New England Produce Center, Inc. Condakes Company of Boston, Inc., with which Mr. Condakes is associated, is not eligible for any such assistance however, since it is not being dislocated by any Boston Redevelopment Authority project.

New England Produce Center, Inc., will be located outside of the city limits of Boston and will obtain no assistance or aid from the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

We are of the opinion that Mr. Condakes is a municipal employee as that term is defined in chapter 268A, section 1, clause G. Furthermore, it is our opinion that under neither section 19 or 20 does a dual status as a Director of New England Produce Center, Inc., and as a member of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, constitute a conflict of interest.

Very truly yours,
WIDETT & KRUGER,
HAROLD WIDETT.

Your Committee on Confirmations, therefore, recommends that the appointments of

1. The Very Reverend Francis P. Lally;
2. James G. Colbert; and
3. George Condakes; be confirmed.

For the Committee,
WILLIAM J. FOLEY, JR., Chairman.

MINORITY REPORT OF COUNCILLOR PIEMONTE, MEMBER OF THE COMMITTEE ON CONFIRMATIONS

The Boston City Council has, from time to time, in the interest of the people's right to know, and in the interest of safeguarding the taxpayers' money, filed questions under the provisions of the City Charter and amendments thereto concerning various projects of the redevelopment program.

A case in point is the Central Business District. For the past year, the Council has filed orders requesting that it be informed as to the status of the same, and also asked that the necessary resolves be expedited.

The Council by the same method has sought to obtain a financial statement regarding the moneys owed and other pertinent information as to the status of the various projects, including how much more money would be needed to complete them, and have failed to receive this information.

Another case in point, and without limiting the failures of the Redevelopment Authority members to the points cited, is the fact that even today, some twelve years after the announcement of the Charles River Park, known as the West End Project, there are two parcels still in the hands of the Redevelopment Authority, thus depriving the Boston taxpayers of taxes that we would be getting from them, also despite the fact that the then Executive Director stated that none of this area could be used for parking without the Council approval, a great portion of the area is used for parking on a negotiated basis. Despite the repeated requests for information as to the moneys being received for the rental of this area and the moneys being paid by the operator, and this is public property, the Council has been kept in the dark.

We are about to have a new administration, and urban renewal is a very, very sensitive part of the social and economic life of the city. It is very important that the city and its taxpayers have the benefit of having the full effect and guidance of the incoming mayor. There is nothing startling about the present history of urban renewal in Boston. The test has not been, how much has been done with a given amount of money, but, how much money could be received. This has clouded the issue. For example, although it is costing the taxpayers so far $7,000,000 more for the construction of new City Hall, this has been clouded by the cry, how much money we are getting from Washington, not, how much and to what good use we will make of the money, but, how much we are getting from Washington.

Finally, we have heard now from every angle, from the mouths of the hierarchy and the mouths of the kings and princes of the church as well as from the beggars and thieves — the city today is its people, that it is not mortar and stone. This is what you and I know, this is the principle and the philosophy that I thought we all, as Christians believed in and enunciated at every opportunity.

The Redevelopment Authority to this date has shown an utter lack of concern for people and for families, and in the absence of some positive evidence that they have repented and really are going to do something, I believe this important task of approving the confirmation requires a harder and longer look than that which can be given at this time.

In view of the fact that these men continue to hold their office until their successor has been appointed, no harm, no injury will be done. I therefore recommend that no action be taken at this time.

GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE,
Committee Member.

Placed on file.

The question came on the acceptance of the committee's report, the report was accepted.

Coun. FOLEY moved that the vote confirming the appointments be taken by roll call on each appointment. The motion was carried.

The order for the appointment and confirmation of Very Reverend Monsignor Francis J. Lally was passed, yeas 7, nays 1:

Yeas — Councillors Foley, Hines, Hynes, Iannella, Kerrigan, Langone, McDonough — 7.

ORDER FOR LOAN OF $12,000,000 FOR SCHOOL CONSTRUCTION PURPOSES

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, November 13, 1967.

The Honorable City Council,
City Hall, Boston, Massachusetts

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of the attached communication from the Public Facilities Commission requesting approval of an appropriation and loan order for the purpose of continuing the school construction program as expeditiously as possible.

Now that the Public Facilities Commission is proceeding with this heretofore long-delayed program, it should be provided with the funds to continue as expeditiously as possible.

Therefore, I respectfully recommend adoption of the order submitted herewith and earnestly hope that you will give it your early consideration.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Facilities Department,

November 3, 1967.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston
City Hall
Boston, Massachusetts

Dear Mr. Mayor:

As you are aware, the funds available to the Public Facilities Commission to carry out the school building construction program are in great measure contained within the two loan orders passed by the City Council and approved by your Honor in November, 1963, and January, 1966. These orders, for $29 million and $19 million, respectively, were as you know, authorized under the provisions of Section 8 of Chapter 645 of the Acts of 1948 which requires the approval of the state Board of Education and of the state Emergency Finance Board on an individual project basis before these funds are available for expenditure.

Therefore, since in order to obtain these approvals, the school projects must first be developed through stages of architectural design, it is necessary for the city to finance certain expenditures involved in these designs and, generally, land acquisition expenditures as well, from other sources. A bond issue heretofore available for these preparatory expenses is now close to exhaustion.

Accordingly, it will be necessary to appropriate new funds in the near future if the commission is to maintain progress in the school construction program. A source is available in the authority granted the city to borrow for capital improvements by Section 7 of Chapter 642 of the Acts of 1966.

It is respectfully requested on behalf of the Public Facilities Commission that a loan order be initiated in the amount of twelve million dollars ($12,000,000.) under authority of Section 7 of Chapter 642 of the Acts of 1966, outside the debt limits, for the purpose of providing these funds for continued progress in the school construction program.

Respectfully,
MALCOLM E. DUDLEY, Director.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, October 30, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

The attached proposal by the Supervisor of Personnel to amend the Classification and Compensation Plans for Officers and Employees of Suffolk County to include the classification title of Principal Legal Assistant, is hereby approved and transmitted for consideration and adoption by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department
October 30, 1967.

To the Mayor and City Council.

Gentlemen:

In accordance with Rule 3 of Schedule A of the Compensation and Classification Plans for the Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, the Supervisor of Personnel whenever a new position is established, is required, after an investigation of the actual and proposed duties and responsibilities and, with the approval of the City Council and the Mayor, to classify the position by allocating it to its appropriate class.

Under date of September 15, 1967, the District Attorney for Suffolk County requested that the title of Principal Legal Assistant in compensation grade DC-16 be established in his department.

My investigation of this request reveals that the duties entail acting in a supervisory capacity over a number of Legal Aides, Legal Assistants and Senior Legal Assistants.

In order to include this new classification in the Compensation and Classification Plans for the Officers and Employees of Suffolk County I recommend consideration and adoption of the accompanying order amending these plans to include the classification of Principal Legal Assistant, DC-16, in the office of the District Attorney for Suffolk County.

Respectfully,
DUNCAN T. FOLEY,
Supervisor of Personnel.

Ordered. That Schedule B of the Classification and Compensation Plans for Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, adopted by order passed by the City Council on September 9, 1963, and approved by the Mayor on September 12, 1963, be, and the same hereby is, amended by including the following new classification:

PRINCIPAL LEGAL ASSISTANT

Duties: Under general direction in the District Attorney's Office, acts in a supervisory capacity over legal aides, legal assistants, and senior legal assistants in the assignment and preparation of cases for trial and gives final approval of such work, legal research, all pleadings incidental to trial, appeals and briefs for the Supreme Court; and to perform other related work as required. Compensation Grade: DC-16

Referred to the Executive Committee.

Office of the Mayor, October 30, 1967.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Transmitted herewith for consideration and adoption by your Honorable Body is a recommendation (with accompanying order) submitted to me by the Supervisor of Personnel for the amendment of the Classification Plans for Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, Schedule B, by providing a new compensation grade for the position of Chaplain at the House of Correction and the Suffolk County Jail.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Administrative Services Department,
October 30, 1967.

To the Mayor and City Council.

Gentlemen:

In accordance with the provisions of Rule 7 of the Rules for Administering the Classification and Compensation Plans for the Officers of Suffolk County, the following revision is hereby recommended:

Amend, effective as of September 6, 1967, Schedule B, so as to provide a new compensation grade DC-11 for the position of Chaplain at the House of Correction and Suffolk County Jail.

This position was inadvertently omitted on order passed by the City Council, October 16, 1967, and approved by the Mayor, October 19, 1967.

In order to provide for the above-stated amendment in said Classification and Compensation Plan, I recommend consideration and adoption of the accompanying order.

Respectfully,
DUNCAN T. FOLEY,
Supervisor of Personnel.

Ordered. That Schedule B of the Classification and Compensation Plans for the Officers and Employees of Suffolk County, adopted by order passed by the City Council on September 9, 1963, and approved by the Mayor on September 12, 1963, be, and the same hereby is, amended, effective as of September 6, 1967, as follows:

FANEUIL HALL SETTING FOR INAUGURATION OF KEVIN WHITE AS BOSTON'S MAYOR

Kevin H. White, of Beacon Hill, will be inaugurated the 45th Mayor of Boston at 10 A.M. Monday, January 1, in Boston's historic Faneuil Hall.

His oath of office will be administered by City Clerk Joseph M. Dunlea. Also sworn at the inaugural ceremonies will be the members of the Boston City Council and the Boston School Committee.

At Noon following the inaugural, the new mayor will be host at the traditional luncheon to be held at the Ritz Carlton Hotel with members of the new city government, their families and distinguished citizens as guests.

Inaugural Day will be climaxed with a ball at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

Since 1822 when John Phillips was elected for a one-year term, 44 men have served as Mayor of Boston.

* * * * *

While all but two were born in the United States, 14 first saw the light of day outside of the city—all of them in communities somewhere in New England. Two of the city's chief executives, Hugh O'Brien and Patrick A. Collins were born in Ireland. O'Brien served from 1885 through 1888 and Collins from 1902 until his death, September 14, 1905. One other incumbent died in office. He was Brookline-born Thomas A. Davis who died November 22, 1845, before he had completed a year in office.

* * * * *

Two mayors have resigned. The first was Henry L. Pierce who was elected in 1873 and before his first year had run its course became a candidate for a seat in Congress. He was elected. However, he returned to the Boston political scene after Washington to again gain election as mayor for a one-year term in 1878. Maurice J. Tobin, twice elected to four-year terms beginning in 1938, resigned January 4, 1945, after his election as Governor of the Commonwealth. He served seven years as mayor.

* * * * *

Boston's war-time mayors were:
Civil War—Joseph M. Wightman and Frederic W. Lincoln, Jr. (Lincoln built the City Hall on School street.)

Spanish War—Josiah Quincy (second of that name to serve in the office).

World War I—James M. Curley and Andrew J. Peters.

World War II—Maurice J. Tobin and John E. Kerrigan.

Korean Conflict—John B. Hynes.
Vietnam—John F. Collins.

* * * * *

John E. Kerrigan, present City Council member and its president when Mayor Tobin resigned was appointed to act as temporary mayor of Boston by the State Legislature to fill out Tobin's term in 1945. Kerrigan was granted all the powers of the mayor's office.

John B. Hynes was also granted the same powers when he was chosen by the State Legislature to fill in for the absent James M. Curley from June 26 to November 28 in 1947.

* * * * *

Curley was elected three times for four-year terms—1914 through 1917; 1922 through 1925, and 1946 through 1949.

* * * * *

Thomas N. Hart, who served as mayor in 1889 and 1890, was re-elected to the office 10 years later for a two-year term.

* * * * *

Birthplaces of Boston mayors include such communities as Brookline; Conway, N. H.; Newton; Killingly, Conn.; Stoughton; Taunton; Candia, N. H.; Abbot, Me.; North Reading; and Quincy.

* * * * *

However, no one born outside of Boston has won the office since Patrick A. Collins. He was born in Fermoy, Ireland. President Benjamin Hope of the Common Council in the 1870s was born in County Waterford, Ireland, while Edward John Jenkins, one of his successors was born in London, England.

* * * * *

Also among those who served as presidents of the old Common Council were Godfrey Morse, born in Wachenheim, Germany. Walter Ballantyne, who served as president of the City Council in 1910 was born in Hawick, Scotland. Getting down to modern times, Councillor Patrick F. McDonough was born in Galway and Councillor Christopher A. Iannella, who completes his most recent term December 31, was born in the Province of Avelino, Italy.

* * * * *

Two of Boston's mayors, John P. Bigelow (1849 through 1851) and Samuel A. Green (1882) were born in Groton, Mass.

* * * * *

John F. Fitzgerald, grandfather of the late President John Fitzgerald Kennedy, served two terms as mayor—1906–1907 and for four years starting in 1910.

Escalation

The Pennsylvania Legislature approved and sent to Governor Shafer a bill to raise the state sales tax from 5 percent to 6 percent, making it the highest in the nation.

The lawmakers also voted to:

Eastern Gas to Play Major Role in Rehabilitation of 2,000 Housing Units in Roxbury-Dorchester Section

What is believed to be the first instance of an industrial firm taking part in a program of the Department of Housing and Urban Development to relieve the urban housing crisis, was undertaken recently by Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates as it assumed a leading role in the nation's urban housing rehabilitation program designed to provide more than 2,000 completely renovated low and moderate income apartments in the Roxbury-Dorchester section by midsummer, 1968.

The new Boston Rehabilitation Program of the Federal Housing Administration, involving the allocation of $24.5 million in federal funds, is considered a demonstration project in fast, efficient and massive upgrading of substandard housing through combined public-private efforts.

More than 1,000 dwelling units in two programs are being renovated through the joint sponsorship of Maurice Simon, Boston lawyer and realtor, and Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, Boston, whose president, Eli Goldston, has announced that his company is participating substantially in programs to meet critical housing shortages in its operating areas by allocating in excess of $1 million to projects such as urban housing rehabilitation.

Other developers in the program are Gerald Schuster, Joseph Kelly, Harold Brown, Leon Aronson and Irwin Kanter.

The BRP program was announced recently by HUD Secretary Robert C. Weaver as he dedicated the first units of the FHA's earlier Rent Supplement Program involving 731 dwelling units.

Eastern is participating as a co-owner of the Rent Supplement Rehabilitation projects here and is advancing working capital for approximately half of the units in the BRP program on the same basis, and was cited by Secretary Weaver who said:

"We are particularly pleased that the developers will be joined by Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, parent firm of the Boston Gas Company.

"This firm is willing to acquire a substantial equity interest in these dwellings, and willing to maintain that investment in its own community. That is precisely the kind of active involvement by private enterprise in the Nation's urban problems that President Johnson and this Administration are working to stimulate and encourage."

Enthusiastic Support

The company said it is also considering widening its participation in the government's program of encouraging large businesses to take a more active role in halting blight in the central cities. In addition to the Roxbury projects in which it is already involved, it has under discussion other projects in the BRP program as well as projects being proposed for Charlestown, Hyde Park, Allston and elsewhere in the Metropolitan area.

"There is an obvious and urgent need to stop the deterioration of our cities and restoring their vigor," President Goldston of Eastern said. "This process begins with prompt and massive improvement in low and moderate income housing. We are enthusiastic about the Administration's program and believe that our participation is not only good corporate citizenship but good business as well.

"In addition to genuine concern for the distress of people trying to exist in substandard dwellings, we cannot, with a local utility operation, afford to watch a substantial portion of the City deteriorate.

"Fully realizing that a business in our society must show a return on its investment, we have entered this field just as much in response to the long-range marketing opportunities as in response to moral exhortation. In short, we believe we can do well by helping to do good.

"With the hope for Boston given by the current and incoming City administrations and the imaginative Rent Supplement and BRP programs, an investment in low and moderate income housing here is clearly justified."

Eastern's subsidiary Boston Gas Company is already involved in various aspects of home improvement services. In Charlestown, Boston Gas Company has established, in conjunction with the Boston Redevelopment Authority, the nation's first Home Improvement Center associated with the rehabilitation program. This Center provides one-stop service for home owners wishing to renovate their property. The home owner can get advice, architectural and design service, view actual demonstration kitchens, bathrooms and other interiors, make arrangements with contractors and arrange the financing, all at the one location.

Northeastern University Largest Private School

Northeastern University, with 34,831 full and part-time students, has become the largest private university in the nation, it was announced Sunday. Last year's leader was New York University. The statistics were compiled by Dr. Garland G. Parker of the University of Cincinnati.

Francis J. Murphy

Francis J. Murphy, 46, of 36 Quint avenue, Allston, who retired two years ago as a Boston Police Department detective after more than two decades of service, died December 15 at his home.

Boston Police physician Dr. Samuel Blacker of the Brighton section attributed death to a heart attack.

Mr. Murphy, for the past two years has been chief of security for Station WHDH.

With the police department he served for many years as a detective with the Special Service Squad at Headquarters.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Jacobs of Santa Monica, Calif.

Ground Broken For New Radiation Center

Ground-breaking ceremonies marked a start recently of a new $850,000 radiation therapy center at Boston University Medical Center in the South End.

Made possible by a $500,000 grant from the American Cancer Society, Massachusetts Division, the center will house a Betatron radiation therapy machine, largest single radiation instrument available to cancer scientists.

The building enclosing the equipment will be called "The George and Beatrice Sherman Radiation Building."

The 42 m.e.v. (million energy volts) Betatron produces X rays and electrons of variable energy and output. The range of energies obtained considerably broaden the scope of radiotherapy and scientific research at the B. U. Medical Center.

Members of the Massachusetts Division, American Cancer Society, participating in the ground breaking were: Dr. Gerald C. Garcelon, president; Dr. Sidney Farber, Dr. William C. Moloney, James T. Mountz, Samuel M. Seegal and William Davis Taylor.

The center will offer radiotherapeutic facilities for residents of the Boston area, with special attention to those hospitalized at Boston City Hospital and Boston University Medical Center.

Many of these patients are low-income citizens for whom such services now are very limited.

Directive No. 27

To All Department Heads.

The Mayor has granted permission to department heads to have reduced working forces on Friday, December 22 and Friday, December 29, 1967.

It is to be understood, however, that sufficient personnel be retained to insure that the general public will be in no way inconvenienced on either of the above dates.

ARTHUR G. COFFEY,
Administrative Services Department.

Directive No. 26

To All Department Heads.

The Executive Officer of the Boston Retirement Board has called to my attention that in certain circumstances a resignation may adversely affect rights under the retirement system.

Therefore, if any officer or employee is contemplating resignation incident to the transition in city government to take place on January 1, 1968, such person should consult the Executive Officer of the Boston Retirement Board before acting.

ARTHUR G. COFFEY,
Administrative Services Department.

Honor Memory of Lee and Trotter

The Boston School Committee voted unanimously recently to name two proposed schools in memory of illustrious citizens.

One school, to be built at Franklin Field, Dorchester, will be named for Joseph E. Lee, a member of the Boston School Committee for many years and father of present committeeman, Joseph Lee.

The other school, to be built in the Humboldt Avenue area in Roxbury, will be dedicated to the memory of William Monroe Trotter, a Negro and journalist and fighter for Negro equality.

We'd Help Pay

The State Senate gave initial approval to a bill that would provide a minimum pay of $7,000 a year for police patrolmen, with towns of population of less than 20,000 given the option of rejecting it.

The measure, filed by Senator Joseph Moakley (D-Boston), chairman of the committee investigating law enforcement problems, would have the state pick up half the cost.

Boston patrolmen now get $7,300, so they would not benefit.

The city's taxpayers, however, through their state taxes, would be contributing to the financing of the minimums for outside communities.

Madison Park Chosen for English H.S. Site

The Boston School Committee voted 3 to 2 to establish English High School as the center of a proposed $20 million campus high school complex in Madison Park, Roxbury.

The English High vote, opposed by Joseph Lee and William E. O'Connor, was followed by unanimous agreement to move Girls' Latin School now in Dorchester, to the present English High building on Avenue Louis Pasteur.

Mayor John F. Collins praised the Madison Park choice. "The decision . . . is a very responsible one and certainly was made in the best interests of the public," he said.

Extensive renovation of the present English building was approved by the School Committee previously.

Under the plan, English High's 2,000 pupils will finally be placed under one roof in an ultramodern educational complex now being designed. Sophomore and junior classes are presently located in annexes in Roxbury and Brighton due to a shortage of space in the central building.

Madison Park, a renewal area, is now mostly abandoned tenements and rusting auto hulks. The Boston Redevelopment Authority is awaiting Federal funding to take the 60 acres and convert them to a high school, playing fields, parks and low-income housing.

Construction of the school, being designed by New York architect Marcel Breuer, is expected to begin in early 1969.

The present English High School was given low marks last summer by an accrediting team from the New England Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, which recommended drastic changes in the physical plant, curriculum, staffing and athletic facilities over the next two years.

Failure to upgrade the school would jeopardize its accreditation, it was stated, but the latest action appeared as a dramatic solution to the school's problems.

The move to Madison Park, where a campus school was under way anyway, was backed by Superintendent William H. M. Ohrenberger, the English High Alumni Association and Malcolm Dudley, head of Boston's Public Facilities Department.

In the massive complex, a student will be assigned to a "house" of 1,250 pupils each, where he will study for four years.

Intramural athletics and other activities will add to a student's sense of identity with a "house."

Common facilities will include an auditorium, 300-seat theater, science building, swimming pool and two gymnasias.

ABCD's Robert Coard Named to Committee

Robert Coard of 31 Pasadena road, Dorchester, deputy executive director for planning and evaluation with Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD), has been appointed to the 11-member City Planning Committee of the American Institute of Planners.

Mr. Coard has been with ABCD since that organization was designated by Mayor John F. Collins as Boston's agency for the handling of the War on Poverty. He will assume his new duties with the start of the New Year.

Margaret I. Connolly

Miss Margaret I. Connolly of Dorchester, sister of the late Boston Postmaster Patrick J. Connolly, died December 17. A long-time resident of Dorchester, she made her home at 16 Everett avenue.

She was the daughter of the late John and Anna (O'Malley) Connolly.

Miss Connolly was also the sister of the late Judge Thomas H. Connolly of Brighton District Court, the late Edward Connolly of Boston and the late Mrs. Mary Mahoney of Westboro.

She leaves five nephews and four nieces.

Dimes March Need

Dr. F. Randolph Philbrook, State Chairman of The Massachusetts March of Dimes and Director of Research and Training Division of The Massachusetts Department of Public Health, issued a warning to Massachusetts residents against complacency over the disease, poliomyelitis. Dr. Philbrook's warning follows a similar statement by U. S. Surgeon General William H. Stewart who noted that "if all newborn infants aren't protected as they come along, cases can occur among those exposed to the disease."

Dr. Philbrook noted that the vaccines of Salk and Sabin, created under the sponsorship of The March of Dimes, are a time-tested and invaluable defense against polio but these vaccines do not imply that residents of Massachusetts can merely forget the disease and the possibility of its occurrence unless the proper steps are taken; that is, The Immunization of Newborn Is an Absolute Must.

Police Officers Get Spanish Certificates

The Spanish-speaking class for Boston police officers held its graduation exercises December 14 in the Don Bosco Technical High School.

The classes were sponsored by the Cardinal Cushing Center for the Spanish Speaking, Don Bosco Technical High School, and Oblate Sisters of the Most Holy Redeemer in cooperation with the Boston Police Department community relations program conducted by Capt. Jeremiah P. Sullivan.

Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara said, "This course is a concrete example of how the clergy, interested citizens, and police officers can combine their efforts to improve language barriers which so often alienate police-citizen relationships."

Patrolman Thomas B. Moran of District 4 was the class valedictorian.

Blast-Off!

A unique "blast-off" service, instead of the conventional groundbreaking ceremony, was held on the site of the proposed Wesley Methodist Church in Dorchester. Bishop James K. Mathews depressed the plunger detonating a charge of dynamite drilled into the solid rock on which the church will be built.

The new church will rise on the site of the old First Church erected there in 1816. It combines the congregations of the former Stanton Avenue, Parkman Street and First Churches.

The church, costing approximately $145,000, will be built on a 27,000 square-foot lot at 1076 Washington street, Dorchester, not far from where the old Baker Chocolate Mills once stood. The company has moved its plant to Dover, Delaware.

14 Nonnatives Have Served As Hub Mayors

Forty-four men have served as Mayor of Boston since John Phillips was elected in 1822. All but 14 were born in the city. Those born outside were original natives of New England communities, with the exception of Mayor Hugh O'Brien (1885-1888) and Mayor Patrick A. Collins (1902-1905), both of whom were born in Ireland.

Birthplaces of those born outside of the city were Thomas A. Davis (1845), Brookline; John P. Bigelow (1849-1851), Groton; Jerome V. C. Smith (1854-1855), Conway, N. H.; William Gaston (1871-1872), Killingly, Conn.; Henry L. Pierce (1873 and 1878), Stoughton; Samuel Cobb (1874-1876), Taunton; Samuel A. Green (1882), Groton; Albert Palmer (1883), Candia, N. H.; Augustus P. Martin (1884), Abbot, Me.; Hugh O'Brien (1885-1888), Ireland; Thomas N. Hart (1889-1890) and (1900-1901), North Reading; Patrick A. Collins (1902-1905), Ireland, and Malcolm E. Nichols (1926-1929), Portland, Maine.

NDTA Cooperation Wins Civil Defense Praise

In behalf of the City of Boston and its residents, Civil Defense Director Leslie Magoon this week paid high tribute to the National Defense Transportation Association for its assistance in stocking the city's fallout shelters with emergency supplies.

"We have been most fortunate," said Director Magoon, "in having the unselfish cooperation of the NDTA in this most necessary work. More than $44,000 in transportation costs have been saved and $800,000 in emergency food and medical supplies are now stored in 492 shelters, exclusive of the Massachusetts Bay Transit Authority, which coordinates its own shelter program.

"The Civil Defense Department of the city has utilized to a large degree the Neighborhood Youth Corps workers assigned through Action for Boston Community Development, Inc., to supply the necessary labor force. On one occasion, 345 tons of equipment were stocked in six weeks by utilizing these workers and NDTA carriers.

"It is appropriate that we pay a measure of tribute to the transportation organizations and their personnel for the vital role which they are playing in the safety of the city and the nation."

Mary K. F. Sheehan

Mrs. Mary K. F. Sheehan, 73, of 540 Ashmont street, Dorchester, a four-time delegate to the Democratic State Committee and an original Al Smith supporter in this State, died December 18 at her home.

Until her retirement three years ago she had been a member of the Boston City Printing Department staff, serving for nearly 20 years as a proofreader.

Following her graduation from Hunter College, she became a school teacher in the New York public school system. Before joining the City Printing staff she was with the State Civil Service Department.

Mrs. Sheehan was chairman of the Democratic Ward Committee from 1940 to 1960 and former treasurer of the Democratic City (Boston) Committee, 1946 to 1960.

She was an alternate delegate to the National Democratic Convention in Houston, Texas, in 1928 when Governor Al Smith of New York was nominated for the presidency.

She leaves her husband, Francis X. Sheehan; five sons, Francis X. Sheehan, Jr., production executive of the Boston Herald-Traveler and chairman of the Norwood School Committee, Robert L. of Dorchester, associate professor at Boston College, Carroll P. of Milton, vice-president of R. M. Bradley and Co., Richard F. of Dorchester, member of the Sheriff's Department, Suffolk County, and Atty. Thomas A. of Dorchester, former state representative and legal counsel for the Massachusetts Youth Service Board.

She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Margaret M. McGinnis of LaPlata, Maryland, and 15 grandchildren.

A High Mass was sung December 21 at St. Ann's Church, Neponset.

Interment was at Blue Hills Cemetery, Canton.

Jap Labor Shortage

Toyota Motor Company switched 300 clerical workers to production jobs. An electronics concern established a plant in a housing development area to lure housewives to work. Many companies have recruiters in Okinawa. A Labor Ministry survey reports Japan needs 1.5 million more skilled workers.

The worker shortage speeds automation. At Honda Motor Company's auto plant near Tokyo, two massive machines and 10 men handle the work formerly done by 150 men and more than 100 machines in making brake-drums. A shortage of welders turns shipbuilders to automated systems. Japan's Economic Planning Agency says worker shortages have begun "to slow down the industrial development of Japan."

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

Personnel Order No. 1472

A Board of Merit consisting of Superintendents Herbert F. Mulloney, William J. Taylor, John T. Howland, William A. Bradley and Lieutenant John F. Kreckler convened for the purpose of selecting officers who have distinguished themselves in the performance of duty so as to merit the award of the Walter Scott Medal for Valor and the Department Medal of Honor.

The Board of Merit after due deliberation selected each of the following officers who, in the judgment of the members of the Board, are entitled to the awards designated.

THE WALTER SCOTT MEDAL FOR VALOR,
THE DEPARTMENT MEDAL OF HONOR,
THE THOMAS F. SULLIVAN AWARD, AND THE BOSTON POLICE RELIEF AS-SOCIATION AWARD

Patrolman Edward J. Phelan of District Four

On Thursday, March 16, 1967, at about 1.36 P.M., an emergency call was received advising of a holdup of a bank in the Back Bay area. Investigation revealed that a man had entered the bank carrying a Luger-type pistol and ordered all employees and customers to lie on the floor. He disarmed the Security Guard. When one of the female customers failed to comply with his order, he struck her on the head and she was taken to the Boston City Hospital and held for treatment of a fractured skull.

Three employees were ordered to stand up and fill a paper bag with money; when filled, the holdup man fled the bank and he was seen to enter a taxicab which had stopped for a traffic signal.

At this time, Patrolman Phelan while on his dinner relief observed this man enter the taxicab with a gun in his hand and pointed at the head of the driver who leaped from the cab with the armed man jumping into the front seat and attempting to drive the vehicle from the scene.

Patrolman Phelan jumped from his own car and drawing his service revolver ran to the cab and opened the front door. The robber pointed his gun at the patrolman, pulled the trigger twice but it did not go off. Patrolman Phelan grabbed this weapon with his left hand and struck the holdup man across the face with his service revolver.

In the meantime, other officers responded to the scene in answer to a radio call and observed Patrolman Phelan struggling with the man in the taxicab. They assisted in disarming the robber. About $4,000 in United States currency taken from the bank was recovered.

Patrolman Emilio P. Puopolo of District 6 and detailed to the Bureau of Field Operations, Patrol "A", is hereby awarded a Department Medal of Honor for meritorious police duty performed on October 11, 1966.

Patrolman Puopolo, while on a paid detail at a restaurant on Northern avenue, observed a white Cadillac Coupe with three male occupants parked in a lot nearby. Knowing that an automobile of similar description had been stolen from the same parking lot a week previous, Patrolman Puopolo became suspicious and decided to investigate. Upon questioning these individuals, none were able to produce identification and with revolver drawn, the officer ordered the three men from the vehicle, handcuffed two of them together and marched the three to the kitchen of the restaurant. Assistance from District 6 was summoned. A search of the vehicle revealed a black .32 calibre automatic and a .38 calibre Colt revolver, both loaded lying on the floor.

As a result of this arrest, two of the men were identified by a store owner in Dorchester as the men who had held him up earlier that evening. The Cambridge Police Department reported two of the men had been identified as having been involved in an attempted robbery in that city that same night and default warrants issued by Middlesex Superior Court were outstanding against them.

Patrolman Lawrence M. O'Keefe of District 6 is hereby awarded a Department Medal of Honor for meritorious police duty performed on December 28, 1966.

Patrolman O'Keefe assigned to surveillance at a package goods store on B street, South Boston, due to the rash of holdups in that section, observed a man enter the store with a revolver in his right hand and state to the owner that it was a holdup, to put the money into a paper bag and not to make a wrong move. The robber stepped around to look into the back room and Patrolman O'Keefe with his gun drawn confronted the man and ordered him to drop his gun. The robber pointed his gun at Patrolman O'Keefe who then fired one round from his service revolver, the bullet striking the gunman in the chest.

The officer, after removing a .38 calibre revolver from the subject's right hand and a loaded .38 from his belt, requested the owner to call for assistance. The gunman was placed under arrest and conveyed to the Boston City Hospital where he was treated for a puncture wound of his left chest.

The subject was later held for the Grand Jury for this offense and three additional robberies which had been committed in the South Boston area.

Detective Robert L. Cunningham, detailed to the Tactical Patrol Force, and Patrolman Frederick J. Bostrom of the Tactical Patrol Force are hereby awarded a Department Medal of Honor for meritorious police duty performed on October 31, 1966.

Detective Cunningham and Patrolman Bostrom were assigned to patrol a particular section of District 4 for the purpose of combating assaults and unarmed robberies that were taking place in the area.

At about 12.05 A.M., on Tuesday, November 1, 1966, they observed concealed in a doorway two men whom the officers believed were there to commit a robbery. The officers secreted themselves on the opposite side of the street and kept both under surveillance. Fifteen minutes later, they observed these subjects, armed with guns, jump from the doorway and then heard the sound of three shots. One of the men dropped to the sidewalk and the other ran in the direction of Carlton street. The officers gave chase; at a point about 150 feet from Columbus avenue the subject turned, pointed his revolver at the two police officers and attempted to fire the weapon. (Later examination of the revolver determined that the primer of one cartridge had been struck by the firing pin without detonating.)

Patrolman Bostrom drew his service revolver and fired at the subject who, again, attempted to run but was overtaken by the officers.

The victim of the shooting was pronounced dead on arrival at the Boston City Hospital.

Patrolmen John F. Dwyer, presently assigned to the Traffic Division, and Clifford R. Stronach of District 7 are hereby awarded a Department Medal of Honor for meritorious police duty performed on January 9, 1967.

Patrolman Dwyer and Patrolman Stronach responded to an alarm of fire in a third-floor apartment of a multiple brick dwelling owned by the Boston Housing Authority on Maverick street, East Boston. It was reported that children were trapped in the building.

The officers raced to the third floor, battered down the door and attempted to enter the smoke-filled apartment but were forced to retreat to the hall. Shielding their faces and crawling on their hands and knees, they reentered and removed two children who informed the officers their brothers and sisters were still inside. They went back and found the children, seven in number, and brought all to safety, making a total of nine children saved at this time.

Although exhausted and near collapse, the officers again entered the apartment and in the rear bedroom found the father screaming out of the window and his wife lying on the floor with their baby in her arms. Joining hands in single file, the officers led them to safety. Both officers were removed to the East Boston Relief Station and treated for smoke inhalation.

Patrolman Robert E. Senier, Patrolman William P. Lydon and Patrolman John Necco, III, of the Tactical Patrol Force, are hereby awarded a Department Medal of Honor for meritorious police duty performed on October 19, 1967.

These officers were assigned on patrol in areas of District 4. During the course of their patrol they received information concerning four males who were armed and believed to be engaged in a robbery.

At about 9.20 P.M., these officers observed a taxicab containing four men answering the description furnished. They followed the taxicab to 1490 Dorchester avenue where it stopped for a considerable length of time and then proceeded to a parking lot at the rear of 778 Adams street at which point two men alighted and walked toward a liquor store.

Patrolman Lydon walked over to the taxicab and Patrolmen Senier and Necco followed the two men on foot with intention of questioning them. One of the men drew a revolver from his pocket and placed the muzzle against Patrolman Senier's head. Patrolman Necco scuffled his feet behind one of the culprits which caused him to turn momentarily. As he did so, Patrolman Senier seized the revolver by the cylinder to prevent it being cocked; at the same moment, Patrolman Necco struck the suspect on the head with his service revolver and both were taken into custody. Meanwhile, Patrolman Lydon at the taxicab with gun drawn, placed the two men therein under arrest.
